Village Stands Ready Against Cold Snap

A cold wave hit the Northwest suburbs yesterday but Elk Grove Village streets are as ready as possible for safe driving despite Sunday's snowstorm, according to Jack Andrews of the village street department.

Man Attends White House Conference

Donald Fraher, 20, of Elk Grove Village, attended the White House Conference on Children last month in Washington, D.C.

Fraher attends the American University in Washington, where he is majoring in political science. He was one of 4,000 delegates appointed to the conference.

The conference is a national meeting which has been held once each decade since President Theodore Roosevelt began it in 1909.

Fraher said he feels the conference is more of a tradition than anything else. He said, "If there will be any effect it will be a national one. But it is unlikely considering past conferences."

Only the 1969 conference appeared to have far reaching effects since it resulted in the establishment of the Children's Bureau and the Child Welfare League of America.

This year's conference dealt with the topics such as the rights of children in trouble with the law, continued neglect and abuse of children, and children's right to read.

It was divided into seven major categories: individuality, learning, health, parents and families, the community and environment, laws, rights and responsibilities and child service institutions.

The conference is held to assess the status of American children and find ways to increase their opportunities for better health, education and achievement of their full potential.

The findings of the conference will be published in a report to the President to be studied and acted upon at state and local levels in a series of regional conferences this spring.

Fraher said that if anything from the conference affects Elk Grove Village it will probably be the recommendation that day care be available for all children.

"I think that mothers should be with children for the first five years of their life if at all possible," Fraher said, disagreeing with the philosophy behind the recommendation.

Originally the White House Conference dealt with children and youth but it was split into two national meetings this year. A White House Conference on Youth will be held this April.

Fraher said he hopes to be selected for this conference also, which he feels may have more effects on the teenage problems today.

Some 225 man-hours went into the clean-up procedure following more than 12 hours of snow Sunday. The Chicago Weather Bureau reported 7.1 inches of snow at O'Hare International Airport as of midnight Sunday, but unofficial reports showed foot-high snow in the North and Northwest suburbs.

Today's weather is expected to be sunny and colder with temperatures between 15 and 20 degrees above zero and winds up to 25 miles an hour.

Andrews said a nine-man crew, aided by two men from the water department, were clearing snow from 10:30 a.m. Sunday morning until past 3 a.m. yesterday. He and the crew were back on the job at 8 a.m. yesterday to begin salting.

THE SALTING and clearing of intersections is all the street department can do when cold weather hits after a snowstorm, according to Andrews. The rest is up to the driver. He advises careful driving to anyone on the streets today.

Andrews said most main streets were clean down to the pavement yesterday, making driving easier but side streets were still covered with snow and slush. With the zero temperature forecasted for last night the snow will have turned to ice. However, the street department cannot salt all the streets in the village, Andrews said.

He said it takes an average of 17 hours work following a snowstorm to clear streets of snow and then to salt them.

One of the biggest problems Sunday was the amount of parked cars, he said. "Parked cars are always a problem but it was worse than normal Sunday," he said.

Andrews recommended that residents keep cars and garbage cans off the streets. The garbage cans, if too close to the curb, may be knocked over by the snowplows, he explained.

Ice Breaks— Boy, 8, Saved By Friend

A 12-year-old Hoffman Estates boy rescued his 8-year-old companion Saturday after the younger child fell through the ice on a pond north of 529 Edgely Ln., police said.

The two were playing on the ice at 3:09 p.m. Saturday when James Devona, 8, of 545 Devonshire Ln. fell through. Darryl Vining, 12, of 541 Devonshire Ln., pulled James out, covered him with his own dry coat and ran home to get help.

The Hoffman Estates Fire Department ambulance took James to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was examined and released.

"I really think Darryl deserves some praise," said Mrs. James Devona. "We owe much thanks to him," she said about her son's rescuer.

"JIMMY HAD BEEN warned the area is isolated, that ice is thin, and the pond is deep, but he disobeyed."

"He was up to his neck in water when Darryl grabbed his hands."

The pond is at the bottom of Kingsdale Drive in Highpoint, Mrs. Devona said.

"I really think you should warn other parents," she added.

"We've seen children bigger than my son playing hockey there. There are no signs, and the pond can barely be seen."

Mrs. Devona said she and her husband told their son not to go on the pond.

"He had to learn the hard way. At least he's still with us," she added.

"I've received so many phone calls... I've passed the word to everyone I can."

Police Chief John O'Connell said patrolmen in the village will often have youngsters leave the ice ponds marked with green flags.

O'Connell said his men would rather have the skaters leave if the ice looks thin than pull one of the skaters from the pond later.

Highway Tragedy Kills 5

Silence In Singleton Home...

The Singleton house at 404 Ridgewood Rd. in Elk Grove Village remains empty in this, the first week of the new year.

Normally there would be laughter and the countless other sounds that accompany children living in the white frame building with the bright blue trim.

Instead, there is nothing. It is quiet.

A four-foot artificial Christmas tree is in the living room not too far from a red cardboard fireplace. There are a few games around the bottom of the tree. Christmas cards decorate the doorway leading to the kitchen where a copy of Chicago Today from Dec. 23 lies on the kitchen table.

The Singletons left Elk Grove Village for the holidays in order to be in Tazewell, in Claiborne County, Tenn., to spend time with relatives.

Edsel Singleton, 32, a centerless grinder at R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co., 300 Bond St., Elk Grove Village, had gotten the time off from work to make the long road trip to be with his family and friends.

EARLY SUNDAY the trip ended in a tragedy when the Singleton stationwagon collided head-on with another car on Interstate 74 near Shelbyville, Ind. All members of the Singleton family died with the exception of Donna Sue, 20 months old, who was reported in critical condition with internal injuries yesterday at the Shelbyville Major Hospital.

Three middle-aged women, passengers in the other car that had been in the highway's westbound lane traveling east, also died in the fiery collision.

Eight persons died, making the auto accident one of the worst in Indiana. Nine died in another accident in 1969.

The Rev. Schuyler Butler, of the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave., where the Singletons were members, said the congregation was shocked when it heard the news of the deaths after Sunday's 8:30 a.m. service. A short memorial service was then held for the family at the next service.

"They were all very faithful and active in the church," said the Rev. Butler. "They had plenty of that old southern hospitality and they were tremendous people."

Alice Singleton, 30, was in charge of the nursery-cradle roll at the Sunday School and Edsel was a member of the church's welcoming committee. Mrs. Singleton was also active with the women's missionary fellowship and a counselor to the girls club.

THE SINGLETONS lived in Elk Grove Village since early 1966. Three of their children attended Ira Rupley School.

Office Equipment Stolen Sunday

Office machine equipment valued at more than $800 was reported taken Sunday in a burglary of the Carroll Realty office, 806 Oakton St., Elk Grove Village.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of possession of a hypodermic needle and syringe was dismissed Dec. 23 against Michael J. Taylor, 17, of Rural Rte. 2, Bensenville, in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court. He had been arrested by Elk Grove Village police Sept. 18 in a car near Arlington Heights and Landmeier roads.

Earn CPA Degrees

John P. Finn and Leonard D. Kenney of Elk Grove Village have been awarded certified public accountant certificates from the University of Illinois.

"They were very, very quiet people but also very supportive of school and involved with their children," said Ronald Glovetzki, principal.

Nancy Roth, of 280 Redwood Ave. and a friend of the Singletons, who was at the Singleton home yesterday said, "Each of them had a very personal relationship with Christ. They knew that He was the answer."

Eldon Roth, who accompanied his wife to the house, said, "We knew them fairly well. We used to live right around the corner on Willow Lane. They were very regular in attendance at church."

"I remember before he left, Edsel — he didn't like to be called Ed — didn't want to leave right away because Johnny Cash was on television that night," said Roth.

Michael Frisby, general manager at Mr. Singleton's place of employment, said:

"I knew him as well as I could. He was very capable — one of the best men I had out there as far as capability to produce."

Frisby said Singleton "took a lot of pride in his work and he was very conscientious — a very unusual guy."

Singleton was employed at the firm, makers of precision products, for 1½ years.

Frisby said the employees may send flowers or take up a collection in memory of the family which will be buried in Tennessee. Funeral arrangements were not complete yesterday.

Firemen Put Out Fire In Truck

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department was called early yesterday to put out a fire in a truck near York Road and Pratt Avenue, firemen reported.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Year's weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

Federal Communications Commission

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview, for a leadership position. The party traditionally has had two house leadership positions with one filled by a Chicago legislator and one by a downstate legislator.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

Greater Voice For Suburban Demos?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Chouteau, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake

County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

WILLIAM ROSE, of 111 Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village, recently received a certificate for horse-care from the College of DuPage.

'Visitors' Win 15,290 To 13,398

Tired but victorious, 21 boys from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling finished their marathon basketball game on New Year's Day, 152 hours after they started.

In completing the game they raised approximately $700 for the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling, the amount pledged by residents. They also broke a world record of 151 hours of continuous basketball set by the Aurora Basketball Association.

"At the end, we were tired. We were playing hard," said Holmes eighth grader Jeff Kohler, one of the marathon organizers. He added, "There were a lot of people there watching us."

Kohler said that "everyone at school's been talking about it," since classes resumed Monday following Christmas vacation. "We'd do it all again," he said.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, termed the boys' efforts "tremendous."

"This kind of commitment by kids in junior high school for a community need should be an inspiration to all of us. When you think of all the kids who are destructive, this is pretty inspiring," Wynn said.

The boys played in four-hour shifts, with an eight hour rest period between each playing period.

The game was continuously supervised by members of the Holmes faculty. Holmes faculty members Jerry Kerner and Jim Messer helped organize the marathon.

Police Find Pair Dead In Home

An Arlington Heights doctor and his wife were found dead in their home Sunday, apparently victims of gunshot wounds.

Dead are Dr. Earl S. Stephenson, 66, and his wife, about 63. They were found by police lying on a bed in their home at 223 S. Highland Ave., about 3 p.m. Sunday. Police said a .44-caliber magnum pistol was held in the doctor's right hand.

On a night table near the bodies, police found a note which read, "We are in love. We are tired. We are old."

Police went to the home after the operator of a telephone answering service reported that Dr. Stephenson, usually very punctual, had not answered any messages since Friday afternoon. Police said the couple had last been seen when they left the home of friends in Long Grove about 5 p.m. Friday, apparently in good spirits.

The deaths occurred late Saturday afternoon, according to a doctor who examined the bodies.

ALTHOUGH ABOUT 37 boys were on hand when the game started Dec. 26, the number had dwindled to 21 when the game concluded late in the afternoon on New Year's Day.

They included Brian Cash, Mark Dunsmore, Bob Nelson, Simon Torres, Greg Polcyn, Mark Nelles, John Kellin, Nick Bellevia, Paul Rowley, Orn Backstrom, John Plough, Mike Hallstrom, Dan Ziolkowski, Jeff Olson.

Terry Holland, Dave Peterson, Larry Evertson, Rick Schroeder, Barry Haeger, Kip Pryby, and Jeff Kohler.

The "visitors" won the marathon, beating the "home" team 15,290 to 13,398, but it was the number of hours, not the score, that counted.

Roselle Man Dead In Auto Accident

A Roselle man died on his 21st birthday, New Year's Day, when the auto he drove northbound on Rt. 53 went out of control, rolling over as it left the roadway about 300 feet south of Golf Rd.

Dead is William J. Brink, 21, of 6 N. 371 Keeney Rd., Roselle. A passenger in his car, Roger Carr, 20, of 25 W. 175 Lake St., Roselle, was discharged Sunday from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, where he was taken by Schaumburg Village Police. Hospital authorities said he had been admitted to the intensive care unit with multiple injuries.

Schaumburg police were called to the scene at 1:20 a.m. They said they found Brink lying on the ground about three feet from his auto, which was 150 feet west of the road. Brink was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Alexius Hospital, where he was taken by Schaumburg Police Dept. ambulance. Dist. 3 State Police, who are investigating, said a coroner's inquest would be held to determine cause of death.

While Schaumburg police stood by at the accident, Trooper Lonnie Nelson, State Police, is conducting the investigation.

Two Certified In Care Of Horses

Two Elk Grove Village residents received certificates following completion of an eight-week symposium on horse care at the College of DuPage in Glen Ellyn.

They were William Rose, 111 Higgins Rd., and Mrs. Norman Roubik, 83 S. Arlington Heights Rd. Rose attended graduation ceremonies in the uniform of the Medinah Temple Black Horse Troop and with a horse dressed in a cap and gown.

under the direction of Richard Hobson of Oak Brook, a former major general in the British army and director of the Oak Brook School of Horsemanship.

The course, which was completed by 50 area men and women, was offered as a community service in response to requests from citizens of the area.

A second session of the horse car symposium is tentatively scheduled to begin Feb. 18. Persons may register by contacting Dr. Joseph Palmieri of La Grange Park, chairman of physical education at the College of DuPage.

Sponsored by the college's physical education department, the Symposium, "Horse Sense for Humans," met weekly

Tie Vote Delays 211-214 Decision

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 53 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

If the disannexation petition is turned down, the Rolling Meadows residents will have to wait one year before filing again to have the boundary lines changed.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT was representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High.

If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214

Church Services Set For Epiphany

Two special church services will be conducted this week by members of the Holy Resurrection Orthodox Church in observance of Epiphany. The announcement was made yesterday by Father Cyril Lukashonak, pastor.

Tonight, the eve of Epiphany, a great vespers service and the blessing of the water will be held. The service begins at 7 p.m. at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

Tomorrow, the day of Epiphany, a divine liturgy service will be held at 10 a.m. at the congregation's rectory, 1046 Wheeling Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Father Lukashonak said that in the Orthodox Church, "Epiphany is a celebration of when Christ was baptized in the River Jordan. It was at this point that Christ's ministry started."

TWO MORE POINTS were recorded as the basketball marathon at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High in Wheeling moved into its closing hours. Competing were students Barry Haeger, Mike Hallstrom, Larry Evertson and Bob Nelson. Proceeds from the 152 hour marathon will benefit the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling. The game was sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

Graham Big Winner In State

by ED MURNANE

When the Illinois Senate is gavelled into session tomorrow afternoon, Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, will take his place in the Senate chamber with the distinction of winning his office with the second highest plurality in the 58-member Senate.

Graham defeated Democrat Paul Shanyfelt of Elk Grove Village in November by 36,588 votes.

Only Sen. Charles Chew, D-Chicago, recorded a higher plurality, defeating his Republican opponent by 42,086.

Graham's plurality was more than double that of any other suburban Republican senator.

The closest contest in the suburbs was in the Fifth District, in Proviso Township, where Sen. Howard Mohr, R-Forest Park, defeated Democrat John E. Dvorak by only 743 votes.

Dvorak's showing, like the showing of most other Democrats, probably was due largely to the pulling power of Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III. But Dvorak also had the benefit of a great deal of publicity last year as a delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sen. John W. Carroll, R-Park Ridge, Senate, defeated his Democratic opponent who represents the Fourth District in the ment, Alan J. Scheffres, by 3,487 votes.

The closest race in the state saw Sen. Meade Baltz, R-Joliet, defeat Democrat Leroy Van Duyn by 233 votes.

THE EXPECTED battles in the Senate, caused by the surprising Democratic gains which gave them a 29-29 tie and control in organizing the Senate because Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat, won't happen in the future.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, the state will have 59 Senate districts, the same number as the House. With 59 districts, the closest the Senate will come to a tie is a 30-29 split.

That fact, plus the pending redistricting of Illinois legislative districts this year, should add to the fires in the Senate.

Both parties will want the lines drawn to give them the new seat. Based on population changes in Illinois during the past 10 years, the new seat probably will go to the suburbs, most likely giving the Republicans a one-man edge in 1973 if other things remain the same.

But don't count on that. Presidential year elections are hard to predict and, since both Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Sen. Charles Percy are up for reelection, there's no way the outcome of state races can be predicted now.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT yesterday by Democratic members of the Illinois House that they will seek an additional leadership position during the 77th General Assembly is something akin to a proposal made last year by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Chapman suggested that suburbanites in the House — both Democrats and Republicans — form a suburban bloc to give the suburbs a greater voice in Springfield. Nothing amounted from it, however.

Yesterday's proposal would establish a third leadership position for the Democrats with the additional person coming from the suburbs. The two leadership positions in the House have traditionally been held by representatives from Chicago and downstate.

Take Road Widening Step

Widening of Higgins Road between Arlington Heights Road and Interstate 90 came a step closer yesterday when the Cook County Forest Preserve District granted an easement totaling seven acres to the Illinois State Highway Commission.

The board of commissioners, in its regular meeting, gave its approval to provide easements in exchange for $36,550 and 1.97 acres adjacent to the north side of Higgins Road, about one mile west of Arlington Heights Road.

Arthur L. Janura, forest preserve general superintendent, said following the meeting he understood the highway commission paid about $100,000 to a private party for the land in the heart of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Scheduled improvements include widening of Higgins Road to eliminate a bad curve which has been blamed for numerous auto accidents in the past year.

Rick DuBrow Cigarette Ban Top Event

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The big television event of the New Year's weekend was, of course, the disappearance of cigarette commercials from the home screen, in compliance with a government ban.

The cigarette firms naturally will allot their advertising funds to other outlets now. And they have made it known that, as an example, they will promote such happenings as sports events that will likely plug their brands in a way that video cameras could not help pick up.

But make no mistake about it, such promotions are strictly small potatoes compared with the body blow the cigarette industry suffered as a result of the television ban.

PAST SURVEYS — in England, for instance — have made rather clear that a television ban on cigarette commercials is not too likely to cause most smokers to stop buying their favorite butts, although other later statistics indicate anti-smoking ads have had solid effect.

There is one overriding fact, however, that has recently been only slightly remembered in the drive to get cigarette ads off the publicity owned airways.

And it is this: Although there has been an emphasis on getting people to quit smoking, the chief underlying aim was to use video techniques, and the ban, to discourage youngsters from picking up the cigarette habit.

Some years ago, when television's anti-smoking drive was getting up steam as a result of the U. S. surgeon general's report noting cigarettes as a potential health hazard, it was generally agreed that most smokers probably would stick with their habit, or at best cut down, an obvious prediction despite the numbers who have quit. AT THE SAME time, however, there was supposed to be an alteration in cigarette commercials — a deglamorization of the ads so that they would not romanticize the attractions of smoking in order to lure potential young customers.

There was some toning down at the time, but, with no one keeping a forceful watch, the romanticism and glamorizing steadily, then blatantly, came right back into the ads, with only modest adjustments.

Perhaps the fate of cigarette ads on television has long been sealed. But one cannot help wondering whether the wrath of the ban would have been the same if the promise of deglamorized smoking commercials had not been so crassly and obviously broken.

NBC Continues Plug On Ecology

by VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD UPI — NBC, like a zealous parent with a backward child, will thankfully continue to plug away at ecology and man's environmental rape of the earth.

On Jan. 8 the network will beam "Say Goodbye," a documentary on the disappearing species of animals.

Poet-performer Rod McKuen will narrate the hour-long show. He is a wise choice inasmuch as McKuen has been a conservationist for as long as he can remember.

"THE PREMISE of this show is that we're killing off wildlife at such a rate that soon there will be nothing left for men to kill except one another," he said.

McKuen rattled off a few statistics: "At least 250 species have been destroyed in the past 2,000 years. Of that number 166 have disappeared in the last 50 years. In 1940 there were 60,000 pelicans on the Texas gulf coast. Today only 37."

McKuen said some scenes in the documentary are frightening. "There are shots of men clubbing seals and shooting polar bears from helicopters."

"And the film shows how the herds of elephants, giraffes and other animals are being wiped out of Africa's Serengeti Plains. The balance of nature is being destroyed."

McKuen is actively engaged in sparing the lives of domestic animals with a half-dozen programs.

I'VE ESTABLISHED a scholarship fund for students of veterinary medicine at the University of Nebraska," he explained. "And I hope to set up similar funds at other schools."

"There aren't enough young people going into the field. Many of them because they can't afford it."

"Half the income from my new record album will go to start a new pet magazine, the profits of which will be donated to animal hospitals.

"There are a lot of women's clubs without enough projects to keep them busy. I'd like to organize them in a program to reduce the number of stray animals, to aid the sick ones and see that others are cared for."

"Eventually I'd like to interest large foundations in buying large parcels of land as reserves outside major cities for aged and abandoned house pets," McKuen said.

"A project of those dimensions are beyond my financial means. But if corporations and foundations could be prevailed upon, such a thing is possible," McKuen concluded.

The Doctor Says:

Healthy Living Curbs Cholesterol

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb —Several weeks ago I had some tests recommended because I am an "aspiring executive" 46 years old. My doctor said my cholesterol was all right but my "blood fat" was too high. He prescribed some medicine and said I had to take it the rest of my life. He said my blood fat might be just as important as my cholesterol and suggested that I write you about it. Naturally, I am interested, and I'd also like to know how to lower my blood fat without taking medicine the rest of my life.

Dear Reader — There are a number of different "blood fat" measurements. Your doctor is probably talking about "triglycerides." This is the term used for the three fat particles joined chemically to be transported in the blood. The tri-fat particle is tied to varying amounts of cholesterol. Some tests are only for cholesterol and others measure these and other fat products.

It is true that triglycerides are important. They are also more difficult to measure than cholesterol. All of these tests, including examinations and one test alone does not tell the whole story. Under stress, the level may be up and the next day it may be down. Repeated determination is needed to really know how much trouble a person has, if any.

Medical students taking a final exam have had very high cholesterol levels at exam time. There are different methods, too, which cause different values.

Now what to do about it? I don't blame you for not wanting to take medicine the rest of your life. Sometimes medicine is indicated but very often you can do as much or more for yourself with a good diet and exercise program. The goal is to eliminate, in so far as possible, any excess fat stores. Both the diet and exercise program should be gradual and persistent. Persistent means every day. I have had great success in keeping blood fats and cholesterol levels within normal limits in people who have really followed such program.

Many people are not successful in such programs because they lose five or 10 pounds of fat when they need to lose 30 or more.

I can't stress too strongly the necessity for a good preventive program for an "aspiring executive" in your age group. One-half of the people with heart attacks die before they can reach a special heart unit for treatment and many others are disabled. Clearly, the sensible program is to prevent such a disaster by proper living habits. That means no cigarettes, a proper diet and exercise program combined with other sensible living patterns.

I prefer to have people adjust their living patterns first and then see if medicine is really needed — (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Taxpayers Ask The IRS

Q — WHAT TAX records do you need to file a return? I just started work and will be paying tax for the first time next year.

A — You will need records to show your income and expenses for the year. If taxes are withheld by your employer, he will give you a statement of wages paid and taxes withheld at the end of the year. One copy of this should be filed with your return.

If you are not subject to withholding be sure to keep a record of your earnings. You may have to make estimated tax payments during the year to keep you on the same pay-as-you-go basis as those subject to withholding. Forms and instructions for making estimated payments are available at your local IRS office.

You should also keep a record of all expenses that are deductible for federal income tax purposes. This would include medical expenses, charitable contributions, interest expenses and the like. Receipts, cancelled checks and similar evidence on these expenses should be kept in a file folder or special envelope so that they will be readily available when you start working on your tax return next year.

Q — CAN THE fellow who made out my return handle my tax appeal? He knows more about it than I do.

A — It depends on his qualifications. If the tax adviser is a certified public accountant, a lawyer or has passed a special examination given by the Treasury Department, then he can represent you. A tax return preparer without these qualifications can only assist the taxpayer during the examination of the return and not thereafter.

Q — IS IT TOO late to make a change in the return I filed for 1969? I think I omitted a deduction for moving expenses.

A — You may still claim this expense by filing Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. As a general rule, you have three years from the date your return was due to claim items you forgot. Copies of the form and instructions for completing it may be obtained by writing to your District Director.

Q — IS MONEY GIVEN a maid for carfare subject to Social Security tax?

A — Yes, the Social Security tax applies to the total cash paid a household employee, even though some is paid for transportation.

Tax payments for the July, August, September quarter are due Nov. 2. Any person who has paid $50 or more cash wages in a quarter to an employee for household services (cleaning, gardening, etc.) must file a return using Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees.

Win at Bridge

by OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

The silliest hand for 1970 was played by a nameless expert in the blue ribbon pairs at the Fall Nationals in Houston, Texas.

Four spades was the final contract at practically every table with South usually winding up with 11 tricks. Our nameless expert arrived at the normal contract whereupon East led the four of diamonds out of turn. South had a choice of penalties and required that the four of diamonds remain as an exposed card.

West opened the five of clubs and for some reason East decided to play the queen rather than the ace. South won with the king and saw what appeared to be a real opportunity to take advantage of the exposed card.

He led a heart to dummy's queen. East took his king and had to lead the four of diamonds. South played low. He planned to discard his jack of clubs on dummy's ace of hearts, but West ruffed that diamond lead. He led another club to his partner's ace, back came a second diamond to be ruffed and South had gone down one.

This may have constituted a record for tricks chucked. If South had started on trumps after the first trick he would have picked up the suit. East would have had to discard that four of diamonds on the third trump lead. South could then go after diamonds by leading toward dummy's king. West would show out, whereupon South would fumble against East's queen and eventually discard his jack of clubs on dummy's fifth diamond to wind up with all 13 tricks.

The Way We See It

Democratic Rebirth?

It's hard to say who can profit more by the political events of 1970 — the Republicans or the Democrats.

As we said in the columns Monday, the resounding defeat of the Republican Party in Illinois last year indicated a need for a review of some basic party policies, so also did 1970 carry a message for Democrats.

For years, the Democratic Party has been an unaccepted step child in the eyes of suburban voters. The party itself must accept the blame for that.

Democratic candidates for statewide offices wrote off the suburbs and hoped to win the pluralities they needed in Chicago. They did not consider the suburbs worth the effort and voting results reflected their lack of interest.

During the past decade, it became obvious that the Democratic Party must change its opinion of the suburbs if it was to continue as a major force in the state. When the 1960s ended, Illinois had a Republican governor, two Republicans in the United States Senate and both houses of the Illinois legislature were controlled by Republicans.

Much of the Republican support came from the suburbs. Population trends, confirmed by the 1970 census, showed that suburban votes would increase while the strength of the city voter decreased.

So the Democratic Party was faced with a decision. Either begin to present acceptable candidates to suburban voters or face permanent status as a minority party in Illinois.

Fortunately, the party has begun to recognize the suburbs and the suburbs have found effective Democratic leaders who can appeal to suburban voters.

The 1970 rebirth of the Democratic Party in the suburbs showed its first signs last March when several "independent" Democrats were elected to key positions as township and state central committeemen.

One of these was Lynn A. Williams of New Trier Township, who was elected state central committeeman for the 13th Congressional District.

Williams has insisted the party, under his leadership, will not be patronage-dominated but will build on convictions and attempt to offer candidates who do not represent the old political machine image.

His assessment of what it would take for the party to succeed in suburbs was proven accurate in November when three Democratic candidates for statewide offices performed exceptionally well in the suburbs and, in the case of Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, actually carried a traditional Republican area.

That should be message enough for Illinois Democrats. Suburban voters are not stereotyped Republicans. They will support Democratic candidates if the candidates are good and can be convincing to the voters.

If Illinois Democratic Party leaders recognize this and continue to base their choice of candidates on qualifications, rather than party loyalty, the Democratic Party will continue to make gains in the suburbs and will continue to be a major force in Illinois.

City Beat

A Local Chain Reaction?

by DOUG RAY

The white snow that began early Sunday morning has temporarily cleared the Chicago area skies of excessive air pollution.

And many of us, if not reminded, will probably forget about it until the next time our eyes start itching and a haze is in the air. Last week, the air pollution level almost reached what the Chicago environmental control board calls a yellow alert — air pollution level sufficient to cause respiratory distress.

Will it take a yellow alert, or something else with an equally startling title, to make officials take action to stop the excess pollution immediately? Government has taken some action against pollution, but most of the measures are long range — very long range.

At the local level, Rolling Meadows city council studied the pollution problems — air, water and noise — to see if something could be done. After study, the city council passed a resolution for pollution abatement.

City officials agreed that nothing could be done locally to fight pollution, because they said, it would be too hard to enforce.

To show their concern, city officials sent copies of the resolution to elected state and national officials.

Last week, the city received replies from elected officials, Senator Charles Percy, State Senator John Graham, and State Representatives Eugenia S. Chapman and Eugene Schlickman.

They all said that they would do all in their power to fight the pollution problem.

My question is then, why can't anything be done now by these officials who say they are supporters of pollution abatement? If they don't have the power, then who does?

If something can't be done on a state and federal level to help Chicago area residents be free of pollution, then why not a local effort?

I wonder if large companies and business concerns, who are directly responsible for polluting the air and the water and the noise, would form lobbies at the local level.

The city of Rolling Meadows would be a logical municipality where local pollution ordinances could be enforced. The city is in excellent financial shape. There are no local political parties, which officials might be forced to contend with, if something as drastic as a pollution ordinance were enforced.

The elected city officials seem dedicated enough. Some of them spend most of their week day at city hall discussing one problem or another.

Yes, a local pollution ordinance would be extremely hard to enforce, but most changes are when they are first implemented. But I imagine things would be easier with time.

The city might lose some taxes from a large "polluter" who is wishing to enter the city in the future. But it would be worth it.

A local ordinance and its enforcement, by a city sanitarian, or the city public works department, or a special agency to work with polluters, would be an immediate positive step to fight the pollution problem before an actual yellow, or red or blue alert is called.

Who knows, it might start some sort of chain reaction among suburban municipalities against pollution, if one city shows that enforcement is possible? This question is worth wrangling one of these long week day evenings in city hall.

Tribute Paid To Unsung Heroes

I thought that I would live through this war without receiving any battle scars; however, today I received word that a dear friend of mine was killed in Vietnam. I have no details, just the ugly news of death.

This news shocked me for I last remember this young man laughing with the rest of the troops in Vietnam during Bob Hope's Christmas tour last year. I now realize how many unsung heroes there have been and may be.

I am not a poet or writer, just an average U.S. citizen who feels so helpless in this troubled world. I feel grateful to live in these United States, yet I am filled with guilt to have others fighting a battle which concerns us all. These unsung heroes deserve our praises, not our protests; our prayers, not our pessimism. I feel it would do us all good this Christmas Season to give thanks to all our fine young men who are giving their all and sometimes their lives to preserve freedom. May God Bless all of our unsung heroes who have returned home to loved ones, and those who now live in a Higher Place.

What a Nourishing Diet Can Do

Eye On Arlington

The Major Issue for 1971

by ROGER CAPETTINI

"Spot zoning" may be the most important two words for Arlington Heights in the coming year.

"Spot zoning" is important because it could affect the development of this community for years to come and because it could determine the makeup of the village government for the next four years.

It all centers around the proposal for the development of low-and moderate-income housing on the Viatorian property and the fear that such a development could drastically affect the residential nature of the village.

Potential candidates for the April village board election will have to deal with the term — and the voters, ultimately, will have to come to grips with the two words before they can cast their ballots for the persons they want to lead the village.

The sad and unfortunate aspect of the situation is that, despite the all-critical part the term plays in the future of the village, very few people know what it means.

At best, there is a difference of opinion.

Michael Murray, 409 N. Dryden Ave., Arlington Heights, is keenly interested in the ultimate decision on the Viatorian property. As president of the Greater Eastwood Homeowner's Association, a group which has staunchly opposed the proposal, he said, "When an area is completely surrounded by one type of development, it is wrong to put dissimilar units in that area. This is spot zoning."

Murray added that the density of the existing developed area and how it is being used — not only how it is zoned — has to be considered. The size of the property under question is not a factor, he said.

Jack Siegel, village attorney of Arlington Heights, said, "The Supreme Court has said that spot zoning is simply the reclassification of property in a manner inconsistent with the area and the zoning plan."

Siegel said the question does not relate to the specific size of the land, but rather to the nature of the development. He gave an example of a case in which a court ruled that a change in classification on a 50-by-132-foot lot did not constitute spot zoning. "If the parcel is large enough to create its own environment, it would not constitute spot zoning," the attorney added.

Siegel explained, "The real question is whether the plan is consistent with the surrounding area." He said several factors, including the use of the area, the suitability of the area and the possible change in property values, would all have to be considered in the question.

James T. Ryan is currently serving on the village board and is one of the four trustees who are up for re-election.

Ryan said the term cannot be defined by its elements because there can never be identical situations. "There are no absolute guidelines, but rather broad principles." The trustee said the principles must be considered after the particular facts are plugged into them.

Ryan said the Corpus Juris Secundum, a compilation of the laws of the country, defines spot zoning as "changes or amendments of zoning regulations involving only a single or very few properties and removing therefrom restrictions imposed on surrounding properties."

"Spot zoning, in law, is improper," Ryan added, "except when the change is reasonably related to the public welfare." He said there are many factors to be considered in applying the question to the public welfare, including the existing use of the area, the effect on property values, traffic conditions, aesthetic considerations, hardship and the size of the property.

"There is no rule of thumb on the size, but it plays its part with the other considerations. There is no formula, each case must be decided on its own merits," Ryan said.

Ryan pointed out, for example, that the Illinois Supreme Court has stated that a street is a fair boundary for zoning changes.

Harold Klingner, chairman of the Board of Local Improvements and a member of the village Plan Commission, said spot zoning, in his opinion, involves a small tract of land. Klingner said multiple-family housing proposed in a single-family area, would not constitute spot zoning unless the parcel were less than four acres.

"Spot zoning is bad zoning," Klingner added, "it connotes everything that is bad. It is whatever is bad to the surrounding property and completely out of character with that property."

He added that the size is important only in relation to the surrounding property and pointed out that bad zoning can work both ways. "An 80-acre tract, developed as single-family could be bad zoning if it were surrounded by heavy industry," Klingner explained.

Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights' village planner, said that traditionally the term is used in questions of small areas. Although Kesler agreed that the size could vary greatly depending on the use, he said that in a single-family, multiple-family conflict, he would consider that anything more than 10 acres would not constitute spot zoning. "It could be bad zoning," Kesler said, "but not spot zoning. They're not the same thing."

Although many people directly involved in the issue on one side or the other have an opinion on the meaning of the term, it is possible many voters have little idea of the meaning. Worse yet, they may have an inaccurate impression.

Unfortunately, too, there is no absolute definition of spot zoning. It is strictly a matter of opinion and whether a proposal does or does not constitute spot zoning can only be decided legally by a court of law.

The leaders of any village, then, and more importantly the voters who choose those leaders, can only deal with the problem based on their opinions and good conscience.

Two Churches Expand to Keep Pace

by LEON SHURE

Two Des Plaines churches have been in the news lately — one because it has completed a new building, and the other because it has recently started construction.

A new church for St. Mary's Parish was recently completed at 800 Pearson, after 13 months of construction. The first mass celebrated in the new church was at midnight on Christmas Eve.

The 600,000 building includes modern pews in a semi-circle design around the altar, large confessionals, a bridal dressing room, a special room to bring crying infants who might disturb the parish, and hand-carved statues are all part of the new building, according to church officials.

The new church also has three triangular shaped nave windows with decorated glass. The exterior has a random pattern of granite stone.

Dedication ceremonies will be held in February, according to the Rev. Marlin W. Farrell, St. Mary's pastor.

Ground breaking ceremonies were recently held for an addition to the St.

John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church, and community center, 2350 Dempster, Des Plaines.

A cornerstone for the new domed church, which will connect with the present facility, was put in place during ceremonies led by Nicholas Blase, Maine Township Democratic Committeeman.

Mayor Herbert Behrel, of Des Plaines, spoke at the ceremonies, and several other suburban mayors also attended.

The new church had been planned since 1962, and is designed to seat 600. It is scheduled for completion in September, 1971.

The $518,000 church would serve about 425 families in the North and Northwest suburbs.

When completed, the structure will be shaped to resemble a Greek cross, which has horizontal and vertical bars of equal length, according to the Rev. Emmanuel Lionakis, residing priest.

The ends of the crossbars are round, and circular domed rooms fill the spaces between the arms of the cross-shaped building.

The church will be topped with a central, metal-covered dome, with a cross at its highest point.

The dome will have sloping windows. Light will also come into the church through glass blocks on the walls, Rev. Lionakis said.

Inside, the church will be divided into three parts. There are a raised pulpit, a four section general seating area, and an entrance area.

The new church will replace a 400 seat room in the present St. John building, Rev. Lionakis said. This room will be used for the Sunday School classes, which are now being held in a combined auditorium gym, he said.

THESE SHOES CAN BE worn only by select individuals. They are shoes for leg casts, the invention of Mrs. Don Doak of Mount Prospect. The idea was born of necessity when Mrs. Doak herself needed a foot cover after falling down and breaking a bone in her foot. She makes the shoes in half an hour.

Shoes For Casts

Born Of Necessity

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Mrs. Don Doak claims she is not an inventor. It's a lie.

Her idea for a makeshift shoe to fit the foot portion of a walking cast has no precedent.

"It was simply born of necessity, nothing else," said Mary Doak, a Mount Prospect resident. "I'm not an inventor."

When Mary fell down and broke a bone in her foot last winter in Terre Haute, Ind., where she was teaching English at Indiana State, she wasn't satisfied to wear only a cut-off sock over her chilled toes. It didn't look right. She didn't like it.

"I fooled around in desperation," she said, "just kept experimenting. The whole idea was purely accidental. It came of falling and requiring something."

AFTER A FEW unsuccessful attempts (clear plastic stapled together just didn't cut it), Mrs. Doak came up with a winner using about a fourth of a yard of material and several strips of velcro which allowed the unusual shoe to be adjustable both lengthwise and widthwise. Various trims and buckles offered a variety of looks for different occasions.

With a patent pending on the final pattern, Mrs. Doak tried using other fabrics, durable ones like corduroy or vinyl and elegant materials such as velvets.

"They take about half an hour to make," she said, "and the price would naturally depend upon the material used."

IN HER HOMEMADE shoe Mrs. Doak created a small sensation when she stood in front of her classes lecturing or rambled down the aisles grocery shopping. It was the bemused glances and requests that convinced Mrs. Doak to check into the marketing possibilities.

Besides keeping the cast dry, always a hazard as any present or former cast captive will readily admit, the fabric shoe also keeps dirt and muck from building up on the underside.

Naturally it's not the same as wearing matching shoes, but when one is confined to a cast, certain sacrifices have to be made. Mary Doak's invention is a step up in the world of broken bones and plaster of paris.

THE TIE SHOE is still another style Mrs. Don Doak came up with in designing footwear for casts. Mr. Doak has experimented with making the shoes out of a variety of fabrics. This one is vinyl.

Cleaning Tips

Here are some cleaning tips for stylish leather-like cottons. Leathery vinyl with a cotton backing should be cleaned with a sudsy sponge. Cotton leather that has a silicone finish comes in washable versions and can be dry-cleaned as well.

Narcotics Talk

Sgt. Ken Schack of the Mount Prospect Police Department will talk about narcotics Wednesday evening at the first meeting of the new year for St. Cecelia Altar Guild.

Do you want to get more from your family income? Do you feel "pinched" for money? Do you break a five or a ten dollar bill and then wonder what happened to the change?

If you answer "yes" to any of these questions, Jeanne L. Hafstrom, University of Illinois family economist, recommends keeping family account records.

Use the Illinois Family Account Book to help you start the new year right. You'll know where your family's money goes, and you'll probably find that keeping track of your money leads to more meaningful spending in the future.

THE ILLINOIS Family Account Book is organized to handle a wide range of financial matters. It contains space to enter daily family living expenditures for each month. Pages are arranged so that purchases may be entered on either a cash or credit basis. If you use 30-day charge accounts or revolving charge accounts, you can readily determine how much you owe at any time.

Urban families will find a place for entering their gross income as well as their taxes, income and Social Security. Farm families, who keep separate farm record books, can use this space as a current record of transfers of income from the farm business.

A life insurance coverage record allows you to list the type of policy, the face value of the policy and the monthly premium payments.

ONE SECTION PROVIDES for recording additions to and withdrawals from savings and investments. There is also a place to record all borrowing and repaying transactions on mortgages and notes.

Space is available to record business expenses — membership dues in union and business organizations, purchases of protective clothing and tools required by the employer, and taxes and repairs on income property.

The book also provides an end-of-the-year balance that permits families to compute their net worth at both the beginning and end of the year.

The Illinois Family Account Book costs 50 cents and is available from the University of Illinois Office of Publications, 123 Mumford Hall, Urbana, 61801.

A Look At '70! Top Area Sports Stories

AS IS ALWAYS the case in bidding farewell to an old year, the past few days have been ones for reminiscing about the top news stories of 1970.

Columnists all over the country have been doing so in many different categories. This always makes for some interesting debates, and the same is true on the subject of sports events in the territory served by the Herald.

So it's natural at this time to review and rank in importance the top sports stories in these parts for 1970.

Since the Herald sports staff is as qualified as anyone to undertake this task — we've been right on top of these stories all year — I decided to take nominations and votes from five of our reporters. Contributing their opinions were Sports Editor Bob Frisk, Larry Mlyneczek, Jim Cook, Paul Logan and this reporter.

The results were highly interesting and in several cases very, very close. In fact, points tabulated from the five-man voting showed a dead heat in five cases among the top 27 stories.

The final ranking is sure to prompt some arguments and views from readers, which is great as far as we're concerned. This is our way of seeing that the biggest local athletic accomplishments of the year are not forgotten.

Here, then, is our top ten:

1. FREMD IS MYTHICAL STATE CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPION BUT IS ROBBED OF OFFICIAL TITLE ON TECHNICALITY This unprecedented story is the most bizarre in state cross country history. A Fremd runner who actually finished 46th in the race was disqualified, keeping the Vikings from an easy victory. That runner ran to the wrong side of a barrier, which did not affect the order of finish in any way. But the title was given to Maine East and the second-place award to Fremd. Nevertheless, it was a fabulous season for coach Ron Menely and his stellar squad — Dan Pittenger, Bill Jarocki, Wally Spiniolas, Mike Pitchell, Jim Jarocki, Bill Gross, Steve Maguire and Mark Nugent. For the second straight year, no team came close to them in dual meets.

2. ARLINGTON SWAMPS PROSPECT FOR MID-SUBURBAN LEAGUE FOOTBALL TITLE. The expected close game didn't materialize as the Cardinals romped, 35-7 before the largest crowd ever to witness a sports event in the area, about 7,000. Scott Douglas capped a brilliant season as he rushed for 249 yards and two touchdowns to surpass the all-time league rushing record. Steve Chase ran for 125 yards plus another TD. Casey Rush scored Prospect's lone touchdown and caught seven passes for 82 yards.

3. TOM NEUSES, HARPER COLLEGE FRESHMAN, WINS NATIONAL WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP FOR 150-POUNDERS In the finals at Worth-

ington, Minn. Feb. 28, this remarkable Park Ridge grappler strung together victories by scores of 19-0, 8-6, 4-1, 4-3 and 5-4 for the title. In the win that got him to the championship bout he came from behind to edge the top-seeded man in the country from Oklahoma, then defeated a foe from Muskegon, Mich. for all the marbles. It was no fluke. While at Maine South High School, Neuses had won a state title in his junior year and finished second as a senior.

4. PROSPECT'S WINNING STREAK OF 51 WRESTLING DUALS COMES TO AN END. The Knight grapplers, unbeaten since Jan. 21, 1966, finally tasted defeat at Arlington last January by a stunning 31-8 score. Prospect had a 10-2 lead after the first four matches, but Arlington stormed back to win the last eight bouts, two by 7-0 shutouts and one a quick pin. Even then Prospect still had a chance to keep their sensational streak alive, but the Cards edged out four more close decisions to make it a rout. Both teams had entered the meet undefeated, making it the biggest dual mat event of the season.

5. PROFESSIONAL BASKETBALL COMES TO NORTHWEST SUBURBS. When the Northwest Travelers were born last summer, it was a first for the area. Official announcement of the new franchise, one of two expansion teams in the Continental Basketball Association, was made by commissioner Jack Nagle. The idea had been in the making for some time, but in July it became official that the Travelers, operated by area businessmen, would operate from the local communities of Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine and surrounding area.

6. GARY MORAVA WINS STATE TITLE IN GYMNASTICS ALL-AROUND. The Hersey ace proved himself best in Illinois in his sport with a $9.9 total at the state meet at Prospect. He was second in free exercise and horizontal bar and eighth on the parallel bars to lead the Huskies to runner-up honors. Morava had an 8.7 in free exercise, 8.6 on high bar and 8.0 on parallel bars after scoring 8.65 for second in the preliminaries.

7. ARLINGTON RETIRES PADDOCK CUP. The only school which has ever had possession of the coveted prize won it for the third consecutive year to earn permanent possession. This was a stipulation which was made when the award was initiated. The Cup is given to the school with the best overall record in varsity sports each school year. Competition was closer than ever for the 1969-70 season but the Cards, after trailing in the fall, came on strong in winter and spring sports to edge past Prospect.

8. ARLINGTON SQUEAKS BY HERSEY 139-39 TO 139-28 IN DUAL GYMNASTICS MEET. This was probably the most spectacular prep gym event in area history. A packed house of about 4,000 looked on breathlessly in the Cards' gym as the undefeated state-ranked squads did battle. Arlington, consistent throughout with at least 20 points in every event, came from behind to clinch the meet victory on the rings. Hersey later avenged this by winning the conference meet and overall MSL title. Arlington had been 13-0 and Hersey 16-0 going into this final league dual.

9. DAN PITTENGER SECOND IN STATE CROSS COUNTRY. Pittenger capped a magnificent season, in which he had won by wide margins every race in which he participated, with runner-up honors to Dave Merrick of Lincoln Way, considered the best prep runner in the country. His time of 12:50 at Peoria should by all rights have led Fremd to the state title (see No. 1 story).

10. HERSEY FINISHES SECOND IN GYMNASTICS STATE MEET. Despite making a valiant comeback by scoring in every event in the finals, Hersey could not overcome a 40-point deficit going into that session and totaled 172½ points to champion Hinsdale Central's 185. Gary Morava paced the win (see No. 6 story). Craig Sjogren had 8.8 for second on the rings. Lance Boyett tied for fifth on parallel bars with 8.15. Kyle Wooldridge was sixth on side horse with 7.95 and John Weaver was sixth on trampoline with 8.15.

EVEN THOUGH the following big stories also deserve a preview of some details, space does not permit. Here were some other events that made headlines:

11. Arlington gymnastics dual-meet winning streak extended to 54.

12. Hersey wins regional basketball championship with 42-41 thriller over host Arlington.

13. Arlington cops MSL cage title with 13-1 record.

14. Rich Lynch of St. Viator becomes first area swimmer ever to score in the state meet.

15. Dave Hasbach hurls perfect game for Palatine legion baseball team.

16. (Tie) Benny Fernandez of Elk Grove takes state championship on still rings.

17. Steve Von Ebers of Arlington claims Illinois title in free exercise.

18. Scott Douglas sets rushing records for Arlington football team and is voted Player of the Year in Paddock area by our sports staff.

19. Guy Zajonc scores for Palatine in state track meet (13th consecutive year for Pirates).

20. Arlington runs MSL dual-meet tennis record to 32-0.

STORIES WHICH EARNED HONORABLE MENTIONS:

• Arlington Heights legion baseball team wins both regular-season and playoff championships in Ninth District.

• Mike Spiniolas scores hole-in-one in Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

• Rich Olson compiles 22-game hitting streak for Forest View baseball team.

• St. Viator ties for Chicagoland Prep League baseball championship for second straight year before joining Suburban Catholic League.

• Dave Hasbach becomes eighth leading all-time scorer in Paddock area basketball.

• Prospect has 7-1 record in football and is ranked fourth in Chicago area until final game.

MAY ALL the memories linger on for many years. And may this area produce just as many sports thrills in 1971 as it did in 1970.

Sports Shorts

Prothro's A Winner

The Los Angeles Rams' new football coach Tommy Prothro compiled a 41-18-3 record at Westwood sending two teams to the Rose Bowl and breaking even there. Prothro is believed also to have a five-year contract at $100,000 a year.

Forgotten Fordham 11-0

The surprise basketball team of the year is Fordham, which defeated Princeton 81-71 Saturday night for its 11th victory without a loss. However, the Rams have yet to dent the United Press International's weekly list of top 20 ranked teams.

Winded Archie Goes West

It's on to the Hula Bowl for Archie Manning, the courageous Ole Miss quarterback who won the hearts of Gator Bowl fans Saturday in the Rebels' 35-28 loss to Auburn.

"I don't think that old hospital bed ever got off my back," said Manning. "I never really got my wind back after I went into the hospital with the broken arm after the Houston game."

Nebraska's Writers' Choice

Undefeated Nebraska, a 17-12 winner over LSU in the Orange Bowl on New Year's night, has been chosen as the winner of the Grantland Rice Award given by the Football Writers Association of America to the outstanding college football team.

Louisville Coach Sick

University of Louisville basketball Coach John Dromo, 54, was hospitalized with serious chest pains early Sunday, several hours after his team (8-1) defeated the University of Tulsa, 86-74.

Longden Still Winning

Johnny Longden doesn't need to ride to be a winner. The ex-jockey, whose record of 8,026 winners in 40 years of riding stood as the world record until it was broken last year by Bill Shoemaker, has become a leading trainer since retiring as a jockey in 1966. Among his mounts, Longden trains Jungle Savage, who unleashed a powerful stretch last weekend to score a 3½-length victory over heavily favored Ack Ack in the 19th running of the $32,850 Palos Verdes Handicap at Santa Anita.

Head Coach Named

Larry B. Jones, an assistant coach at Tennessee last season, was named head coach of Florida State.

U.S. Netmen Take Cup

The United States won the Sunshine Junior Cup tennis title Sunday, defeating South Africa. Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., and Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., won straight-set singles victories over opponents Byron Bertram and Ruan Kruger.

Fremd cross country star Dan Pittenger.

Waukegan Tips Travelers

It's too bad it didn't snow harder. Then, maybe the game would have been postponed, and the Northwest Travelers could have tried again some other time.

However, the Continental Basketball Association game was played Sunday evening in Waukegan, and the news — just like the weather — wasn't good for the Travelers.

It would have been a good night to stay home.

Host Waukegan, with only five players in uniform for the first nine minutes, picked up two more as the game progressed and pulled out a thrilling 138-132 victory over Northwest.

With 30 seconds remaining Waukegan held a two-point lead. Northwest's Eddie Modestas fouled Tim Robinson and Robinson hit both throws to put the game out of reach for the Wizards.

The snow storm hit both teams with only six scoring for the Travelers and seven for Waukegan.

Although it was a home game, most of the Waukegan players live out of the immediate area, mostly in Milwaukee, and couldn't get to the game because of the road conditions. Two did arrive late in the first quarter to give the regulars some rest.

With only 100 people looking on, Waukegan jumped out to a quick 11-2 lead Sunday. The Travelers cut the margin to 17-14, but the Wizards reacted out to a 35-19 bulge with 2:40 left in the first quarter.

Waukegan held a 66-63 lead at the intermission and was on top by only four points after three stanzas. Both clubs went on a scoring spree in the final quarter, combining for 84 points, but Waukegan had the needed firepower in the closing, decisive seconds.

The first meeting of the CBA's two Chicago-area teams turned into a scoring duel between the Wizards' Ric Cobb, who survived until the final cut with the Phoenix Suns, and the Travelers' 6-foot-10 Paul Ruffner, who is under contract with the Chicago Bulls.

Ruffner had 43 points for Northwest, hitting 20 baskets and three free throws. Cobb had 42 points and pulled down 18 rebounds.

Also contributing to the Travelers' attack were Modestas and A. W. Holt with 22 each, Dennis Dickens with 20, Joe Jackson with 14, and Sev Brown with 11.

Northwest will return home next Sunday, Jan. 10, to face the powerful Decatur Bullets at 7:30 in the Prospect High School gymnasium.

Cardinals, Grenadiers Lead Off Mid-Suburban Swim Campaign

The Arlington and Elk Grove high school swim teams, second and third place finishers in the Mid-Suburban League last year, will open up against each other this afternoon at 4:15 at Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights.

Arlington, beaten only once in duals this season, is coached by Don Anderson. Elk Grove is coached by Phil Pardun.

Both the Cardinals and the Grenadiers are favored to give defending champion Forest View a lot of trouble in this year's conference race. All three had with 13-2 dual meet marks last season. But the Falcons came on in the conference meet to win the crown.

Wednesday will see the remaining four league schools going at each other. Prospect will be at Wheeling at 4:15 and Forest View will be at Hersey at 6:30.

St. Viator, a Suburban Catholic League team, will have a double meet weekend. The Lions will be at Arlington on Friday (4:30) and at Notre Dame on Saturday (1:30). Also, on Saturday, Forest View will be at Niles West (6:30) and Hersey will be at Waukegan (1:30).

Teen Center Goal Of Jaycees In 1971

by JERRY THOMAS

A teen center for Hoffman Estates youths is part of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees "Do Something" campaign for 1971. The proposed center could cost $100,000, according to Rudolph Ammer, chairman of the Do Something campaign.

"There's a pile of money just sitting in the bank, and the Jaycees working with the youth of the community are going to put it to work," said Ammer.

Ammer said the Jaycees and the student council of James B. Conant High School are working together to make the teen center a reality.

Ammer said the Hoffman Estates Youth Commission has over $20,000 in the bank held in escrow for building of a center.

"WE WILL NEED the entire student body of 2,300 behind this project to make it successful. First indications show we have this support," Ammer said.

Richard Reggio, student council president, is coordinating student involvement. According to Ammer, the center will be designed, decorated, planned and partially built by the students themselves.

Although we are just starting, indications are that everyone is behind this project, said Ammer.

The students in the drafting and drawing classes are working on preliminary plans for a building of about 20,000 square feet.

The art department is making plans for the decoration of the facility. The home economics department is designing a kitchen for the center and other departments are just as involved, Ammer said.

AMMER ADDED THAT besides the funds in the youth commission other groups have shown interest in a community teen center and would donate to funds for its building.

The chairman said some of the construction unions have been contacted about the cooperative work plan utilizing student help. Ammer said besides giving the students valuable building experience their work on the teen center will save money and make the building one they have really worked for.

"This is our major aim; that the teen center be one that was not only wanted by the teens of the community but actively worked for."

Ammer said his group will soon approach architects and talk about costs.

A fund raising drive is tentatively scheduled for April.

"We are hoping for a land donation from a builder or if that doesn't materialize perhaps a leasing arrangement," said Ammer.

Ammer said he has contacted the Hoffman Estates Park District to discuss use of park land as a building site.

"THE PARK DISTRICT agreed to consider the possibility of leasing a site to the center but would prefer us to purchase a site elsewhere," he said.

"We hope we will be able to find a site we can afford but I believe if we have the money for a building, and lack the site, the park district may lease to us," said Ammer.

Ammer said the Jaycees are looking for other organizations within the community to offer suggestions for the Do Something program and help by getting involved.

"It's time to stop talking about things and do something," Ammer said.

Hopefuls Obtain Election Forms

Nominating petitions for the April park district election in Schaumburg were obtained by Kenneth Zonca and Gordon Frank, both of Weathersfield, last week.

The first set of petitions were filed last week by Robert Bock, an incumbent and member of the original park board, who will seek a second term. Being the first candidate to file the top spot on the ballot has been secured by Bock, a resident of Sunset Hills.

Raymond Hum, an appointed incumbent, is also expected to file as a candidate for the four-year unexpired term he now holds.

Petitions are also being circulated by Joseph Sosine, also a former original member of the park board. Sosine resigned several years ago to move to California but has now returned to the district and is residing in the Pleasant Hill subdivision.

John Doherty, a resident of the Lancer Park area is also circulating petitions.

At stake in the spring election are two six year terms plus the unexpired four year term.

Doyle Erkenbeck, a resident of Sunset Hills now serving on the board is not expected to seek re-election.

Final date for petition filing is Tues., Feb. 1 and candidates may withdraw from the race up to Sat., Feb. 6.

Petitions, which may be obtained at the Jennings House Youth Center offices of the park district, must have the signatures of a minimum of 25 registered voters of the district.

Candidates must be qualified voters and live within the confines of Schaumburg Park Dist.

Plans To Be Shown For Fire Station

Plans for the construction of a third fire station in Hoffman Estates and the purchase of additional fire fighting equipment will be presented in a public meeting of Hoffman Estates Fire District officials tomorrow.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at Station One, 180 Flagstaff Lane.

A $500,000 referendum was defeated by a 3-2 margin last month to construct and equip a third station of the Robin Construction Co. property. The defeat was attributed to a lack of detail in the district official's presentation of information on the bond issue.

Derek Is First Baby Of 1971

The first Schaumburg Township baby of 1971 was a bit slow in arriving.

Delaying his first appearance in life until 5:43 a.m. Saturday was Derek Brandt Bugbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Bugbee, 178 Payson St., Hoffman Estates.

Derek weighed in at Sherman Hospital, Elgin, at six pounds, four ounces.

Mrs. Bugbee is in Room 584 at the hospital. Officials say she and Derek are doing fine.

THE LONG AWAITED traffic signals at Golf Road and Highland Blvd. in Hoffman Estates will soon be operating. Installation began last week.

Ice Breaks—Boy, 8, Saved By Friend

A 12-year-old Hoffman Estates boy rescued his 8-year-old companion Saturday after the younger child fell through the ice on a pond north of 529 Edgefield Ln., police said.

The two were playing on the ice at 3:09 p.m. Saturday when James Devona, 8, of 545 Devonshire Ln. fell through. Darryl Vining, 12, of 541 Devonshire Ln., pulled James out, covered him with his own dry coat and ran home to get help.

The Hoffman Estates Fire Department ambulance took James to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was examined and released.

"I really think Darryl deserves some praise," said Mrs. James Devona.

"We owe much thanks to him," she said about her son's rescuer.

"JIMMY HAD BEEN warned the area is isolated, that ice is thin, and the pond is deep, but he disobeyed."

"He was up to his neck in water when Darryl grabbed his hands."

The pond is at the bottom of Kingsdale Drive in Highpoint, Mrs. Devona said.

"I really think you should warn other parents," she added.

"We've seen children bigger than my son playing hockey there. There are no signs, and the pond can barely be seen."

Mrs. Devona said she and her husband told their son not to go on the pond.

"He had to learn the hard way. At least he's still with us," she added.

"I've received so many phone calls... I've passed the word to everyone I can."

Police Chief John O'Connell said patrolmen in the village will often have youngsters leave the ice ponds marked with green flags.

O'Connell said his men would rather have the skaters leave if the ice looks thin than pull one of the skaters from the pond later.

Break For Traffic Violators

Hanover Park residents, violating the local ordinance prohibiting parking during a snowfall, got a late Christmas present from Hanover Park police this past weekend.

It was a "nothing" present — but that's what made it such a great present.

Usually police would have written and handed out several tickets during a heavy snowfall, like the one the area experienced Sunday.

However, not one ticket was written in Hanover Park. Why? There were none. A printers delay in delivery found police empty handed when it came time to write local ordinance violation tickets.

POLICE ALERTED by snow plowing crews asked that the cars be removed and in most cases they were.

Some residents were unaware that the village prohibits parking on streets whenever a snowfall measures over one inch in depth and others just forgot.

The snowfall caught the public works department short of plowing equipment and snow removal was slow and sketchy, according to complaints called to the police department.

Anthony Bursha, acting superintendent of public works and a crew of five employees were on the streets when the snow started accumulating Sunday morning.

"The men did a fine job, especially considering the lack of equipment," Bursha said.

Bursha said main arterial streets were tackled first with the only equipment available; two village trucks equipped with plows and two jeep type small cars. A third truck was rented and the cleanup operation went on throughout the day said Bursha.

The department depleted its supply of 40 tons of salt used in the past five-week period.

As Bursha's crews continued "dressing" the streets Monday they waited delivery of 20 more tons of salt as they anticipated slick conditions due to an expected drop in temperature.

BURSHA SAID snow plowing was hindered severely by the late delivery of four additional pieces of heavy equipment recently purchased for the streets and water departments. However, delivery is expected this week said Bursha.

He added that all village streets were open to traffic by 2 a.m. Monday morning when the crew finally went off duty after working nonstop throughout the day and evening.

"The salt should come late Monday and with the new trucks due in this week too, we will be ready for the next storm," Bursha said.

"The police? They will be ready too since tickets are due here this week."

Hockey Sign-Up To End Friday

Registration for Schaumburg Park District's intramural hockey league and clinic will continue through Jan. 8, Park Secretary Mrs. Elaine Bond announced.

Elementary and junior high school age boys may register for the league before Friday in the park center's Jennings House Youth Center offices between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Cost is $10 per boy, if more than one member of a family applies, half price will be charged for the second player.

Boys who live outside of the park district will be charged $20 each, and the half-price rate will also apply for additional family members.

Clinics are tentatively scheduled for Jan. 16 and 23. League play will begin on Jan. 30 and should continue through February and early March.

The park district has constructed several special hockey rinks for league play and will, after screening, appoint boys to a number of teams.

The hockey program is new in the park district's "continuing" series of special activities and events geared to the interest of all district residents.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Years weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

Chairman Dean Burch will meet Friday with members of the tobacco and broadcast industries to discuss reports they may try to get around the ban on TV and radio cigarette commercials.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second round of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

1970 Hoffman Estates: Year Of New Order

by STEVE NOVICK

The year 1970 in Hoffman Estates was one of "new order."

In village hall, the administrative staff was stabilized last February after the hiring of Daniel T. Larson as administrative assistant.

Because of a tightly controlled budget and rebate to the village of state income tax revenues, the village most likely will not take out tax anticipation warrants during the current fiscal year, said Trustee James Kopp, finance committee chairman, last month.

THE FIRST of three public works garages, standing next to village hall on Illinois Boulevard, is being constructed at a cost of $105,000 and is now nearing completion.

The most outstanding achievement from village hall, however, was the total effort of both hired and elected officials toward the approval in November of a $1.1 million referendum to build a new police and municipal building in Hoffman Estates. The referendum campaign was led by Trustee Bruce Lind.

Groundbreaking for the new structure will be this spring. The facility, to be located on the north side of Golf Road west of the Golf-Higgins intersection, will be completed during the summer of 1972.

The Hoffman Estates Fire District, last month, failed to set resident support for a $500,000 bond issue. The money was to be used for the construction of a central fire station between Golf and Higgins Road, east of Barrington Road.

Fire district officials are expected to come forward Wednesday with a new, more detailed proposal to finance construction.

A MAJOR change in the development of Hoffman Estates during 1970 came with a switch from single family to multiple unit dwellings, the major type of housing constructed in the village.

In the western portion of the village, construction began for nearly 1,500 apartment and townhouse units, under zoning current officials point out as being granted by the preceding administration.

Elected in spring 1969, Mayor Frederick Downey and the board's current majority promised not to grant any more multiple zoning.

Their promise was upheld when the proposed Des Plaines Manor apartment development across from the village pool on Grand Canyon Parkway was canceled due to village board action.

THE VILLAGE faces two major litigations in 1971 in their attempt to prevent the north end of the village from being zoned multiple unit development.

After a year of public hearings the board in August zoned 78 acres owned by a group of influential Chicago Democrats for single family development.

Robert Haskins, attorney, representing the group, requested zoning for 1,352 apartments on the property, located between Palatine and Bradwell roads and west of Ela Road.

In filing the suit against the village, Haskins will be asking the court to declare the village board's decision invalid.

DIRECTLY EAST of the land Haskins represents is 80 acres of Howie-In-The-Hills subdivision property zoned for multiple development. The village was in the midst of action to change the zoning to single family use last summer when a Perspective: 1970 In Review

Federal court order came to hold off on the decision.

Howie-In-The-Hills, encompassing over 400 acres at the village's north end, is the bankrupt subdivision now under a federally appointed receivership.

The development went bankrupt when the City Savings and Loan saving institution assets were drained through the Howie property by convicted swindler C. Oran Mensink.

On the current zoning issue officials have taken a "sit tight and wait" attitude on grounds that no development is better than multiple.

THE FATE of the entire subdivision will not be settled for years, according to persons involved.

On Feb. 15, however, a trial begins to determine the validity of $1 million in bonds sold to put in street and sewer improvements on the property.

Hoffman Estates could face a $1 million liability if improperly charges by the Teamsters Union Pension Fund, mortgagors of the subdivision, is upheld against Peter Schultz, former village attorney, and the village's engineering firm.

The Centex-Winston Corp. became the major developer of single family homes in Hoffman Estates in 1970.

Hoffman-Rosner, who built most of the village's 5,800 single family dwellings, completed their final homes last May in "pie area" west of the Golf-Higgins intersection.

HOFFMAN-ROSNER has maintained their corporate offices in the villages despite their completion of development within Hoffman Estates corporate limits.

An announcement is hoped for during 1971 that the firm will build a new structure to house their offices next to the Suburban Bank.

Centex Winston, in the Winston Knolls subdivision northwest of Ela and Algonquin Roads, built 300 homes in 1970.

A 350-acre annexation to the village is expected this year that will allow Winston Knolls to grow into a 1,000 unit development.

Commerce and industry in the village made headway, too. Groundbreakings for a new Eagle Food Store and a new Jewel store in Hoffman Estates are expected in 1971.

A FIRESTONE Tire dealership will open soon on Roselle Road and a Jack-In-The-Box restaurant will locate next door.

The village's first industrial park also opened in 1970 at Barrington Road and the Tollway. The village in 1971 could have its first major industrial firm.

1971 will also bring the start of expansion on Golf and Higgins Roads through the village.

Flooding problems which during 1970 plagued Parcel A, the village's original subdivision, are currently being worked on. The efforts of local officials with state highway and conservation officials, along with Schaumburg officials, will hopefully effect a solution to flooding problems in Parcel A.

THE SOLUTION to flooding problems on Woodlawn Street and water shortages in Winston Knolls are two major problems the village also plans to eliminate this year.

The convention held by Hoffman Estates Republicans to select village board candidates for the April election was a highlight of the political year 1970.

Republican candidates are incumbent William Cowin, Diane Jensen and Dyrle Rathman who will face the Democratic slate of William Brilliant, Lawrence Excell and Barbara Jean Sherman.

The advancement of recreational facilities in Hoffman Estates saw major growth in 1970 despite the defeat last March of a $2.1 million bond issue to build the Aquarius.

Aquarius was to be a multi-faceted recreation center with an olympic sized pool and community activities.

A citizen's group is reportedly circulating a petition for the return of the Aquarius proposal in 1971.

EXTENSIVE WORK at the Vogeley Community Park and Recreation Center earmarked park district advancements.

The 10-room stone home on the land was converted to an office and a meeting place for park officials. The second floor consisting of four rooms, is used by park affiliated groups.

A barn of the Vogeley Park property has been renovated and will be completed this month.

Teen park commissioners, Debbie Sauriel and Mike Catlin, Conant seniors, have organized a teen center to operate out of the barn. It is to be called "The Sanctum" and will provide "relaxed recreation" for local teens.

The park district's summer program included a variety of recreational and instructional programs for both children and adults.

The fall program was expanded to include knitting, dog obedience and other activities not previously offered.

A PILOT recreation program for exceptional children began in 1970 under Edward O'Malley, a local special education instructor.

The development of the Twin Lakes property is currently being studied after the land was acquired by the park district last year.

The study is headed by Edward Huff and will be aimed at the development of recreational areas.

The Winston Knolls subdivision also aligned itself to the village's park district during 1970.

Vaughn Black, park director, resigned his post in July and was replaced by Mrs. Anne Schuerings, who previously served as park district secretary and office manager.

Past park board president, Robert Schuhr, resigned from the board in November and has been replaced by William Pichler, who is long active with the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association.

PICHLER WILL run in April as a candidate for the two years remaining in Schuhr's term.

Plans should also be finalized in the immediate future for the park district to take control of the community swimming pool on Grand Canyon Parkway.

Custodians Hear Talk At Larkin

Custodians for Elgin School District U46 attended an all day in-service education seminar on Dec. 28 at Larkin High School.

The 125-man staff heard lectures and discussions concerning carpet and carpeting care, floor cleaning and diversified products and gym floor care and resurfacing.

Displays, equipment demonstrations and movie and slide programs were also part of the day's events.

According to Arthur Leverenz, supervisor of maintenance, the purpose of the seminar is "to improve custodial service to the school district." The department conducts seminars for its staff at regular intervals.

Representatives from three commercial firms conducted the seminar.

Man Charged For Reckless Conduct

Hanover Park police arrested Peter Voeller, 39, of 959 Northway Ct. for discharging a weapon in his back yard Sunday. Police say the bullet traveled over 200 feet across adjoining back yards and lodged in the kitchen wall of a home at 988 Whitebridge Ln.

Voeller is free on $1,000 bond but must appear in Schaumburg Court Jan. 27 to answer a reckless conduct charge.

TWO MORE POINTS were recorded as the basketball marathon at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High in Wheeling moved into its closing hours. Competing were students Barry Haeger, Mike Hallstrom, Larry Evertsen and Bob Nelson. Proceeds from the 152 hour marathon will benefit the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling. The game was sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

Charge 2 With Marijuana Possession

Two persons were arrested on charges of possession of marijuana by Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavich Saturday.

Charged was Thomas A. Hagstrom, 25, of 207 Timber Trail, Streamwood. Officer Bartkavich stopped Hagstrom's auto to charge him for having a faulty muffler. While Hagstrom was looking for his auto registration in his glove compartment, Bartkavich noticed the butts of hand-rolled cigarettes in the car ashtray. With assistance from Sergeant James J. Dillon and Officer Ken Mazikowski, Bartkavich searched the car. They found a plastic container, containing marijuana, hidden between the driver's seat cushion and backrest, police said. Hagstrom is to appear on the marijuana and muffler charges March 3 in Schaumburg Court.

Friday Bartkavich arrested Darrel D. Hornback, 21, of 238 N. Calhoun St., Aurora, charging him with possession of marijuana, transporting an open liquor container in a motor vehicle and speeding.

After stopping Hornback for speeding, Bartkavich said, he saw an open bottle of liquor under the front seat. On the dashboard was a cloth bag. Bartkavich found the bag contained metal pieces that when fit together made a pipe. In the pipe, said Bartkavich, was residue which when tested proved to be marijuana. Hornback also is to appear March 3 in Schaumburg Court.

Pool Work Bid To Rand Steel

Structural steel work on Robert O. Atcher Pool will be completed by Rand Steel Co. in accordance with action by members of Schaumburg Park Board last week.

During a special meeting Dec. 29, board member Raymond Hum moved that the $14,286 structural steel contract be awarded to Rand Steel, since the original low bidder, Imperial Steel, had requested their bid be withdrawn.

According to board members, Rand was the second low bidder and received the contract since the other company had indicated it would not be able to begin work until next June.

Atcher Pool is scheduled to open at the start of the 1971 swim season to provide the second pool facility for Schaumburg.

Construction of the pool, adjacent to Jane Addams Junior High School on Springinguth Road, is being financed through general obligation bonds approved by voters last March.

THE POOL in Robert O. Atcher Park, is now under construction and, according to Park Secretary Mrs. Elaine Bond, is moving along a little ahead of schedule as of Monday.

The pool and its surrounding park land, as well as a community recreation center slated for construction in Lancer Park subdivision, are major facilities being provided in line with a major park expansion program.

Band Steps Up Fund Drive Move

Members of the Elgin High School band and orchestra are stepping up money-raising efforts as the Jan. 10 deadline approaches for paying the first installment toward a spring concert tour of Europe.

"We shall have no difficulty in placing 183 persons in the chartered jet" for the tour, said Charles Beckman and John Wirtz, vocal and orchestra directors. Already, 160 students have returned permission slips from parents, allowing them to go on the tour.

Each student or adult chaperone must pay about $350 for the tour, and the students have chosen to finance the trip without seeking donations from the board of education or downtown merchants.

THE STUDENTS will give concerts in Vienna, Salzburg, Rothenburg and Heidelberg. On the 12-day tour, they will visit the Eastertime Spring Music Festival in Salzburg and also spend some time in Frankfurt, traveling in luxury coaches and staying in student hostels and hotels.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz, Principal and Mrs. Chester Alexander and other adults.

Man Dies While Plowing Snow

A Hanover Park man died of an apparent heart attack Sunday evening shortly after he collapsed while operating a hand-operated snow plow in front of 1940 Marigold Street.

Dead is Gary P. Brester, 57, of 7210 East Ave. Police called to the Marigold street address found Brewster had collapsed while plowing.

He was taken to the Sherman Hospital in Elgin by Ontarioville Fire Department ambulance. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

No Laughter In Deserted Singleton Home...

The Singleton house at 404 Ridgewood Rd. in Elk Grove Village remains empty in this, the first week of the new year.

Normally there would be laughter and the countless other sounds that accompany children living in the white frame building with the bright blue trim.

Instead, there is nothing. It is quiet.

A four-foot artificial Christmas tree is in the living room not too far from a red cardboard fireplace. There are a few games around the bottom of the tree. Christmas cards decorate the doorway leading to the kitchen where a copy of Chicago Today from Dec. 23 lies on the kitchen table.

The Singletons left Elk Grove Village for the holidays in order to be in Tazewell, in Claiborne County, Tenn., to spend them with relatives.

Edsel Singleton, 32, a centerless grinder at R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co., 300 Bond St., Elk Grove Village, had gotten the time off from work to make the long road trip to be with his family and friends.

EARLY SUNDAY the trip ended in a tragedy when the Singleton stationwagon collided head-on with another car on Interstate 74 near Shelbyville, Ind. All members of the Singleton family died with the exception of Donna Sue, 20 months old, who was reported in critical condition with internal injuries yesterday at the Shelbyville Major Hospital.

Three middle-aged women, passengers in the other car that had been in the highway's westbound lane traveling east, also died in the fiery collision.

Eight persons died, making the auto accident one of the worst in Indiana. Nine died in another accident in 1969.

The Rev. Schuyler Butler, of the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave., where the Singletons were members, said the congregation was shocked when it heard the news of the deaths after Sunday's 8:30 a.m. service. A short memorial service was then held for the family at the next service.

"They were all very faithful and active in the church," said the Rev. Butler. "They had plenty of that old southern hospitality and they were tremendous people."

Alice Singleton, 30, was in charge of the nursery-cradle roll at the Sunday School and Edsel was a member of the church's welcoming committee. Mrs. Singleton was also active with the women's missionary fellowship and a counselor to the girls club.

THE SINGLETONS lived in Elk Grove Village since early 1966. Three of their children attended Ira Rupley School.

"They were very, very quiet people but also very supportive of school and involved with their children," said Ronald Glovetski, principal.

Nancy Roth, of 280 Redwood Ave, and a friend of the Singletons, who was at the Singleton home yesterday said, "Each of them had a very personal relationship with Christ. They knew that He was the answer."

Eldon Roth, who accompanied his wife to the house, said, "We knew them fairly well. We used to live right around the corner on Willow Lane. They were very regular in attendance at church."

"I remember before he left, Edsel — he didn't like to be called Ed — didn't want to leave right away because Johnny Cash was on television that night," said Roth.

Michael Frisby, general manager at Mr. Singleton's place of employment, said:

"I knew him as well as I could. He was very capable — one of the best men I had out there as far as capability to produce."

Frisby said Singleton "took a lot of pride in his work and he was very conscientious — a very unusual guy."

Singleton was employed at the firm, makers of precision products, for 1½ years.

Frisby said the employees may send flowers or take up a collection in memory of the family which will be buried in Tennessee. Funeral arrangements were not complete yesterday.

Public Aid Report Questioned

Welfare Rise Due To Industry Shift?

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The rising costs of welfare in Cook County may, in part, be caused by the exodus in recent years of Chicago industrial plants to areas outside the city, including the Northwest suburbs, County Commissioner John H. Stroger Jr., said yesterday.

Stroger, newly-elected commissioner from Chicago, raised the question when approval of the most recent report of the County Department of Public Aid came up before the board.

The commissioner halted the whirlwind session and asked approval be deferred until he had an opportunity to study the report.

Stroger said he didn't actually object to the report, but questioned whether the welfare philosophy wasn't over-emphasizing public assistance. He described the correlation of the growing general assistance rolls with rising unemployment, and noted he knew of many welfare recipients in his own neighborhood on Chicago's South Side who lost jobs when their employers moved to the suburbs.

"It has come to my attention there is gainful employment in the suburbs," Stroger said, "But the distance workers would have to travel makes it virtually impossible for them to hold jobs there."

FOLLOWING THE meeting, Stroger said he thought more study by county welfare officials in conjunction with other agencies was needed to determine if low cost housing in the suburbs might not effectively contribute to curbing unemployment.

"Why should the county be content to pump out welfare when it should be helping relocate these workers?" Stroger asked.

He suggested industries relocated in the suburbs were finding it difficult to fill jobs.

"I'm sure there are many factories in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect that can't get enough employees," Stroger said.

He admitted he had no information to bear out just how much of an unemployment problem industry relocation caused. He recommended a study by welfare officials to determine the location of job opportunities, housing needs, and transportation problems.

"We've got to stop this thing in terms of hand-outs, and find something that is self-sustaining," Stroger said.

HIS REMARKS brought response from Commissioner Charles Chaplin, who denounced those on welfare rolls not legally entitled to receive public assistance.

"I think there is a fantastic amount of money going down the drain because of a lack of investigation," said Chaplin. He said 300 names were being added to the county's welfare list each day.

Board Pres. George W. Dunne challenged Chaplin's statement, saying welfare abuse was the exception, not the rule.

Dunne cited as a cause apparent manpower shortages in the welfare department and noted that turnover rate among employees was about 50 per cent annually.

Dunne said he had been in contact with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and hoped to meet with him this week on the problem.

"I am more concerned with the inability of the system to correct a condition that should not be," Dunne added.

Greater Voice For Suburban Demos?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville, and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anaconda, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly

"will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Name Judges For Student Program

Judges for the second annual Student Achievement Recognition Program at Elgin Community College have been selected by a voluntary student committee with the assistance of Mrs. Mary Czaja, Coordinator of Institutional Studies at ECC.

Gilbert I. Renner, President of ECC, John Eshelman, Secretary of the ECC Board of Trustees, and Michael Sprague, ECC Audio-visual Technician, will choose the outstanding ECC man and woman who best demonstrate achievement toward a desirable career goal.

Judging will take place in mid-February. The judges will review candidates' applications and then interview each individually. The decision will be based on the student's progress toward chosen goals as well as their leadership and participation in campus and community activities. Each winner will receive a $100 cash prize.

The ECC winners will then compete in one of six district competitions throughout the state in March. The winners of that competition will receive $250 and will compete in Chicago in April for the state prize of $1,000. The award in Chicago will be for the top man and woman in the Illinois junior college system.

David A. Loguda and Jean L. Schartow were winners in the first ECC competition last year. Joint sponsors of the program are the Illinois Association of Community and Junior Colleges and the Continental Bank, Chicago.

Roselle Man Dead In Auto Accident

A Roselle man died on his 21st birthday, New Year's Day, when the auto he drove northbound on Rt. 53 went out of control, rolling over as it left the roadway about 300 feet south of Golf Rd.

Dead is William J. Brink, 21, of 6 N. 371 Keeney Rd., Roselle. A passenger in his car, Roger Carr, 20, of 25 W. 175 Lake St., Roselle, was discharged Sunday from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, where he was taken by Schaumburg Village Police. Hospital authorities said he had been admitted to the intensive care unit with multiple injuries.

Schaumburg police were called to the scene at 1:20 a.m. They said they found Brink lying on the ground about three feet from his auto, which was 150 feet west of the road. Brink was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Alexius Hospital, where he was taken by Schaumburg Fire Dept. ambulance. Dist. 3 State Police, who are investigating, said a coroner's inquest would be held to determine cause of death.

While Schaumburg police stood by at the accident, Trooper Lonnie Nelson, State Police, is conducting the investigation.

Tie Vote Delays 211-214 Decision

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 53 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT WAS representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High.

If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

If the disannexation petition is turned down, the Rolling Meadows residents will have to wait one year before filing again to have the boundary lines changed.

Condominiums Sought

Kaufman and Broad would like to add a section of condominiums to its Hoffman Estates' Barrington Square townhouse development, the village plans commission was told Wednesday.

K and B representatives said the condominiums would be built four units per building. The building would look like a large colonial home.

The prices for the units would start at $20,000 for a two bedroom model. The representatives did not give a bedroom breakdown.

K and B currently can build 40 per cent three bedroom townhouses.

Plans Commission Chairman Richard Regan asked K and B to get opinions from village engineer George Holt and village attorney Edward Hofert by the Jan. 13 meeting.

THE PLANNERS had no further information on the proposed Eagle Food store and Mobil Oil service station that would be located at the Golf-Higgins Roads intersection.

Regan suggested that the commission "try to influence the architecture" of the food store. The building should blend in with the community, he said.

The parcels involved in the proposal are owned by Hoffman-Rosner.

In a letter to the commission, village consultant engineers said a five year and 20 year comprehensive plan for village streets is being prepared to comply with Illinois House Bill 447. The plans must be completed by June, 1971.

Regan reminded the commission that there will be a joint meeting of the zoning board, village board and plans board Jan. 9, 10 a.m., in village hall.

Meeting Set On Winter Carnival

The Hanover Park Community Service Committee will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Village Hall to discuss the Winter Carnival planned for Jan. 23 and 24.

The village-wide two-day carnival will be held in the open area in back of the Tradewinds shopping center at Barrington and Irving Park roads.

Any organization interested in participating in the carnival may contact Mrs. Barbara Lidke at 7455 Cumberland Drive.

She is chairman of the family snow sculpture contest planned to coincide with the winter carnival.

THE PARK DISTRICT is preparing registration forms and these will be distributed to residents homes. Anyone who has not received a form may contact Mrs. Lidke for information and forms.

"Families who wish to participate in the contest must be registered for judging," she said.

The Winter Carnival features sledding, skating races, snowball target shoots and just "plain old winter fun" according to Committee chairman Jim Strawn.

A final meeting is scheduled for Jan. 20.

2 Cars Fishtail, Then Sideswipe

Two autos fishtailing on ice Sunday in Hoffman Estates sideswiped each other, one rolling over and leaving its driver with slight injuries.

Driving the cars were Dale Nelson, 19, of 1450 Maplewood Ave., Hanover Park, and David Regala, 21, of 7755 W. Lee St., Niles, said police.

Nelson was eastbound on Golf Rd., east of Barrington Rd., at about 10:15 a.m. Sunday. Regala was westbound. Nelson told police he saw Regala's auto coming toward him, fishtailing, and he tried to pull his auto out of the way. Police said Nelson's auto then began to fishtail. After impact, Nelson's car rolled over.

Nelson, who was taken to St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, was charged with improper lane usage and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court. He suffered a cut hand and head, and was treated and released from the hospital.

Opinions Please Pollution, War At Top Of The List

The war in Southeast Asia and the fight against pollution in the United States were described by Herald readers as the most important events of 1970.

This week, Opinions Please asked readers to name the most important event of last year. For most it was either the war or the fight against pollution, but for some it was more personal.

For Mrs. Richard J. Byrne, of 150 Sunrise Dr., Wheeling, "It was the war."

"I don't know the statistics," Mrs. Byrne said, "but a lot of the boys came home. My husband was in the service for 10 years and I have a son in grammar school, so of course peace is important. If you can't have peace, what can you have?"

As a second choice Mrs. Byrne mentioned "the emphasis on pollution, even here in Wheeling. In the schools it is stressed so much. The children are so aware of it, and a year ago they didn't know what the word meant."

Mrs. Herbert N. Freeman, of 1007 Whitehall Dr., Buffalo Grove, had similar first and second choices.

Mrs. Freeman praised President Nixon for making "definite progress" toward ending the war in Vietnam. "We should all work along with the President to end the war as soon as possible," she said.

In 1970, Mrs. Freeman said she thought the nation had made a "start" in the fight against pollution. "Housewives are aware," she said, "and we are using detergents with less phosphates. Now, we must get others to cooperate."

Selecting the year's most important event, was difficult for Mrs. Terry J. Dow, of 387 Hawthorne Rd., Buffalo Grove.

"What would it be," she asked, "de Gaulle's death, Vietnam, the crisis in the Middle East?"

Mrs. Dow concluded that the continuing Arab-Israeli conflict was probably most important "because I think that is where our troubles will lie in the future."

For the second choice she answered more quickly, perhaps because the event hit close to — or to be more exact, inside the home. "How about the water," she said. "We didn't have any for two weeks last summer."

Richard St. John, of 254 University, Buffalo Grove, also cited a personal event.

For him, the most important event of 1970 was "the birth of my daughter." She arrived last Sept. 1.

"Pollution has been publicized the most," said Mrs. Kenneth Reed, 234 Fletcher, Wheeling. "Pollution has been around a long, long time, but the majority of people are just starting to realize it now."

"I don't think the individual by his own efforts to stop pollution can help as much as big business. Businesses are the ones that have to clamp down on pollution," she said.

"I think it was the blundering we did by going to Cambodia," said Mrs. Edward Olson, 215 Cindy, Wheeling. "I don't think it did any good."

"I think we will continue to escalate the war (in Southeast Asia) I don't think we're going to stop it."

William Long, 1036 Kenilworth, Wheeling, said that "pollution" is one of the biggest events of the past year. "Space is another," he said.

TWO MORE POINTS were recorded as the basketball marathon at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High in Wheeling moved into its closing hours. Competing were students Barry Haeger, Mike Hallstrom, Larry Evertsen and Bob Nelson. Proceeds from the 152 hour marathon will benefit the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling. The game was sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

Suggest Fencing At Landfill Site

An official of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has recommended that the village of Arlington Heights install portable fences at its landfill site to prevent trash from blowing into Buffalo Grove.

Rene VanSomeran, of the anti-pollution agency, said yesterday he sent a letter to Arlington Heights recommending the action after he toured the landfill with Donald Schlindler, Buffalo Grove sanitarian, last month.

The landfill is located on Nichols Road, west of Buffalo Grove Road and north of Dundee Road.

VanSomeran met with Schlindler after Schlindler filed a formal complaint with the agency, charging that Arlington Heights was violating state regulations governing the operation of landfills.

Schlindler made the complaint because of reports from a number of residents living near the landfill that paper trash was blowing onto their property. According to law, a six inch layer of compacted dirt must be spread over the dumping site at the end of each working day.

"When we inspected the site, we didn't see any real problems," VanSomeran said. "The main difficulty is in the week-end operation. The workmen there sometimes are in a hurry to quit and don't always spread that layer of dirt to cover the day's dumping."

"The letter the village (Arlington Heights) will receive will say that they have to install temporary fencing to prevent the wind from blowing paper waste material from the site over to Buffalo Grove," he added.

VanSomeran said the reason the trash blows from the dump is that it has been piled into a high mound.

"When you're up on that hill it is very windy," he said.

"But if you have a portable fence, the wind will blow the litter from the top of the hill up against the fence so it won't leave the area of the dump," VanSomeran said.

Buffalo Grove contracts a private disposal firm to provide garbage collection service for residents. The firm uses the Arlington Heights site to deposit its collections.

152 Hours Of Basketball — For Charity

Tired but victorious, 21 boys from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling finished their marathon basketball game on New Year's Day, 152 hours after they started.

In completing the game they raised approximately $700 for the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling, the amount pledged by residents. They also broke a world record of 151 hours of continuous basketball set by the Aurora Basketball Association.

"At the end, we were tired. We were playing hard," said Holmes eighth grader Jeff Kohler, one of the marathon organizers. He added, "There were a lot of people there watching us."

Kohler said that "everyone at school's been talking about it," since classes resumed Monday following Christmas vacation. "We'd do it all again," he said.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, termed the boys' efforts "tremendous."

"This kind of commitment by kids in junior high school for a community need should be an inspiration to all of us. When you think of all the kids who are destructive, this is pretty inspiring," Wynn said.

ALTHOUGH ABOUT 37 boys were on hand when the game started Dec. 26, the number had dwindled to 21 when the game concluded late in the afternoon on New Year's Day.

They included Brian Cash, Mark Dunsmore, Bob Nelson, Simon Torres, Greg Polcyn, Mark Nelles, John Kellin, Nick Bellevia, Paul Rowley, Orn Backstrom, John Plough, Mike Hallstrom, Dan Ziolkowski, Jeff Olson.

Terry Holland, Dave Peterson, Larry Evertsen, Rick Schroeder, Barry Haeger, Kip Pryby, and Jeff Kohler.

The "visitors" won the marathon, beating the "home" team 15,290 to 13,398, but it was the number of hours, not the score, that counted.

The boys played in four-hour shifts, with an eight hour rest period between each playing period.

The game was continuously supervised by members of the Holmes faculty. Holmes faculty members Jerry Kerner and Jim Messer helped organize the marathon.

Interview Manager Post Applicants

Nine months after the resignation of village manager Matthew Golden, the Wheeling Village Board is still interviewing applicants for the position of village manager.

Trustees Ira Bird and Michael Valenza told the Herald that the board is planning additional interviews before making a selection.

"We hope to get someone as soon as possible, as far as I'm concerned, and I know trustee Egan is also anxious to get it solved," Valenza said.

Neither trustee could estimate how long it will be before a new manager is appointed, however.

Valenza explained the board wanted to get someone soon so that George Passolt, who is acting manager as well as village finance director, will have help in preparing next year's budget.

Wheeling has been without a manager since last spring when Golden, the village's second manager, resigned.

Local residents approved a manager form of government under state statutes in April. The action made the position of manager a permanent part of village government. Earlier the village had a manager by local ordinance.

Correction

The filing dates for the April 20 Wheeling village election were incorrectly stated in yesterday's Herald. Candidate petitions will be accepted from Jan. 11 until Feb. 15, according to Evelyn Diens, village clerk.

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

Demos Urge House Leadership Growth

A FUND DRIVE has been launched for Cornelius Vanderwiel of Arlington Heights. Vanderwiel lost both legs in an accident in Des Plaines Dec. 11. He is shown with his wife, Audrey, and their six children in a photo taken before the accident. Contributions may be sent to the Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr. Fund, c/o The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington Rd., Arlington Heights. Other fund raising events are also being planned by a 10-member committee.

Seek Funds To Aid Amputee

A 10-member committee has been named by the Des Plaines Knights of Columbus to conduct fund-raising activities for the benefit of Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr., 45, 1325 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights.

Vanderwiel, 45, had both legs amputated above the knee after being struck by a car Dec. 11 on Lee Street near Algonquin Road.

Fred Minter, secretary of Father Lind-en Council 3627 of the K. of C. said the committee met last Wednesday and is planning a fund-raising night. A date has not been set, and plans for the evening are incomplete.

Vanderwiel, father of six children, is a carpenter. He was unloading tools from the trunk of his car when struck.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital last week following an extended period in the intensive care unit. He also suffered fractures of two vertebrae, two ribs and the sternum, his doctor reported.

The K. of C. committee for the benefit fund is headed by O. G. Suda of Des Plaines. It is also being aided by Des Plaines Moose Lodge 604, headed by Charles Rohr.

Also on the committee are Andy Balducci of Prospect Heights, Phil Brophy, Dave Hanns, Jack Tierney, Tom Sagnais, Bill Sanford, Neil Howland, Tony Dittmer and Minter, all of Des Plaines.

Benefit funds have been established at banks in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights. Contributions may be sent to the Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr. Fund, c/o First National Bank of Des Plaines, 733 Lee St., Des Plaines, 60016; or The Bank & Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington Rd., 60004.

Tic Vote Puts Off 211-214 Decision

Better Housing Urged By Counselor

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night, a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had title to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

Wolman generally describes inadequate housing as living quarters with poor plumbing and heating facilities, and a lack of empathy on the part of the owner to correct these problems. Some families are living in cars.

Many come to the center through its Outreach workers. The police, schools, township officials and even the telephone company refer families to Wolman. Most are Spanish-speaking, from Texas or Mexico.

APARTMENTS, HOUSES and out-buildings which can be converted to living quarters are Wolman's quarry. He is also looking for houses suitable for rehabilitation under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 235 programs.

The problem of finding housing for low-income or Spanish-speaking families in the Northwest suburbs is often one of attitudes, Wolman contends. "People sometimes say that these families are coming up here 'to take our money.' Nobody believes that these people have a lot of pride," he said.

In his visits with realtors, apartment managers and owners, Wolman inspects available housing and tries to convince them that they should rent to Spanish-speaking people. "There are language and cultural barriers," he said. "They may need help in filling out applications. Many families don't have credit records. We have to convince people that this doesn't make any difference in their willingness to pay rent.

"WE NEED TO communicate the problems of these families to the right people and to work out compromises," said Wolman. "There are ways that some apartments can be rented at lower rates."

Talking with the right people involves more than apartment managers, according to Wolman. "It all goes back to building and zoning codes," he said. "For example, some codes don't allow two families, which in some cases means two generations of the same family, to live in the same apartment."

"I'm not looking for quick solutions," said Wolman. "It's often a problem of human relations. If people would just take a look around, they would realize that low-income families want to have the same things, such as good housing, as they do. They should think about how hard it was for them to get ahead. It's not going to cost them anything but a little of their indignance."

FROM A PRACTICAL standpoint, Wolman said that local communities dependent on industry as a tax base should work to establish low-income housing. Companies will either have to continue busing employees out, or they will finally ask, "Why can't these people live here?" he said.

"Some people give different reasons for not wanting to rent to these people," said Wolman. "Others admit their racism. Some people are afraid that minority groups living in the area will cause the price of their homes to drop. If they hadn't moved to the suburbs to avoid the minorities, prices would be more equitable."

WOLMAN CAME TO the counseling job with a background in housing. "I was looking for something to do with social involvement," he said. "I felt I could help Realtors understand housing needs in social terms."

Wolman is a former apartment developer with five years experience in general construction. He came to the Chicago area from Washington, D.C. five years ago to work with his brother Jerry in the development of the John Hancock Center. Wolman is a graduate of Northeastern Illinois University with a major in English. He has taught English and creative writing, and several of his short stories and poems have been published.

TALKING IN TERMS of housing needs is the job of Arnold Wolman, counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows. He estimates there are 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs living in inadequate housing.

No Laughter In Deserted Singleton Home...

The Singleton house at 404 Ridgewood Rd. in Elk Grove Village remains empty in this, the first week of the new year.

Normally there would be laughter and the countless other sounds that accompany children living in the white frame building with the bright blue trim.

Instead, there is nothing. It is quiet.

A four-foot artificial Christmas tree is in the living room not too far from a red cardboard fireplace. There are a few games around the bottom of the tree. Christmas cards decorate the doorway leading to the kitchen where a copy of Chicago Today from Dec. 23 lies on the kitchen table.

The Singletons left Elk Grove Village for the holidays in order to be in Tazewell, in Claiborne County, Tenn., to spend them with relatives.

Edsel Singleton, 32, a centerless grinder at R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co., 300 Bond St., Elk Grove Village, had gotten the time off from work to make the long road trip to be with his family and friends.

EARLY SUNDAY the trip ended in a tragedy when the Singleton stationwagon collided head-on with another car on Interstate 74 near Shelbyville, Ind. All members of the Singleton family died with the exception of Donna Sue, 20 months old, who was reported in critical condition with internal injuries yesterday at the Shelbyville Major Hospital.

Three middle-aged women, passengers in the other car that had been in the highway's westbound lane traveling east, also died in the fiery collision.

Eight persons died, making the auto accident one of the worst in Indiana. Nine died in another accident in 1968.

The Rev. Schuyler Butler, of the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave., where the Singletons were members, said the congregation was shocked when it heard the news of the deaths after Sunday's 8:30 a.m. service. A short memorial service was then held for the family at the next service.

"They were all very faithful and active in the church," said the Rev. Butler. "They had plenty of that old southern hospitality and they were tremendous people."

Alice Singleton, 30, was in charge of the nursery-cradle roll at the Sunday School and Edsel was a member of the church's welcoming committee. Mrs. Singleton was also active with the women's missionary fellowship and a counselor to the girls club.

THE SINGLETONS lived in Elk Grove Village since early 1968. Three of their children attended Ira Rupley School.

"They were very, very quiet people but also very supportive of school and involved with their children," said Ronald Glovetski, principal.

Nancy Roth, of 280 Redwood Ave. and a friend of the Singletons, who was at the Singleton home yesterday said, "Each of them had a very personal relationship with Christ. They knew that He was the answer."

Eldon Roth, who accompanied his wife to the house, said, "We knew them fairly well. We used to live right around the corner on Willow Lane. They were very regular in attendance at church."

"I remember before he left, Edsel — he didn't like to be called Ed — didn't want to leave right away because Johnny Cash was on television that night," said Roth.

Michael Frisby, general manager at Mr. Singleton's place of employment, said:

"I knew him as well as I could. He was very capable — one of the best men I had out there as far as capability to produce."

Frisby said Singleton "took a lot of pride in his work and he was very conscientious — a very unusual guy."

Singleton was employed at the firm, makers of precision products, for 1½ years.

Frisby said the employees may send flowers or take up a collection in memory of the family which will be buried in Tennessee. Funeral arrangements were not complete yesterday.

Public Aid Report Questioned

Welfare Rise Due To Industry Shift?

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The rising costs of welfare in Cook County may, in part, be caused by the exodus in recent years of Chicago industrial plants to areas outside the city, including the Northwest suburbs, County Commissioner John H. Stroger Jr. said yesterday.

Stroger, newly-elected commissioner from Chicago, raised the question when approval of the most recent report of the County Department of Public Aid came up before the board.

The commissioner halted the whirlwind session and asked approval be deferred until he had an opportunity to study the report.

Stroger said he didn't actually object to the report, but questioned whether the welfare philosophy wasn't over-emphasizing public assistance. He described the correlation of the growing general assistance rolls with rising unemployment, and noted he knew of many welfare recipients in his own neighborhood on Chicago's South Side who lost jobs when their employers moved to the suburbs.

"It has come to my attention there is gainful employment in the suburbs," Stroger said. "But the distance workers would have to travel makes it virtually impossible for them to hold jobs there."

FOLLOWING THE meeting, Stroger said he thought more study by county welfare officials in conjunction with other agencies was needed to determine if low cost housing in the suburbs might not effectively contribute to curbing unemployment.

"Why should the county be content to pump out welfare when it should be helping relocate these workers?" Stroger asked.

He suggested industries relocated in the suburbs were finding it difficult to fill jobs.

"I'm sure there are many factories in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect that can't get enough employees," Stroger said.

He admitted he had no information to bear out just how much of an unemployment problem industry relocation caused. He recommended a study by welfare officials to determine the location of job opportunities, housing needs, and transportation problems.

"We've got to stop this thing in terms of hand-outs, and find something that is self-sustaining," Stroger said.

HIS REMARKS brought response from Commissioner Charles Chaplin, who denounced those on welfare rolls not legally entitled to receive public assistance.

"I think there is a fantastic amount of money going down the drain because of a lack of investigation," said Chaplin. He said 300 names were being added to the county's welfare list each day.

Board Pres. George W. Dunne challenged Chaplin's statement, saying welfare abuse was the exception, not the rule.

Dunne cited as a cause apparent manpower shortages in the welfare department and noted that turnover rate among employees was about 50 per cent annually.

Dunne said he had been in contact with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and hoped to meet with him this week on the problem.

"I am more concerned with the inability of the system to correct a condition that should not be," Dunne added.

Lay Institute Slated

Approximately 1,200 people are expected to attend the Northwest Suburban Lay Institute for Evangelism to be held at the Evangelical Free Church in Arlington Heights from Feb. 17 through 20.

The cost for the week of training will cover admission to five lectures and five seminars and a complete manual for $5. The lectures are designed to explain how a person can experience a "vital, meaningful Christian life," according to institute planners.

Communicating the Christian life effectively to others will be discussed in practical seminar sessions for men, women and youth.

Approximately 60 local pastors and laymen are sponsoring the Lay Institute for Evangelism. Curt Kenyon, an Arlington Heights insurance salesman, is chairman of the planning committee and the Rev. Don Marshall, pastor of Prospect Christian Church, is chairman of the pastors' committee.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS include John Lynch, institute director; the Rev. Robert Murphy, prayer director; Ben Wolfe, publicity director; Ken Scholten, ticket sales director; and Art Gaw, treasurer — men's director.

Other committee members are George Stack, visitation director; Richard Olsen, facilities director; Linda Carlsen, materials sales director; Jackie Harvey, women's committee chairman; and Mark Senter, youth director.

The following local churches are planning to participate: Meadows Baptist Church, Bensenville Bible Church, Prospect Christian Church, Trinity United Methodist Church and the Park Ridge Presbyterian Church.

The Lay Division of Campus Crusade for Christ International will conduct the Lay Institute for Evangelism. Campus Crusade is an interdenominational study student and lay Christian movement.

Thousands of church members have been trained in Lay Institutes for Evangelism in cities throughout this country and other countries in recent years.

Tickets for the February institute are available at many local churches or by contacting Kenyon, executive committee chairman, at 255-5712.

Police Find Pair Dead In Home

An Arlington Heights doctor and his wife were found dead in their home Sunday, apparently victims of gunshot wounds.

Dead are Dr. Earl S. Stephenson, 66, and his wife, about 63. They were found by police lying on a bed in their home at 225 S. Highland Ave., about 3 p.m. Sunday. Police said a .44-caliber magnum pistol was held in the doctor's right hand.

On a night table near the bodies, police found a note which read, "We are in love. We are tired. We are old."

Police went to the home after the operator of a telephone answering service reported that Dr. Stephenson, usually very punctual, had not answered any messages since Friday afternoon. Police said the couple had last been seen when they left the home of friends in Long Grove about 5 p.m. Friday, apparently in good spirits.

The deaths occurred late Saturday afternoon, according to a doctor who examined the bodies.

Woman, 37, Faces Shoplifting Charge

Wheeling police arrested a Kenosha, Wis., woman on charges of shoplifting woman's clothing from the K-Mart store last Thursday.

Joan Curnes, 37, of 3516 11th Ave., Kenosha, was arrested after an employee at the store said he saw her take a pants suit and a coat, valued at $50 from the store.

She was released on $1,000 bond.

Zoning Board To Meet Tonight

The Wheeling zoning board of appeals will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in the village municipal building.

Board members will consider a variety of amendments to update the local zoning ordinance. At 7:30 p.m. a public hearing will be held to consider a request for a variation from the sign ordinance by Tom Todd Chevrolet, Inc.

The variation is being sought to allow a new sign to be located in line with the existing signs at the dealership rather than conforming to new setback requirements in village ordinances.

Home Burglarized

More than $650 in cash and personal belongings were taken from the home of a Wheeling resident while he was in Florida over the holidays.

Police said William Clemons, of 377 Arne Terr., Wheeling, left for Florida Dec. 19 and when he returned home Sunday he discovered the items missing.

Taken were a portable stereo phonograph, valued at $100, a portable color television set, valued at $240, a stereo tape player and speakers, valued at $250, and $70 in cash.

Police said entry was made by breaking a sliding glass window at the north end of the house.

Demos Urge House Leadership Growth

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choute, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

Pierce, who represents southern Lake

County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Better Housing Urged By Counselor

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night, a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had title to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

A FUND DRIVE has been launched for Cornelius Vanderwiel of Arlington Heights. Vanderwiel lost both legs in an accident in Des Plaines Dec. 11. He is shown with his wife, Audrey, and their six children in a photo taken before the accident. Contributions may be sent to the Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr. Fund, co. The Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington Rd., Arlington Heights. Other fund raising events are also being planned by a 10-member committee.

Seek Funds To Aid Amputee

A 10-member committee has been named by the Des Plaines Knights of Columbus to conduct fund-raising activities for the benefit of Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr., 4525 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights.

Vanderwiel, 45, had both legs amputated above the knee after being struck by a car Dec. 11 on Lee Street near Algonquin Road.

Fred Minter, secretary of Father Lindon Council 3527 of the K. of C. said the committee met last Wednesday and is planning a fund-raising night. A date has not been set, and plans for the evening are incomplete.

Vanderwiel, father of six children, is a carpenter. He was unloading tools from the trunk of his car when struck.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital last week following an extended period in the intensive care unit. He also suffered fractures of two vertebrae, two ribs and the sternum, his doctor reported.

The K. of C. committee for the benefit fund is headed by O. G. Suda of Des Plaines. It is also being aided by Des Plaines Moose Lodge 694, headed by Charles Rohr.

Also on the committee are Andy Balducci of Prospect Heights, Phil Brophy, Dave Hanns, Jack Tierney, Tom Sagnaigo, Bill Sanford, Neil Howland, Tony Dittmer and Minter, all of Des Plaines.

Benefit funds have been established at banks in Des Plaines and Arlington Heights. Contributions may be sent to the Cornelius Vanderwiel Jr. Fund, c/o First National Bank of Des Plaines, 733 Lee St., Des Plaines, 60016; or The Bank & Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington Rd., 60004.

Tie Vote Puts Off 211-214 Decision

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 53 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT WAS representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High.

If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

If the disannexation petition is turned down, the Rolling Meadows residents will have to wait one year before filing again to have the boundary lines changed.

TALKING IN TERMS of housing needs is the job of Arnold Wolman, counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows. He estimates there are 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs living in inadequate housing.

HANOVER DEVELOPMENT CO. of Chicago hopes to start construction on this K-Mart commercial complex planned for Hicks and Baldwin roads in April or May. The 878,000 square foot structure should be finished by March or April of 1972 when the developer can deliver a completed building to Kresge Co., which is committed to a 25-year lease on the development. Situated on a 15-acre site, village officials are now taking steps to zone the land properly for the project.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT WAS representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High.

If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

50 Signatures Can Lead To Your Election

Even if you know only 50 people in all of Palatine, you can still run for nearly any of the open seats on local governing bodies. All you have to do to become a candidate is to get your 50 friends to sign a petition.

Those 50 signatures can get you on the ballot as a candidate for either the Elementary School Dist. 15 or the High School Dist. 211 school boards. If your 50 friends are registered voters, you can run for the Palatine Library Board.

If you are not that popular, but still have 25 friends, you can still run for the Palatine Park Board. If you are extremely popular and know 89 people, you can seek a village trustee's position.

PETITIONS FOR April's elections are now available at various spots around Palatine. At the village hall, 54 S. Brockway St., petitions for village trustee and the library board members are available. At the park district office in Community Park, you can get a petition to run for the park board.

Dist. 15 petitions are available at the district office at 505 S. Quentin Rd. Dist. 211 petitions can be obtained at the office of the business manager at the school district's office at 1750 S. Roselle Rd.

Three election dates are set for April. Park board elections will be held on April 6. The two school boards will hold their elections on April 10. On April 20 elections for the Village Board of Trustees and the library board will be conducted.

Terms of office for the various seats will vary. Three seats on the library board and one on the park board will be for six years each. The three seats on the village board are for four year terms. Three seats open on the Dist. 15 board will be for three years. Dist. 15 will also have one seat open for two years in April. The two seats up for election on the Dist. 211 board will be for three year terms.

Site May Be Rezoned For New K-Mart

Members of the Palatine Plan Commission could take action at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Village Hall on a request from Hanover Development Co. to rezone the future site of a K-Mart department store in the village.

Jack Jacobs, developer, has asked that a 15-acre site at the northwest corner of Hicks and Baldwin roads be rezoned from B-1 to B-2 to allow for the complete construction of the commercial development.

Under present zoning, only the K-Mart store could be built. The developer would have to get special use permits to build and operate a garden center, automotive center (selling tires, batteries and accessories, but not gasoline) and a home furnishings center.

By changing the zoning to B-2, each of the developments could be built, said Thomas Moody, chairman of the commission.

AT A PUBLIC hearing held last month Moody also said amending the present zoning ordinance to allow for the construction of these three additional types of businesses would be another alternative.

The total development will be approximately 878,000 square feet. Jacobs said previously that the project would do between $14 and $15 million a year.

Homeowners from the Willow Wood subdivision, which borders the property on the north and east, have asked that the developer make several provisions in his project to protect the single family residences near the site.

Jacobs, and two other witnesses who testified on the developer's behalf, said such provisions will be met.

Greater Suburban Voice?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

NOT ALL THE SNOW from the heavy fall turned into dirty slush, making driving difficult. Tom Keyzer, 16, and Mike Sewerth, 15, used their creative talents and sculpted this snow Volkswagen at 2802 Cardinal Dr.,

Rolling Meadows. The car was equipped with windows and bumpers, and also an unforeseen crack down the middle of the body.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Year's weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

Federal Communications Commission

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview, for a leadership position. The party traditionally has had two house leadership positions with one filled by a Chicago legislator and one by a downstate legislator.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at $1.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

The second Well Baby Clinic will be held this Wednesday. Because of the co-operation of many, the December clinic was a success. The Presbyterian Church has offered its facilities. Mrs. Erlene Russell designed the giraffe for measuring children that Gerry Curtiss made. Miles Kunz constructed the infant measuring device. The storage cabinet was made by Jim Zadnew of Home Improvement Construction. The Palatine Nurses Club along with other volunteers assist with this project. Prior to this the nearest clinic was in Hanover Park. Referrals to use the clinic are made through the Cook County Health Department.

A YEAR LONG project of the Palatine Nurses Club is the lending closet. Most of the times are stored in the barn at the Palatine Township Hall. Mrs. Nancy Knotek, 358-6912, can be contacted for wheelchairs, beds, or miscellaneous equipment. If you need walkers or crutches call Mrs. Julie Fedor, 358-6013. Cans and commodities can be borrowed by calling Mrs. Mary Ann Strutman, 358-2658.

One of the club's philanthropic projects is to pay for dental care for any child whose parents are unable to pay for it. Referrals are made by the school nurse.

A scholarship for registered nurses education is given yearly to a deserving senior.

According to Mrs. Connie Strandberg, president of the club, the Nurses' Club is open to all registered nurses. Call her at 358-5401 for additional information.

MARGARET ANN DIMATTEO, daughter of the junior Dominick Dimatteos of Inverness was one of the debutantes presented at the annual Presentation Ball at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. John Cardinal Cody, in talking to the debutantes, pointed out they must use their talents to help find solutions to the pressing problems that confront us.

An after-the-ball breakfast was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. DiMatteo and the Donatres Buffardis of Oak Brook.

IF YOU WERE unable to attend the Expanding Horizons Workshop at Harper College there will be two half-day programs for women on Tuesday, Jan. 19. For those who can attend during the day there will be a program from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. A repeat program will be given from 6 to 10:30 p.m.

The purpose of the first workshop was to provide women with an opportunity to examine their role as an individual in an increasingly complex society. With the second workshop, it is hoped to encourage inquiry into one's own needs and interest, and to expand the participants' horizons by focusing on opportunities for involvement in education, government, careers, social or political activities and volunteer programs.

Keynote speaker is Dr. Kathryn F. Clarenbach, Specialist in Women's Education, University of Wisconsin. Cost is $3. For further information contact David Groth, 359-4200, at Harper College.

Perhaps this Expanding Horizons workshop will help you with a New Year's resolution to commit yourself to something new in 1971! Finish your second cup of coffee and telephone for registration application. Then call a friend and encourage her to do the same.

He's A Two-Typewriter Teacher

James H. Dewey uses two typewriters to prepare tests for his language class students at James B. Conant High School.

Why? "Because it's the only way to write it in the Russian and English languages," he said as he turned away from his dual task and talked about his job.

Dewey studied at Michigan State University where he earned his bachelor of arts degree. He is still a student and is working on his master's in administrative high school education at Northern Illinois University.

Dewey and his wife Marcia live in Palatine.

He has been teaching Russian and German at Conant for four years and Marcia teaches French and Russian at Fremd High School.

"That's how we met . . . at a Russian meeting," Dewey said.

Dewey explained the Russian alphabet on one of his typewriters.

"Not enough students take it, because the alphabet scares them. But it shouldn't, it's easy to learn and takes about three days.

"The English language is the most difficult to learn," he added.

Dewey said in the Soviet Union, a branch of the Academy of Sciences constantly works on the language with spelling reforms and other corrections to simplify the language.

"We don't have anybody to do this and it really is necessary," Dewey said.

Dewey and his wife love to travel and vacations are usually spent chaperoning a group of students in Russia under the sponsorship of the American Institute for Foreign Travel.

"IT'S DIFFICULT to explain exactly what happens to the students while they travel abroad. But somehow they all return with a different attitude than they left the country with," said Dewey.

"They learn about bureaucracy, and that people are genuine, but mostly to appreciate their own country and other cultures also," said Dewey.

What does his job lack? "Time. It's a 12-month job squeezed into 10 but I love it, working with young people is a rewarding experience," he added.

Three weeks in Russia, talking with people there, means a 100 per cent improvement in students' grasp of the language," Dewey said.

"Knowing about the country helps with its language but there comes a time when my students must grasp the grammar of the language," Dewey said.

"IF I CAN GET them to enjoy the session by my own theatrics, I will.

"It's worth every method to make the learning experience one that's enjoyable and effective," he added.

"Again, all this takes time. I need it to think of ways to make my classes worthwhile and interesting, for doing my own homework, and also to take care of our house in Palatine," said Dewey.

Hobbies? Walking in the woods with my wife, cycling, swimming, when I have the time, and the tuba, he said.

Dewey played tuba in the high school marching band and when faculty plays students at Conant games Dewey is recruited for the band.

"I'm also a would be stamp collector, or I would be if I had the time," he said.

"No complaints though, I like being busy and my career is an interesting one. After all I have all the joys of being a parent, knowing the children and working with them, and seeing them grow as persons but none of the headaches of parenthood," said Dewey.

Indian Mission Agent To Address Society

Joan Kenn of the United Indian Mission will speak before a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society this evening.

To be held at the Seal home, 2136 Linden Ln., Palatine, the society will also celebrate the birthdays of all members in 1971 as part of the evening's activities. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Kenn works near Vanderwagen, N.M., at an Indian Mission where she teaches Indian children about the Bible and Indian women handicrafts. She was a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute.

All women are invited to this meeting. The Women's Missionary Society is a group affiliated with the Palatine Bible Church.

A RELATIONSHIP BASED on mutual trust and respect between teacher and student is important in the mind of James Dewey, Conant High School teacher.

Protection Plan

by JIM HODL

Palatine Township is considering entering into a contract with the police departments of Palatine and Rolling Meadows to provide police protection to unincorporated areas of the township.

However, Township supervisor Howard Olsen has made it quite clear that nothing will be done to bring about this plan until the township is sure the unincorporated areas want extra police protection.

Currently, two sheriff's police cars patrol most of the unincorporated areas of the township, which is over half of the township area.

The township has not discussed the matter with the city managers of Rolling Meadows and Palatine for many weeks and has yet to talk to the sheriff's police about what they are planning.

Olsen said the board of auditors is receiving favorable mail toward the plan, but will wait until after a fact sheet on the police plan is distributed to judge the final response.

If response is favorable then, the township will move to create a special police district and tax residents in the unincorporated area at a rate of 0.1% of property value. This would have to be ratified at April's town meeting.

HOWEVER, THERE are some problems that should be looked into now, rather than later, if the township is to provide police protection for all who live within its boundaries by next year.

The first question that should be asked is one of jurisdiction. Cook County's sheriff's police have top jurisdiction in all areas of the county that are not municipalities. While Palatine and Rolling Meadows police may add men to their forces to patrol the unincorporated areas, their jurisdiction would still be basically within their village limits, according to a spokesman at the state's attorney's office.

Venturing outside of one's jurisdiction could present many problems. Capt. James Walsh, commander of the sheriff's police in north Cook County said the law doesn't say any group can contract with a town that doesn't have the jurisdiction or authority to supply police protection.

Illinois State statute 139, section 39.29, says the township may contract with municipalities in the township to furnish police protection through a special police district and a property tax. However, statute 34, section 3601 states that the county board may contract with township to furnish police protection outside of municipalities.

THERE IS A conflict here that the spokesman at the state's attorney's office said has yet to be resolved in the courts. If this is interpreted correctly, the township may have to negotiate although the county to get permission to supplant the county sheriff's police and get the county board to change the jurisdictions of the unincorporated areas.

Walsh added that there are other legal problems entering the jurisdiction picture.

"If a squad car with two policemen leave the corporate limits of their town and crack-up their car and injure others, who is liable?" Walsh asks. "Is the township civilly and criminally responsible, or is the municipality?"

Walsh also asks what will happen should the people in the unincorporated areas decide they do not want the township police. Police are hired on civil service. If their job is eliminated, they cannot be fired. Who will pay their salary? The township or the village?

RECENTLY, SHERIFF-ELECT Richard Elrod said former sheriff Joseph Woods' "rent-a-cop" plan is illegal. Burbank, Ill., was renting police protection from the sheriff's police, but Elrod said such an arrangement is illegal. The township may have to wait for Elrod to explain what he means.

But this brings us back to the township's plan and waiting for public response. The people may want it and may even vote for a special police district and property tax in April.

However, there may be more to setting up a special police district than just making arrangements with Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Cook County. And it may be a long time before the plan can be carried through, which Olsen has been saying all along.

These problems should be looked into now rather than after a public response reading is taken. If response is like it appears to be now, some Palatine township residents may end up being taxed for something the township may still be trying to iron out many months from now.

For Those Away From Home

A summary of Palatine news from last week:

SCORES OF PALATINE merchants registered their dislike for plans that would improve the Northwest Highway. A standing room only crowd at the meeting was largely opposed to the Illinois Division of Highway's plans for the highway, which would repair the road as well as widen it in many places. If widened, many business buildings will have to be torn down, including Jack-In-The Box, the Pickwick Restaurant, Thad's Home Improvement and Donz Drugs.

CHANCES OF ANNEXING the Sellgren property to Palatine now hinge on the developer's willingness to make some provision in his plans for Elementary School Dist. 15. The consensus of the village board is some provision should be made by the developer to donate land or cash to the school district. The Sellgren property is located at Baldwin and Hicks Roads and will have commercial and residential areas when developed.

HEARINGS ON THE Sellergren Inc. proposal for a sewage treatment plant were again postponed by the Illinois Commerce Commission until Jan. 22.

VOTERS IN THE four township region of Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Wheeling will be asked within a few months to approve a tax for a cooperative effort in tackling the problems of mental health and mental retardation. An ad hoc citizens committee is presently working on a referendum which would call for a thousandth of a cent per dollar tax on property to support mental health program. The referendum is tentatively set for late February.

HERMAN HERTOOG, Countryside YMCA director, said 1971 will be a critical year for the "Y" in erecting its building facility. If current fund raising programs go as planned, the Y's building facility will open in November of 1972.

A LETTER FROM receptionist Sue Nesser resulted in Palatine Savings and Loan getting a Christmas card from President Richard Nixon. The card hung from the Christmas tree in the bank's lobby.

AN ICE hockey marathon ended 11 hours prematurely Wednesday morning due to fatigue. Organized by the three Gran brothers, Bill, Bob and Tom, the marathon was to last 48 hours, but three players wouldn't awaken to play hockey at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

TWO PALATINE RESIDENTS sustained injuries in a two-car accident at Paalatine Road and Winston Drive. John Stanke and his wife Virginia were hospitalized for a few days. The accident was caused when Stanke failed to yield at a stop sign on Winston Drive, according to police. Other occupants of both cars were injured, but not seriously.

A FEDERAL GRANT of $46,328 to establish a youth services bureau was granted to the Palatine Township Youth Committee. When established, the bureau will service both Palatine Township and Arlington Heights.

Better Housing Urged By Counselor

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had little to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

Wolman generally describes inadequate housing as living quarters with poor plumbing and heating facilities, and a lack of empathy on the part of the owner to correct these problems. Some families are living in cars.

Many come to the center through its Outreach workers. The police, schools, township officials and even the telephone company refer families to Wolman. Most are Spanish-speaking, from Texas or Mexico.

APARTMENTS, HOUSES and out-buildings which can be converted to living quarters are Wolman's quarry. He is also looking for houses suitable for rehabilitation under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 235 programs.

The problem of finding housing for low-income or Spanish-speaking families in the Northwest suburbs is often one of attitudes, Wolman contends. "People sometimes say that these families are coming up here 'to take our money.' Nobody believes that these people have a lot of pride," he said.

In his visits with realtors, apartment managers and owners, Wolman inspects available housing and tries to convince them that they should rent to Spanish-speaking people. "There are language and cultural barriers," he said. "They may need help in filling out applications. Many families don't have credit records. We have to convince people that this doesn't make any difference in their willingness to pay rent.

"WE NEED TO communicate the problems of these families to the right people and to work out compromises," said Wolman. "There are ways that some apartments can be rented at lower rates."

Talking with the right people involves more than apartment managers, according to Wolman. "It all goes back to building and zoning codes," he said. "For example, some codes don't allow two families, which in some cases means two generations of the same family, to live in the same apartment."

"I'm not looking for quick solutions," said Wolman. "It's often a problem of human relations. If people would just take a look around, they would realize that low-income families want to have the same things, such as good housing, as they do. They should think about how hard it was for them to get ahead. It's not going to cost them anything but a little of their indignance."

FROM A PRACTICAL standpoint, Wolman said that local communities dependent on industry as a tax base should work to establish low-income housing. Companies will either have to continue busing employees out, or they will finally ask, "Why can't these people live here?" he said.

"Some people give different reasons for not wanting to rent to these people," said Wolman. "Others admit their racism. Some people are afraid that minority groups living in the area will cause the price of their homes to drop. If they hadn't moved to the suburbs to avoid the minorities, prices would be more equitable."

WOLMAN CAME to the counseling job with a background in housing. "I was looking for something to do with social involvement," he said. "I felt I could help Realtors understand housing needs in social terms."

Wolman is a former apartment developer with five years experience in general construction. He came to the Chicago area from Washington, D.C. five years ago to work with his brother Jerry in the development of the John Hancock Center. Wolman is a graduate of Northwestern Illinois University with a major in English. He has taught English and creative writing, and several of his short stories and poems have been published.

Like To Be Mayor? Find 136 Friends

If you want to be a Rolling Meadows alderman, you probably have enough friends to sign a petition for office. But if you're interested in being mayor, city clerk or city treasurer you may have to ring some doorbells.

Rolling Meadows residents interested in running for the offices of mayor, city clerk or city treasurer in April will have to muster at least 136 persons and not more than 217 to sign their petition in order to file for the offices.

City ordinances require persons who wish to file for the offices of mayor, city clerk or city treasurer to obtain not less than 5 per cent and not more than 8 per cent of residents who voted in the last election.

To run for the office of alderman this year, residents must find not less than 5 per cent and not more than 8 per cent of those who voted in their ward to sign their petition.

Each of the five wards have aldermen positions open. Both aldermen positions in ward one will be facing election. Terms are for four years, except one partial term of two years.

INTERESTED CANDIDATES will need only between 20 and 32 signatures in ward 1, between 36 and 58 in ward two, between 25 and 40 in ward three; between 34 and 45 in ward 4, between 21 and 33 in ward five.

Residents may pick up petitions at the city hall now to begin obtaining the signatures needed to file for offices. Filing for the city offices begins Jan. 11 and will end Feb. 15.

Persons seeking election as alderman must be residents of the ward in which they seek election.

Citizens interested in becoming a member of the school board of Dist. 15 need 50 residents from the school district to sign their petition.

Other requirements for filing for the school board are that the candidate be a citizen of the United States, 21 years old, and a resident of the state and the school district for a year prior to the election.

FILING FOR school board candidacy begins Feb. 24 and ends March 19. The school board election is April 10.

District 15 petitions are available at the district office at 505 S. Quentin Rd. in Palatine. Four positions will be open in the April election. All but one position will be for three years. The lone partial term is for two years.

If you want to be a school board member from Dist. 211, you will also need 50 persons to sign your petition to file for the April 10 election.

The two seats up for election on the Dist. 211 board will be for three year terms.

Dist. 211 petitions can be obtained at the office of the business manager at the school district's office at 1750 S. Roselle Rd. in Palatine. There will be two seats up for election on the board in April.

IF YOU WANT to be a Rolling Meadows park board commissioner you will need only 25 signatures on your petition. The park board asks only that applicants be qualified voters.

Petitions may be picked up now until Feb. 1 at the park district office at 1 Park Meadow Place from Dean Hallerud, director of the park district. There will be three positions up for election, two for full six year terms and one for a partial term.

Greater Suburban Voice?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Tie Vote Puts Off 211-214 Annex Ruling

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 53 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT WAS representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School.

If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

Grant Could Lead To Library Growth

The $30,000 grant from the city's surplus funds given to the Rolling Meadows Library could start the library in several new directions for expansion during the new year.

Although most of the money will be used for the purchase of new books, Miss Virginia Connell, Rolling Meadows librarian, hopes the funds may provide the incentive for the library board to begin new services in a wider residential area.

"I foresee the necessity of offering some kind of library service to children living west of Route 53, maybe in the form of a modified bookmobile," she said.

"Children in the western area are dependent on their parents to get them to the library. A mobile unit could stop, possibly at Meadow Trace and at the schools, to give students easier access to the library's materials."

ALTHOUGH SUCH a bookmobile project is only in the thought stages and has not yet been brought before the library board, Miss Connell said board president John Lund is looking into what types of federal funding might be open to them to aid in financing the project.

"We've got to establish better communications with those Rolling Meadows residents who have been neglected by the library," Miss Connell said, explaining that part of the reason for the neglect may be due to the newness of the library.

An area of concern the library will definitely move into is the development of more multi-media materials, she said.

"We started at a crawl when we purchased new slides and a telechrome projector, but we now have to go into the circulation of 8 mm films to our patrons."

Another feature that should be started sometime this year is to open the library on Sundays for film programs for high school students. These film presentations will perform both a recreational and instructional function, Miss Connell said.

If expansion of the library's programs continues as Miss Connell expects, "by September we'll definitely have to move into the basement." Since the new library building's opening almost two years ago, all operations for both children and adults has been handled on only the main floor.

AS CIRCULATION increased, the library board planned to move the juvenile section of the library to the basement area. According to Miss Connell, preschool through six grade level materials would be placed in the basement, providing more room upstairs for research materials and the adult book section.

Although no moves will be made to automate any of the library's service during the new year, Miss Connell said she has been studying new equipment for library use and that "there is a possibility for automation by 1970" fire calls standing.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

President Nixon said Monday night he did not intend to resume wholesale bombing of strategic targets in North Vietnam and would confine retaliatory air strikes to military targets. Nixon again warned that if North Vietnamese troops begin massing to strike remaining Americans in Vietnam, he would order U.S. planes to bomb — "but only in those military targets and only as necessary."

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Year's weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview, for a leadership position. The party traditionally has had two house leadership positions with one filled by a Chicago legislator and one by a downstate legislator.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

Keeping Up

(This is a wrap-up of the previous week's news in Rolling Meadows.)

VOTERS IN A four-township area, including Palatine Township, will be asked soon to approve a tax for a cooperative effort in tackling the problems of mental health and mental retardation. If the referendum, tentatively scheduled for February, is approved, some Rolling Meadows residents may be taxed twice for mental health services.

City residents now pay a mental health tax and would also pay the township tax if approved. If the township tax is approved, and a maximum rate levied, the owner of a $30,000 home which is assessed at about $15,000 would receive a tax bill of $15.

Site May Be Rezoned For New K-Mart

Members of the Palatine Plan Commission could take action at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Village Hall on a request from Hanover Development Co. to rezone the future site of a K-Mart department store in the village.

Jack Jacobs, developer, has asked that a 15-acre site at the northwest corner of Hicks and Baldwin roads be rezoned from B-1 to B-2 to allow for the complete construction of the commercial development.

Under present zoning, only the K-Mart store could be built. The developer would have to get special use permits to build and operate a garden center, automotive center (selling tires, batteries and accessories, but not gasoline) and a home furnishings center.

By changing the zoning to B-2, each of the developments could be built, said Thomas Moody, chairman of the commission.

AT A PUBLIC hearing held last month Moody also said amending the present zoning ordinance to allow for the construction of these three additional types of businesses would be another alternative.

The total development will be approximately 878,000 square feet. Jacobs said previously that the project would do between $14 and $15 million a year.

Homeowners from the Willow Wood subdivision, which borders the property on the north and east, have asked that the developer make several provisions in his project to protect the single family residences near the site.

Jacobs, and two other witnesses who testified on the developer's behalf, said such provisions will be met.

Early Bird Gets Picnic?

The old adage that the early bird gets the worm was proven by a Rolling Meadows man yesterday.

But he added a little twist to it — the early picnicker can get his picnic site. Elmer Tucker, 2297 Willow, began his wait to receive a picnic permit at 1 p.m. Sunday and waited until 5 a.m. Monday to get it.

Every year the city forest preserve district has a waiting line and Tucker took no chances this year for his group, the Des Plaines Moose Lodge. They wanted to make sure that they could obtain a permit for their annual family picnic July 11. "I wanted to see what it would be like to be number one," Tucker said, when asked why he waited so long in the lobby of the downtown office.

THE ICE RINK OF the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex officially opened Dec. 27. Because construction of the full rink is still in progress, about half the rink (a 60 by 80-foot section) was opened so ice skating lessons and hockey programs could be started according to schedule. The remainder of the rink should be completed in the middle of the month.

THE LAST CHANCE for High School Dist. 211 and 214 to reach a compromise agreement on changing the school boundary in Rolling Meadows passed last week when the dist. 214 board decided to stand behind its position of "support with reservations."

Both school districts and a group of Rolling Meadows residents, who have petitioned the Cook County Board of School Trustees for a boundary change so their children can attend Dist. 214's Rolling Meadows High School, had been working to arrange a compromise agreement which would enable both districts to publicly support the boundary change.

PLANS TO IMPROVE and widen Northwest Highway in the middle of Palatine announced last week irritated many Palatine merchants whose businesses would be involved. If the road is widened, many businesses would have to be torn down, including Jack-in-the-Box, and Pickwick Restaurant, Thad's Home Improvement and Denz Drugs.

Fire Chief Finishes 1st Part Of Course

Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas J. Fogarty recently completed the first part of a course in fire department management held at the University of Illinois Urbana campus.

The course is sponsored by the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at the university.

Snowmobile Show Set

A snowmobile display is being sponsored Thursday and Friday by the Sports Chalet at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

The young fry will be able to get free rides from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Resident Promoted

Navy Petty Officer Third Class John J. Juskey was advanced to his present rate, while serving at Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Juskey, 3100 Thrush Ln., Rolling Meadows.

He was tenth last year and said that tenth is not good enough to get some prime picnic locations. He said the next eight people in line behind him were looking for the same grove.

During the all-night and part of the day vigil, Tucker said he left on occasion to get something to eat and dozed off whenever someone wasn't talking to him. Eight persons waited with him during most of the night.

When the office opened at 5 a.m. to take applications for picnic permits, there were about 50 persons waiting in line.

The picnic area that was so sought after was the Northwestern Woods Forest Preserve in Des Plaines.

He's A Two-Typewriter Teacher

James H. Dewey uses two typewriters to prepare tests for his language class students at James B. Conant High School.

Why? "Because it's the only way to write it in the Russian and English languages," he said as he turned away from his dual task and talked about his job.

Dewey studied at Michigan State University where he earned his bachelor of arts degree. He is still a student and is working on his master's in administrative high school education at Northern Illinois University.

Dewey and his wife Marcia live in Palatine.

He has been teaching Russian and German at Conant for four years and Marcia teaches French and Russian at Fremd High School.

"That's how we met . . . at a Russian meeting," Dewey said.

Dewey explained the Russian alphabet on one of his typewriters.

"Not enough students take it, because the alphabet scares them. But it shouldn't, it's easy to learn and takes about three days.

"The English language is the most difficult to learn," he added.

Dewey said in the Soviet Union, a branch of the Academy of Sciences constantly works on the language with spelling reforms and other corrections to simplify the language.

"We don't have anybody to do this and it really is necessary," Dewey said.

Dewey and his wife love to travel and vacations are usually spent chaperoning a group of students in Russia under the sponsorship of the American Institute for Foreign Travel.

"IT'S DIFFICULT" to explain exactly what happens to the students while they travel abroad. But somehow they all return with a different attitude than they left the country with," said Dewey.

"They learn about bureaucracy, and that people are genuine, but mostly to appreciate their own country and other cultures also," said Dewey.

What does his job lack? "Time. It's a 12-month job squeezed into 10 but I love it, working with young people is a rewarding experience," he added.

Three weeks in Russia, talking with people there, means a 100 per cent improvement in students' grasp of the language," Dewey said.

"Knowing about the country helps with its language but there comes a time when my students must grasp the grammar of the language," Dewey said.

"IF I CAN GET them to enjoy the session by my own theatrics, I will.

"It's worth every method to make the learning experience one that's enjoyable and effective," he added.

"Again, all this takes time. I need it to think of ways to make my classes worthwhile and interesting, for doing my own homework, and also to take care of our house in Palatine," said Dewey.

Hobbies? Walking in the woods with my wife, cycling, swimming, when I have the time, and the tuba, he said.

Dewey played tuba in the high school orchestra band and when faculty plays students at Conant games Dewey is recruited for the band.

"I'm also a would be stamp collector, or I would be if I had the time," he said.

"No complaints though, I like being busy and my career is an interesting one. After all I have all the joys of being a parent, knowing the children and working with them, and seeing them grow as persons but none of the headaches of parenthood," said Dewey.

Indian Mission Agent To Address Society

Joan Kenn of the United Indian Mission will speak before a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society this evening.

To be held at the Seal home, 2136 Linden Ln., Palatine, the society will also celebrate the birthdays of all members in 1971 as part of the evening's activities. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Kenn works near Vanderwagen, N.M., at an Indian Mission where she teaches Indian children about the Bible and Indian women handicrafts. She was a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute.

All women are invited to this meeting. The Women's Missionary Society is a group affiliated with the Palatine Bible Church.

A RELATIONSHIP BASED on mutual trust and respect between teacher and student is important in the mind of James Dewey, Conant High School teacher.

Protection Plan

by JIM HODL

Palatine Township is considering entering into a contract with the police departments of Palatine and Rolling Meadows to provide police protection to unincorporated areas of the township.

However, Township supervisor Howard Olsen has made it quite clear that nothing will be done to bring about this plan until the township is sure the unincorporated areas want extra police protection.

Currently, two sheriff's police cars patrol most of the unincorporated areas of the township, which is over half of the township area.

The township has not discussed the matter with the city managers of Rolling Meadows and Palatine for many weeks and has yet to talk to the sheriff's police about what they are planning.

Olsen said the board of auditors is receiving favorable mail toward the plan, but will wait until after a fact sheet on the police plan is distributed to judge the final response.

If response is favorable then, the township will move to create a special police district and tax residents in the unincorporated area at a rate of 0.1% of property value. This would have to be ratified at April's town meeting.

HOWEVER, THERE are some problems that should be looked into now, rather than later, if the township is to provide police protection for all who live within its boundaries by next year.

The first question that should be asked is one of jurisdiction. Cook County's sheriff's police have top jurisdiction in all areas of the county that are not municipalities. While Palatine and Rolling Meadows police may add men to their forces to patrol the unincorporated areas, their jurisdiction would still be basically within their village limits, according to a spokesman at the state's attorney's office.

Venturing outside of one's jurisdiction could present many problems. Capt. James Walsh, commander of the sheriff's police in north Cook County said the law doesn't say any group can contract with a town that doesn't have the jurisdiction or authority to supply police protection.

Illinois State statute 139, section 39.29, says the township may contract with municipalities in the township to furnish police protection through a special police district and a property tax. However, statute 34, section 3601 states that the county board may contract with township to furnish police protection outside of municipalities.

THERE IS A conflict here that the spokesman at the state's attorney's office said has yet to be resolved in the courts. If this is interpreted correctly, the township may have to negotiate although the county to get permission to supplant the county sheriff's police and get the county board to change the jurisdictions of the unincorporated areas.

problems entering the jurisdiction picture.

"If a squad car with two policemen leave the corporate limits of their town and crack-up their car and injure others, who is liable?" Walsh asks. "Is the township civilly and criminally responsible, or is the municipality?"

Walsh also asks what will happen should the people in the unincorporated areas decide they do not want the township police. Police are hired on civil service. If their job is eliminated, they cannot be fired. Who will pay their salary? The township or the village?

RECENTLY, SHERIFF-ELECT Richard Elrod said former sheriff Joseph Woods' "rent-a-cop" plan is illegal. Burbank, Ill., was renting police protection from the sheriff's police, but Elrod said such an arrangement is illegal. The township may have to wait for Elrod to explain what he means.

But this brings us back to the township's plan and waiting for public response. The people may want it and may even vote for a special police district and property tax in April.

However, there may be more to setting up a special police district than just making arrangements with Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Cook County. And it may be a long time before the plan can be carried through, which Olsen has been saying all along.

These problems should be looked into now rather than after a public response reading is taken. If response is like it appears to be now, some Palatine township residents may end up being taxed for something the township may still be trying to iron out many months from now.

Better Housing Urged By Counselor

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night, a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had title to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

Wolman generally describes inadequate housing as living quarters with poor plumbing and heating facilities, and a lack of empathy on the part of the owner to correct these problems. Some families are living in cars.

Many come to the center through its Outreach workers. The police, schools, township officials and even the telephone company refer families to Wolman. Most are Spanish-speaking, from Texas or Mexico.

APARTMENTS, HOUSES and out-buildings which can be converted to living quarters are Wolman's quarry. He is also looking for houses suitable for rehabilitation under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 235 programs.

The problem of finding housing for low-income or Spanish-speaking families in the Northwest suburbs is often one of attitudes, Wolman contends. "People sometimes say that these families are coming up here 'to take our money.' Nobody believes that these people have a lot of pride," he said.

In his visits with realtors, apartment managers and owners, Wolman inspects available housing and tries to convince them that they should rent to Spanish-speaking people. "There are language and cultural barriers," he said. "They may need help in filling out applications. Many families don't have credit records. We have to convince people that this doesn't make any difference in their willingness to pay rent.

"WE NEED to communicate the problems of these families to the right people and to work out compromises," said Wolman. "There are ways that some apartments can be rented at lower rates."

Talking with the right people involves more than apartment managers, according to Wolman. "It all goes back to building and zoning codes," he said. "For example, some codes don't allow two families, which in some cases means two generations of the same family, to live in the same apartment."

"I'm not looking for quick solutions," said Wolman. "It's often a problem of human relations. If people would just take a look around, they would realize that low-income families want to have the same things, such as good housing, as they do. They should think about how hard it was for them to get ahead. It's not going to cost them anything but a little of their indignance."

FROM A PRACTICAL standpoint, Wolman said that local communities dependent on industry as a tax base should work to establish low-income housing. Companies will either have to continue busing employees out, or they will finally ask, "Why can't these people live here?" he said.

"Some people give different reasons for not wanting to rent to these people," said Wolman. "Others admit their racism. Some people are afraid that minority groups living in the area will cause the price of their homes to drop. If they hadn't moved to the suburbs to avoid the minorities, prices would be more equitable."

WOLMAN CAME to the counseling job with a background in housing. "I was looking for something to do with social involvement," he said. "I felt I could help Realtors understand housing needs in social terms."

Wolman is a former apartment developer with five years experience in general construction. He came to the Chicago area from Washington, D.C. five years ago to work with his brother Jerry in the development of the John Hancock Center. Wolman is a graduate of Northwestern Illinois University with a major in English. He has taught English and creative writing, and several of his short stories and poems have been published.

Site Chosen For School In Dist. 59?

A six-member Dist. 59 Board of Education was apparently still in deadlock over the site selection for a new junior high school late last night. The district announced last week that a site was to be selected at this meeting.

Construction of a new junior high school to solve the overcrowding problem in the district was the recommendation of a special citizens committee which studied the problem.

A site adjacent to St. Zachary Catholic Church in Des Plaines on property owned by the church has been mentioned as a possible choice in a St. Zachary church bulletin. Other sites were also under consideration however, according to site selection committee reports.

BULLETIN

Dist. 59 Board of Education voted last night to purchase 4.3 acres of land from St. Zachary's Church in Des Plaines for $300,000 pending voter's approval in a future referendum.

The absence of Board President Richard Hess may have affected the site selection vote. It was announced at 10 p.m. that a vote may be long in coming. When one member in the audience asked if they could vote to break the deadlock, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel said, "It would take more than one vote to break what they've got going."

No indication was given previous to the closed meeting that there would be a long debate about the site.

Another issue that flared earlier in the evening was the hot lunch program in the district.

"MAZEL TOV" has taken the championship for Yorkshire Terriers in America, Canada and Bermuda. The dog's owner Dorothy Naegele, has raised and trained five champions in the past eight years.

Complex Is Delayed By Tight Money

Plans to build a $25 million apartment and business complex in unincorporated Mount Prospect may be changed, apparently because of financing problems.

In 1969, developers proposed construction of apartment buildings, stores, a franchise restaurant and a professional building on the site at River and Foundry roads.

Now, according to Dr. Paul Di Franco, an investor in the project, immediate construction plans include only a professional building. He cited the "tight money situation" as the chief cause.

Dr. Di Franco is one of several doctors who bought the 5.2 acres from George Doetsch. In 1969, Dr. Di Franco and Doetsch attended several hearings before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to request the land be rezoned from single-family to commercial use.

The zoning board recommended approval of the rezoning to the Cook County Board. However, after Prospect Heights residents objected to the rezoning in letters and petitions, the county board postponed considering the case.

HOWEVER, THE rezoning was approved recently by the county board 13 months after it first appeared on the board's agenda.

"Things have changed drastically since the complex was first proposed," said Dr. Di Franco.

"Nothing is definite now. We had a commitment for quite a sum of money but now the financing is unsettled."

Dr. Di Franco indicated that the investors plan to construct as much of the complex proposed in 1969 as they can afford. He said the medical building would take priority. He did not name a specific date for the start of construction but said, "construction will probably begin on the center by 1972."

"I don't know about the apartments though," said Dr. Di Franco. "I am not sure if they will go up."

ACCORDING TO testimony at the 1969 hearings, the complex was to be built by the D and H Building Co., a firm that was formed by Dr. Di Franco and Art Hansen. Dr. Di Franco said yesterday, however, it was uncertain whether the D and H Company would build the complex.

When the rezoning proposal was first made, many residents from the Parkview and River Trails Homeowners Associations objected to it. Those persons live north and west of the site.

However, Paul Tait, president of the Parkview group, and James Miller, president of the River Trails group, report they have had no reaction from their members since the rezoning was granted.

Tait said he didn't think his association would take any action except to watch for building permit violations. Miller said the River Trails group would probably continue its stand against the rezoning, but he did not know if any specific action will be taken.

Marathon Basketball: For Charity

Tired but victorious 21 boys from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling finished their marathon basketball game on New Year's Day, 152 hours after they started.

In completing the game they raised approximately $700 for the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling, the amount pledged by residents. They also broke a world record of 151 hours of continuous basketball set by the Aurora Basketball Association.

"At the end, we were tired. We were playing hard," said Holmes eighth grader Jeff Kohler, one of the marathon organizers. He added, "There were a lot of people there watching us."

Kohler said that "everyone at school's been talking about it," since classes resumed Monday following Christmas vacation. "We'd do it all again," he said.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, termed the boys' efforts "tremendous."

ALTHOUGH ABOUT 37 boys were on hand when the game started Dec. 26, the number had dwindled to 21 when the game concluded late in the afternoon on New Year's Day.

The boys played in four-hour shifts, with an eight-hour rest period between each playing period.

Some of the boys slept in sleeping bags at the school during their rest periods, while others went to their homes to grab some sleep.

Girl Injured In Auto Crash

A 16-year-old Mount Prospect girl sustained minor injuries last week in an auto accident on Busse Road near Pleasant Trail in Mount Prospect.

Susan Router, of 1418 Fern Dr., was taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, where she was treated and released.

Police said Miss Router was injured when her car struck a utility pole on Busse Road. Police said two passengers were sitting on the front seat when one passenger apparently bumped the driver who then lost control of her car.

Miss Router was charged with driving off the roadway and driving without a license. She is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Jan. 27 on the charges.

Only 15 Mouths To Feed

Their Home Has Gone To The Dogs...

by BETSY BROOKER

When Dorothy Naegele leaves a restaurant she asks for a dozen "doggie" bags, not just one.

She lives with her husband and daughter and a household of Yorkshire Terriers in Prospect Heights. Five of the "Yorkies" are champions.

It is Dorothy's business to raise and train champion dogs. She has loved animals since she was a small girl growing up in Des Plaines with dogs and horses for pets.

That love is contagious. Her husband and her two daughters have grown to love animals too. When the girls were babies, they had a German Shepherd for a babysitter. "The dog always let me know when they had wet diapers, or something else that was wrong," said Dorothy.

Now the girls are diapering their own children, and the German Shepherd has been replaced by several generations of "Yorkies."

THE NAEGELE'S split level home vibrates daily with a chorus of barks, set off in spurts. The barks originate from every floor of the house. Dorothy can identify each dog by the sound of its bark. "It is easy to tell them apart. They are like children. Each has his own personality and each is just as dear."

Raising Yorkies is like eating popcorn," said Dorothy. "The more you have, the more you want."

They are dainty, bundles of energy

Broken Water Main Dries Up Houses

About 45 houses in the 500 block of North Maple Street in Mount Prospect were without water Sunday afternoon when a main water pipe cracked.

David Creamer, director of the public works department, said residents were without water for about three hours while crews repaired the pipe. Creamer said the break was reported about 4 p.m. Sunday.

"We've had lots of problems with the pipe laid in this area of town. When the mains were installed, they weren't laid on flat ground. Consequently, we've had problems with cracks in the pipe," Creamer explained.

Creamer said the pipe was repaired and service was resumed at about 7 p.m. Sunday.

with long, silky coats. They race about the Naegele's house in packs of three or four, looking like little balls of fur.

Whether they room in the basement or in the bedroom, every "Yorky" is taken from his pen for a daily run in the living room. Every other day each Yorky is groomed by Dorothy.

It sounds like a big project—grooming and exercising so many dogs. But it is easy for Dorothy. She has it all worked out in a schedule.

THE DOGS THAT are not appearing in the ring are given shorter shifts with Dorothy because they require less attention. But the show dogs, the champions, have to be taught to obey commands.

The grooming of the show dogs is a much more serious matter too. Dorothy said it takes her about four hours to groom a show dog. Her three-time champion "Mazel Tov" has to have its long hair wrapped up in strips of wax paper so that it doesn't break off.

Mazel Tov just won a third championship when we are in for a big win. I just look at my husband outside of the ring and if he is drained white, I know we are going to win.

IN ADDITION to the training and other preparations, going to dog shows means traveling to places like Bermuda and England. And it means getting dozens of cards at Christmas from owners of show dogs all over the world.

Dog shows are not profit-making ventures according to Dorothy. It is very expensive. You have traveling costs and entry costs and vet bills. We are always in the red.

While the Naegeles may not have a lot of cash to show for their wins, they do have a breakfast filled with almost 200 trophies. The trophies, mostly silver, range from plates and bowls to pitchers and cigarette lighters. There are so many Dorothy can't keep them polished. "Once in a while I will pick up one and polish off the tarnish, but I can't get to them all."

More important than the trophies to the Naegeles is the personal satisfaction. "Our reward is the sport of finishing off a champion. When I get a win, I know that I made that win."

"Animals serve a very good purpose in life. They have a lot to teach us. And you get so much love back from them."

Dorothy said she will never lose her interest in dogs. "I can't help but be involved with them. I want to have bigger and better champions."

The final national traffic toll for the New Year's weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (Lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glencoe, for a leadership position. The party traditionally has had two house leadership positions with one filled by a Chicago legislator and one by a downstate legislator.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness—a high Philippines police official—expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

President Nixon said Monday night he did not intend to resume wholesale bombing of strategic targets in North Vietnam and would confine retaliatory air strikes to military targets.

Nixon again warned that if North Vietnamese troops begin massing to strike remaining Americans in Vietnam, he would order U.S. planes to bomb—but only in those military targets and only as necessary.

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

Christmas comes to a snowy end.

Fire Services Plans Told

A program designed to acquaint new Mount Prospect residents with services provided by the fire department will be launched by the Mount Prospect Fire Department.

Beginning today, firemen will deliver a letter and information packet on the fire service to all new residents.

"Fire departments provide services in addition to fire protection, and a new resident may not be familiar with these programs because they differ from one department to another," Chief Larry Pairitz said yesterday.

Fireman Lowell Fell, who designed the program, said firemen will deliver the packets to all new residents on a continuing basis throughout the year. "The letter explains all the services provided by the department. The packet includes general information on home fire safety rules and regulations, common household fire hazards and the emergency warning system," Fell explained.

THE LETTER INFORMS residents the fire department employs 25 full-time firemen and 14 volunteers, who staff two fire stations, the headquarters station located in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., and the southside station located at Golf and Busse roads.

Fell said that in addition to fire protection and emergency rescue service, the department provides free emergency ambulance service for residents.

Additional facilities of the department include the Fire Prevention Bureau, and Bureau of Emergency Planning Residents with questions about fire safety rules and regulations and local fire ordinances may call the Fire Prevention Bureau at 437-3930. Inspectors will conduct free home safety surveys on request.

DURING THE YEAR, the Bureau of Emergency Planning sponsors classes on family preparedness for emergency weather conditions — such as tornado, snow storm or nuclear attack. In connection with the emergency planning program, civil defense shelters have been secured throughout the area and stocked with supplies.

The Bureau of Emergency Planning also sponsors classes on "medical self-help" and first aid. There is no charge for any of the classes sponsored by the bureau.

"A special service is also provided for invalids and disabled persons. The department will post an I-sticker, which stands for invalid, on the front door of the resident's home so firemen will know, in event of fire or emergency, there's a person in the house who will require additional help," Pairitz explained.

Residents may obtain an I-sticker by calling the fire department at 253-3930.

Fell said the fire department will be furnished with a list of new residents by the village's finance department.

Greater Suburban Voice?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glencoe, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Central Remodeling Sought

Alexander B. Magnus, new owner of the Central School building, will appear before the Mount Prospect Plan Commission tomorrow, again seeking approval of his plans to remodel the structure. Magnus wants to convert it to an office building.

The structure at Central Road and Rte. 63 is in downtown Mount Prospect. It was sold to Magnus last year by Dist. 57.

This will be Magnus' third appearance before the commission. His two previous plans were denied because of "ambiguous" provisions for parking which did not conform to the village ordinance requiring 25 per cent open space on the property, according to J.C. Busenhart, secretary and a voting member of the plan commission.

His plans also did not fulfill a village ordinance requiring one parking space for each 200 square feet of gross office space.

THE PROPERTY is now zoned B-3, which would permit the use of the land for retail, commercial use, including an office building. Magnus has not received a building permit, nor have his plans been reviewed by the fire prevention bureau and the architectural committee.

Magnus purchased the building and property last spring from School Dist. 57 as a land trust through the Mount Prospect State Bank. The purchase price was $410,000.

Central School was a junior high school until last spring, when the approximately 350 students were transferred to Lincoln Junior High School.

Crews Have Streets In Good Condition

Public works crews worked around the clock Sunday and Monday clearing several inches of snow off streets and parking lots throughout Mount Prospect.

The condition of most streets and intersections throughout the village was good with the exception of some icy patches late yesterday, according to David Creamer, director of the public works department.

Creamer said all streets and intersections have been plowed more than once and salted as well. "We have a few intersections which need additional plowing and widening, but all in all, we're in good shape," he said.

Public works crews began spreading salt at about 8 a.m. Sunday and then switched to plowing snow shortly after noon. All streets were plowed and then salted following freezing temperatures Monday morning, Creamer said.

Local Girl Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Linda J. Meyers, 714 S. Hi Lusi, Mount Prospect, was among 119 current seniors and recent graduates elected to membership in the Indiana University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic society in the arts and sciences.

Students elected to Phi Beta Kappa are those who have placed in the top 10 per cent of their class.

Local Man's Music Featured At Recital

Instrumental music composed by William Barnes of Mount Prospect was featured in a dance recital held recently at the University of Illinois Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

The compositions, "An Instantaneous and Agreeable Act," and "For Suitcase and Dancer" were part of the first undergraduate dance recital to be held at Krannert Center.

Barnes also performed in the recital.

Students Present Japanese Plays

William Barnes, 1450 Blackhawk Dr., Mount Prospect, performed recently in an evening of popular 14th Century Japanese theatre pieces at the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Barnes appeared as "The Believer" in the play "The Service and the Offering."

Police Find Pair Dead In Home

An Arlington Heights doctor and his wife were found dead in their home Sunday, apparently victims of gunshot wounds.

Dead are Dr. Earl S. Stephenson, 66, and his wife, about 63. They were found by police lying on a bed in their home at 225 S. Highland Ave., about 3 p.m. Sunday. Police said a .44-caliber magnum pistol was held in the doctor's right hand.

On a night table near the bodies, police found a note which read, "We are in love. We are tired. We are old."

Police went to the home after the operator of a telephone answering service reported that Dr. Stephenson, usually very punctual, had not answered any messages since Friday afternoon. Police said the couple had last been seen when they left the home of friends in Long Grove about 5 p.m. Friday, apparently in good spirits.

The deaths occurred late Saturday afternoon, according to a doctor who examined the bodies.

Church Services Set For Epiphany

Two special church services will be conducted this week by members of the Holy Resurrection Orthodox Church in observance of Epiphany. The announcement was made yesterday by Father Cyril Lukashonak, pastor.

Tonight, the eve of Epiphany, a great vespers service and the blessing of the water will be held. The service begins at 7 p.m. at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

Tomorrow, the day of Epiphany, a divine liturgy service will be held at 10 a.m. at the congregation's rectory, 1046 Wheeling Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Father Lukashonak said that in the Orthodox Church, "Epiphany is a celebration of when Christ was baptized in the River Jordan. It was at this point that Christ's ministry started."

Tie Vote Puts Off 211-214 Decision

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 63 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT was representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High. If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

No Laughter In Deserted Singleton Home...

THE SINGLETON FAMILY — Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Singleton and their children, from left, Michael, 7, Diana, 9, Donna, 20 months, and Sandra, 9. Donna was reported in critical condition yesterday.

The Singleton house at 404 Ridgewood Rd. in Elk Grove Village remains empty in this, the first week of the new year.

Normally there would be laughter and the countless other sounds that accompany children living in the white frame building with the bright blue trim.

Instead, there is nothing. It is quiet.

A four-foot artificial Christmas tree is in the living room not too far from a red cardboard fireplace. There are a few games around the bottom of the tree. Christmas cards decorate the doorway leading to the kitchen where a copy of Chicago Today from Dec. 23 lies on the kitchen table.

The Singletons left Elk Grove Village for the holidays in order to be in Tazewell, in Claiborne County, Tenn., to spend them with relatives.

Edsel Singleton, 32, a centerless grinder at R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co., 300 Bond St., Elk Grove Village, had gotten the time off from work to make the long road trip to be with his family and friends.

EARLY SUNDAY the trip ended in a tragedy when the Singleton stationwagon collided head-on with another car on Interstate 74 near Shelbyville, Ind. All members of the Singleton family died with the exception of Donna Sue, 20 months old, who was reported in critical condition with internal injuries yesterday at the Shelbyville Major Hospital.

Three middle-aged women, passengers in the other car that had been in the highway's westbound lane traveling east, also died in the fiery collision.

Eight persons died, making the auto accident one of the worst in Indiana. Nine died in another accident in 1969.

The Rev. Schuyler Butler, of the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave., where the Singletons were members, said the congregation, was shocked when it heard the news of the deaths after Sunday's 8:30 a.m. service. A short memorial service was then held for the family at the next service.

"They were all very faithful and active in the church," said the Rev. Butler. "They had plenty of that old southern hospitality and they were tremendous people."

Alice Singleton, 30, was in charge of the nursery-cradle roll at the Sunday School and Edsel was a member of the church's welcoming committee. Mrs. Singleton was also active with the women's missionary fellowship and a counselor to the girls club.

THE SINGLETONS lived in Elk Grove Village since early 1966. Three of their children attended Ira Rupley School.

"They were very, very quiet people but also very supportive of school and involved with their children," said Ronald Glovetski, principal.

Nancy Roth, of 280 Redwood Ave. and a friend of the Singletons, who was at the Singleton home yesterday said, "Each of them had a very personal relationship with Christ. They knew that He was the answer."

Eldon Roth, who accompanied his wife to the house, said, "We knew them fairly well. We used to live right around the corner on Willow Lane. They were very regular in attendance at church."

"I remember before he left, Edsel — he didn't like to be called Ed — didn't want to leave right away because Johnny Cash was on television that night," said Roth.

Michael Frisby, general manager at Mr. Singleton's place of employment, said:

"I knew him as well as I could. He was very capable — one of the best men I had out there as far as capability to produce."

Frisby said Singleton "took a lot of pride in his work and he was very conscientious — a very unusual guy."

Singleton was employed at the firm, makers of precision products, for 1½ years.

Frisby said the employees may send flowers or take up a collection in memory of the family which will be buried in Tennessee. Funeral arrangements were not complete yesterday.

Public Aid Report Questioned

Welfare Rise Due To Industry Shift?

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The rising costs of welfare in Cook County may, in part, be caused by the exodus in recent years of Chicago industrial plants to areas outside the city, including the Northwest suburbs, County Commissioner John H. Stroger Jr., said yesterday.

Stroger, newly-elected commissioner from Chicago, raised the question when approval of the most recent report of the County Department of Public Aid came up before the board.

The commissioner halted the whirlwind session and asked approval be deferred until he had an opportunity to study the report.

Stroger said he didn't actually object to the report, but questioned whether the welfare philosophy wasn't over-emphasizing public assistance. He described the correlation of the growing general assistance rolls with rising unemployment, and noted he knew of many welfare recipients in his own neighborhood on Chicago's South Side who lost jobs when their employers moved to the suburbs.

"It has come to my attention there is gainful employment in the suburbs," Stroger said. "But the distance workers would have to travel makes it virtually impossible for them to hold jobs there."

FOLLOWING THE meeting, Stroger said he thought more study by county welfare officials in conjunction with other agencies was needed to determine if low cost housing in the suburbs might not effectively contribute to curbing unemployment.

"Why should the county be content to pump out welfare when it should be helping relocate these workers?" Stroger asked.

He suggested industries relocated in the suburbs were finding it difficult to fill jobs.

"I'm sure there are many factories in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect that can't get enough employees," Stroger said.

He admitted he had no information to bear out just how much of an unemployment problem industry relocation caused. He recommended a study by welfare officials to determine the location of job opportunities, housing needs, and transportation problems.

"We've got to stop this thing in terms of hand-outs, and find something that is self-sustaining," Stroger said.

HIS REMARKS brought response from Commissioner Charles Chaplin, who denounced those on welfare rolls not legally entitled to receive public assistance.

"I think there is a fantastic amount of money going down the drain because of a lack of investigation," said Chaplin. He said 300 names were being added to the county's welfare list each day.

Board Pres. George W. Dunne challenged Chaplin's statement, saying welfare abuse was the exception, not the rule.

Dunne cited as a cause apparent manpower shortages in the welfare department and noted that turnover rate among employees was about 50 per cent annually.

Dunne said he had been in contact with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and hoped to meet with him this week on the problem.

"I am more concerned with the inability of the system to correct a condition that should not be," Dunne added.

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night, a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had little to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

Wolman generally describes inadequate housing as living quarters with poor plumbing and heating facilities, and a lack of empathy on the part of the owner to correct these problems. Some families are living in cars.

Many come to the center through its Outreach workers. The police, schools, township officials and even the telephone company "refer families to Wolman. Most are Spanish-speaking, from Texas or Mexico."

APARTMENTS, HOUSES and out-buildings which can be converted to living quarters are Wolman's quarry. He is also looking for houses suitable for rehabilitation under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 235 programs.

The problem of finding housing for low-income or Spanish-speaking families in the Northwest suburbs is often one of attitudes, Wolman contends. "People sometimes say that these families are coming up here 'to take our money.' Nobody believes that these people have a lot of pride," he said.

In his visits with realtors, apartment managers and owners, Wolman inspects available housing and tries to convince them that they should rent to Spanish-speaking people. "There are language and cultural barriers," he said. "They may need help in filling out applications. Many families don't have credit records. We have to convince people that this doesn't make any difference in their willingness to pay rent."

"WE NEED TO communicate the problems of these families to the right people and to work out compromises," said Wolman. "There are ways that some apartments can be rented at lower rates."

Talking with the right people involves more than apartment managers, according to Wolman. "It all goes back to building and zoning codes," he said. "For example, some codes don't allow two families, which in some cases means two generations of the same family, to live in the same apartment."

"I'm not looking for quick solutions," said Wolman. "It's often a problem of human relations. If people would just take a look around, they would realize that low-income families want to have the same things, such as good housing, as they do. They should think about how hard it was for them to get ahead. It's not going to cost them anything but a little of their indignance."

FROM A PRACTICAL standpoint, Wolman said that local communities dependent on industry as a tax base should work to establish low-income housing. Companies will either have to continue busing employees out, or they will finally ask, "Why can't these people live here?" he said.

"Some people give different reasons for not wanting to rent to these people," said Wolman. "Others admit their racism. Some people are afraid that minority groups living in the area will cause the price of their homes to drop. If they hadn't moved to the suburbs to avoid the minorities, prices would be more equitable."

WOLMAN CAME TO the counseling job with a background in housing. "I was looking for something to do with social involvement," he said. "I felt I could help Realtors understand housing needs in social terms."

Wolman is a former apartment developer with five years experience in general construction. He came to the Chicago area from Washington, D.C. five years ago to work with his brother Jerry in the development of the John Hancock Center. Wolman is a graduate of Northwestern Illinois University with a major in English. He has taught English and creative writing, and several of his short stories and poems have been published.

Charge Morton Grove Man With Auto Theft

George Nalbandian, 18, of Morton Grove, was charged with auto theft and cited on two traffic violations Saturday morning when stopped by police on Northwest Highway near Louis Street in Mount Prospect.

Police stopped Nalbandian about 5:30 a.m. Saturday for speeding. They discovered he was driving an auto reported stolen from a Chicago resident Friday. In addition to auto theft, police charged Nalbandian with speeding and driving without a license.

Police said Nalbandian was driving a 1963 Chevrolet owned by David Wodlinger of Chicago. Nalbandian was released to Chicago police. Bond was set at $2,000. He is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Feb. 13 on the charges.

Cubs To Play Faculty Of Prospect

Members of the Chicago Cubs will trade their spikes for basketball shoes and take on the faculty at Prospect High School in a basketball game next Tuesday in Prospect fieldhouse. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased in advance at the office at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

The cost is $2 per person. Profits will go toward the school's foreign exchange student program and "charities singled out by the student council" according to Howard Sandlund, director of student activities at Prospect.

Cub players expected to participate in the game include Ron Santo, Billy Williams, Glenn Beckert, Don Kessinger, Ferguson Jenkins, Ken Holtzman, Randy Hundley, Phil Regan, Paul Popovich and J. C. Martin.

Cub players will be available after the game to sign autographs. Sportscaster Red Rush will be the play-by-play announcer.

Nursery Class Sign-up On

Parents can register their children this week for nursery classes at Trinity United Methodist Church, 605 W. Golf Rd., Mount Prospect. Mrs. Bonnie Edwards, the school's director, said yesterday several vacancies remain in the two classes.

A new session of classes started this week at the school. Classes are now held twice a week. Separate classes for 3 and 4-year-olds are held. According to Mrs. Edwards a three-day-a-week class will be started if enrollment warrants it. "We hope to have it going by Feb. 1," she said.

Fee for the classes is $17 a month. The school will be open through the end of May. Parents can register children by calling Mrs. Edwards at the church from 9 a.m. through 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number is 439-0950. In addition to the monthly fee of $17, an initial registration fee of $10 is charged.

The nursery school, sponsored by the church, has been in operation since last September. Currently 30 children are enrolled.

TALKING IN TERMS of housing needs is the job of Arnold Wolman, counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows. He estimates there are 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs living in inadequate housing.

Site Chosen For School In Dist. 59?

A six-member Dist. 59 Board of Education was apparently still in deadlock over the site selection for a new junior high school late last night. The district announced last week that a site was to be selected at this meeting.

Construction of a new junior high school to solve the overcrowding problem in the district was the recommendation of a special citizens committee which studied the problem.

A site adjacent to St. Zachary Catholic Church in Des Plaines on property owned by the church has been mentioned as a possible choice in a St. Zachary church bulletin. Other sites were also under consideration however, according to site selection committee reports.

BULLETIN

Dist. 59 Board of Education voted last night to purchase 4.3 acres of land from St. Zachary's Church in Des Plaines for $90,000 pending voter's approval in a future referendum.

The absence of Board President Richard Hess may have affected the site selection vote. It was announced at 10 p.m. that a vote may be long in coming. When one member in the audience asked if they could vote to break the deadlock, Al Waitman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel said, "It would take more than one vote to break what they've got going."

No indication was given previous to the closed meeting that there would be a long debate about the site.

Another issue that flared earlier in the evening was the hot lunch program in the district.

"MAZEL TOV" has taken the championship for Yorkshire Terriers in America, Canada and Bermuda. The dog's owner Dorothy Naegle, has raised and trained five champions in the past eight years.

South Park To Be Ready For Baseball

Next spring youngsters will be playing baseball for the first time at the new South Park, a 30-acre tract of land bought by the Mount Prospect Park District in February of 1969.

Purchasing the property was one of the provisions in a $2.4 million bond referendum okayed by voters. Located at Janice Street and Algonquin Road in Des Plaines, the park will mark the first land purchase and development completed by the park district since the referendum's passage.

Provided in the referendum was $278,000 for the purchase and development of the property. The development of the park, expected to be completed by the early part of spring, consists of grading, seeding and landscaping as well as a lighted baseball diamond, two softball diamonds, four tennis courts, walking and bicycle paths and playground apparatus.

Long-range plans include the construction of a community center and swimming pool "comparable to that which is at Lions Park" according to Robert Jackson, president of the park board of commissioners.

PARK DISTRICT officials contend that the construction of a community center and swimming pool will necessitate another referendum. Jackson said such a referendum could not be expected for another "three to five years."

Another piece of property purchased through the referendum is the 18-acre West Park site located at Route 83 and Lombard Boulevard in Mount Prospect. West Park development will include baseball diamonds, tennis courts and skating facilities. Development of West Park will cost $153,000.

A retention basin on the property but under the ownership of the Village of Mount Prospect will alleviate flooding problems in the area. Development of the land, including the retention basin, is scheduled to be completed late next summer.

"By next spring we should have a full-fledged park in South Park," said Jackson. "The land has been landscaped, graded and we'll have baseball diamonds, tennis courts and playground equipment there."

"We've stuck pretty doggone close to the allotted sum set down in the referendum budget for the purchase of the land, and the same thing holds for the money budgeted for the development of the property," Jackson said.

"OUR LONG-RANGE plans for the area is for a park similar to that at Lions Park. We're providing electrical power for the area with the provision that someday a pool will be built along with a recreation center comparable to that which is presently at Lions," said Jackson.

The provisions of the referendum also called for the construction of Kopp Pool, completed last summer, and the Lions Park Community Center, scheduled to be completed Jan. 18.

Complex Is Delayed By Tight Money

Plans to build a $2.5 million apartment and business complex in unincorporated Mount Prospect may be changed, apparently because of financing problems.

In 1969, developers proposed construction of apartment buildings, stores, a franchise restaurant and a professional building on the site at River and Foundry roads.

Now, according to Dr. Paul Di Franco, an investor in the project, immediate construction plans include only a professional building. He cited the "tight money situation" as the chief cause.

Dr. Di Franco is one of several doctors who bought the 5.2 acres from George Doetsch. In 1969, Dr. Di Franco and Doetsch attended several hearings before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to request the land be rezoned from single-family to commercial use.

The zoning board recommended approval of the rezoning to the Cook County Board. However after Prospect Heights residents objected to the rezoning in letters and petitions, the county board postponed considering the case.

HOWEVER, THE rezoning was approved recently by the county board, 13 months after it first appeared on the board's agenda.

"Things have changed drastically since the complex was first proposed," said Dr. Di Franco.

"Nothing is definite now. We had a commitment for quite a sum of money, but now the financing is unsettled."

Di Franco indicated that the investors plan to construct as much of the complex proposed in 1969 as they can afford. He said the medical building would take priority. He did not name a specific date for the start of construction but said, "construction will probably begin on the center by 1972."

"I don't know about the apartments, though," said Di Franco. "I am not sure if they will go up."

Their Home Has Gone To The Dogs...

by BETSY BROOKER

When Dorothy Naegle leaves a restaurant she asks for a dozen "doggie" bags, not just one.

She lives with her husband and daughter and a houseful of Yorkshire Terriers in Prospect Heights. Five of the "Yorkies" are champions.

It is Dorothy's business to raise and train champion dogs. She has loved animals since she was a small girl growing up in Des Plaines with dogs and horses for pets.

That love is contagious. Her husband and her two daughters have grown to love animals too. When the girls were babies, they had a German Shepherd for a babysitter. "The dog always let me know when they had wet diapers, or something else that was wrong," said Dorothy.

Now the girls are diapering their own children, and the German Shepherd has been replaced by several generations of "Yorkies."

THE NAEGELES' split level home vibrates daily with a chorus of barks, set off in spurts. The barks originate from every floor of the house. Dorothy can identify each dog by the sound of its bark. "It is easy to tell them apart. They are like children. Each has his own personality and each is just as dear."

They are dainty, bundles of energy

Broken Water Main Dries Up Houses

About 45 houses in the 500 block of North Maple Street in Mount Prospect were without water Sunday afternoon when a main water pipe cracked.

David Creamer, director of the public works department, said residents were without water for about three hours while crews repaired the pipe. Creamer said the break was reported about 4 p.m. Sunday.

"We've had lots of problems with the pipe laid in this area of town. When the mains were installed, they weren't laid on flat ground. Consequently, we've had problems with cracks in the pipe," Creamer explained.

Creamer said the pipe was repaired and service was resumed at about 7 p.m. Sunday.

with long, silky coats. They race about the Naegle's house in packs of three or four, looking like little balls of fur.

Whether they room in the basement or in the bedroom, every "Yorky" is taken from his pen for a daily run in the living room. Every other day each Yorky is groomed by Dorothy.

It sounds like a big project... grooming and exercising so many dogs. But it is easy for Dorothy. She has it all worked out in a schedule.

THE DOGS THAT are not appearing in the ring are given shorter shifts with Dorothy because they require less attention. But the show dogs, the champions, have to be taught to obey commands.

The grooming of the show dogs is a much more serious matter too. Dorothy said it takes her about four hours to groom a show dog. Her three-time champion "Mazel Tov" has to have its long hair wrapped up in strips of wax paper so that it doesn't break off.

Mazel Tov just won a third championship when we are in for a big win. I just look at my husband outside of the ring and if he is drained white, I know we are going to win."

IN ADDITION to the training and other preparations, going to dog shows means traveling to places like Bermuda and England. And it means getting dozens of cards at Christmas from owners of show dogs all over the world.

Dog shows are not profit-making ventures according to Dorothy. "It is very expensive. You have traveling costs and entry costs and vet bills. We are always in the red."

While the Naegles may not have a lot of cash to show for their wins, they do have a breakfront filled with almost 200 trophies. The trophies, mostly silver, range from plates and bowls to pitchers and cigarette lighters. There are so many Dorothy can't keep them polished. "Once in a while I will pick up one and polish off the tarnish, but I can't get to them all."

More important than the trophies to the Naegles is the personal satisfaction. "Our reward is the sport of finishing off a champion. When I get a win, I know that I made that win."

"Animals serve a very good purpose in life. They have a lot to teach us. And you get so much love back from them."

Dorothy said she will never lose her interest in dogs. "I can't help but be involved with them... I want to have bigger and better champions."

The final national traffic toll for the New Years weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glencoe, for a leadership position.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

President Nixon said Monday night he did not intend to resume wholesale bombing of strategic targets in North Vietnam and would confine retaliatory air strikes to military targets.

Nixon again warned that if North Vietnamese troops begin massing to strike remaining Americans in Vietnam, he would order U.S. planes to bomb — "but only in those military targets and only as necessary."

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

Christmas comes to a snowy end.

Fire Services Plans Told

A program designed to acquaint new Mount Prospect residents with services provided by the fire department will be launched by the Mount Prospect Fire Department.

Beginning today, firemen will deliver a letter and information packet on the fire service to all new residents.

"Fire departments provide services in addition to fire protection, and a new resident may not be familiar with these programs because they differ from one department to another," Chief Larry Pairitz said yesterday.

Fireman Lowell Fell, who designed the program, said firemen will deliver the packets to all new residents on a continuing basis throughout the year. "The letter explains all the services provided by the department. The packet includes general information on home fire safety rules and regulations, common household fire hazards and the emergency warning system," Fell explained.

THE LETTER INFORMS residents the fire department employs 25 full-time firemen and 14 volunteers, who staff two fire stations: the headquarters station located in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., and the southside station located at Golf and Busse roads.

Fell said that in addition to fire protection and emergency rescue service, the department provides free emergency ambulance service for residents.

Additional facilities of the department include the Fire Prevention Bureau, and Bureau of Emergency Planning. Residents with questions about fire safety rules and regulations and local fire ordinances may call the Fire Prevention Bureau at 437-3930. Inspectors will conduct free home safety surveys on request.

DURING THE YEAR, the Bureau of Emergency Planning sponsors classes on family preparedness for emergency weather conditions — such as tornado, snow storm or nuclear attack. In connection with the emergency planning program, civil defense shelters have been secured throughout the area and stocked with supplies.

The Bureau of Emergency Planning also sponsors classes on "medical self-help" and first aid. There is no charge for any of the classes sponsored by the bureau.

"A special service is also provided for invalids and disabled persons. The department will post an I-sticker, which stands for invalid, on the front door of the resident's home so firemen will know, in event of fire or emergency, there's a person in the house who will require additional help," Pairitz explained.

Residents may obtain an I-sticker by calling the fire department at 253-3930. Fell said the fire department will be furnished with a list of new residents by the village's finance department.

Greater Suburban Voice?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glencoe, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Annapolis, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Central Remodeling Sought

Alexander B. Magnus, new owner of the Central School building, will appear before the Mount Prospect Plan Commission tomorrow, again seeking approval of his plans to remodel the structure. Magnus wants to convert it to an office building.

The structure at Central Road and Rte. 83 is in downtown Mount Prospect. It was sold to Magnus last year by Dist. 57.

This will be Magnus' third appearance before the commission. His two previous plans were denied because of "ambiguous" provisions for parking which did not conform to the village ordinance requiring 25 per cent open space on the property, according to J.C. Busenhart, secretary and a voting member of the plan commission.

His plans also did not fulfill a village ordinance requiring one parking space for each 200 square feet of gross office space.

Crews Have Streets In Good Condition

Public works crews worked around the clock Sunday and Monday clearing several inches of snow off streets and parking lots throughout Mount Prospect.

The condition of most streets and intersections throughout the village was good with the exception of some icy patches late yesterday, according to David Creamer, director of the public works department.

Creamer said all streets and intersections have been plowed more than once and salted as well. "We have a few intersections which need additional plowing and widening, but all in all, we're in good shape," he said.

Public works crews began spreading salt at about 8 a.m. Sunday and then switched to plowing snow shortly after noon. All streets were plowed and then salted following freezing temperatures Monday morning, Creamer said.

Local Girl Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Linda J. Meyers, 714 S. Hi Lusi, Mount Prospect, was among 119 current seniors and recent graduates elected to membership in the Indiana University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic society in the arts and sciences.

Students elected to Phi Beta Kappa are those who have placed in the top 10 per cent of their class.

Local Man's Music Featured At Recital

Instrumental music composed by William Barnes of Mount Prospect was featured in a dance recital held recently at the University of Illinois Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

The compositions, "An Instantaneous and Agreeable Act," and "For Suitcase and Dancer" were part of the first undergraduate dance recital to be held at Krannert Center.

Barnes also performed in the recital.

Two Injured In Friday Auto Crash

Two Elk Grove Village residents sustained minor injuries in an auto accident Friday afternoon on Busse Road near Dempster Street in Mount Prospect.

Barbara and William Paris, 254 Greenbriar Ave., were taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, treated and released.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Paris were injured when their car struck a traffic median on Busse Road. Mrs. Paris, 39, the driver, was charged with driving off the roadway and damage to highway property.

She is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Feb. 10 on the charges.

Students Present Japanese Plays

William Barnes, 1450 Blackhawk Dr., Mount Prospect, performed recently in an evening of popular 14th Century Japanese theatre pieces at the Krannert Center.

Students of the Performing Arts at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Barnes appeared as "The Believer" in the play "The Service and the Offering."

Church Services Set For Epiphany

Two special church services will be conducted this week by members of the Holy Resurrection Orthodox Church in observance of Epiphany. The announcement was made yesterday by Father Cyril Lukashonak, pastor.

Tonight, the eve of Epiphany, a great vespers service and the blessing of the water will be held. The service begins at 7 p.m. at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

Tomorrow, the day of Epiphany, a divine liturgy service will be held at 10 a.m. at the congregation's rectory, 1046 Wheeling Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Father Lukashonak said that in the Orthodox Church, "Epiphany is a celebration of when Christ was baptized in the River Jordan. It was at this point that Christ's ministry started."

Police Find Pair Dead In Home

An Arlington Heights doctor and his wife were found dead in their home Sunday, apparently victims of gunshot wounds.

Dead are Dr. Earl S. Stephenson, 66, and his wife, about 63. They were found by police lying on a bed in their home at 225 S. Highland Ave., about 3 p.m. Sunday. Police said a .44-caliber magnum pistol was held in the doctor's right hand.

On a night table near the bodies, police found a note which read, "We are in love. We are tired. We are old."

Police went to the home after the operator of a telephone answering service reported that Dr. Stephenson, usually very punctual, had not answered any messages since Friday afternoon. Police said the couple had last been seen when they left the home of friends in Long Grove about 5 p.m. Friday, apparently in good spirits.

The deaths occurred late Saturday afternoon, according to a doctor who examined the bodies.

Tie Vote Puts Off 211-214 Decision

A tie vote by the Cook County Board of School Trustees has delayed the answer to whether or not all of Rolling Meadows High School students east of Rte. 53 can attend Rolling Meadows High School next fall.

After four hours of testimony yesterday in the Chicago Civic Center office of County Supt. Robert Hanrahan, the board voted to adjourn to Jan. 13 to make a final decision.

One board member from Evanston was not present, and another from LaGrange will not be present Jan. 13. The LaGrange board member was one of three who voted to approve the disannexation of part of Rolling Meadows from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214.

Both high school districts petitioning residents and the city of Rolling Meadows were represented at the hearing. The delay will also cause a holdup in the sale of $1.5 million in bonds by Dist. 211.

Nine Rolling Meadows residents, including Mayor Roland J. Meyer and William Nesbitt, president of the Carl Sandburg Jr. High School PTA, spoke in favor of the disannexation.

NESBITT WAS representing the Junior High PTA which unanimously voted last fall to endorse the disannexation. All the students affected by the boundary line change attend Carl Sandburg Jr. High School.

Four Rolling Meadows residents opposed the disannexation, saying they have high school students at Fremd High School who are not upset by the fact that they won't be attending their community high school.

Three county board members questioned what will happen to the 27 juniors now at Fremd high school who will not be able to attend Rolling Meadows High. If the area is disannexed, they will have to be sent to another district 214 High School because Rolling Meadows will have no senior classes until the fall of 1972.

Meyer suggested the city could negotiate with the two school districts to use state income tax to pay part of the tuition of the 27 seniors so they could remain at Fremd High School.

Speaking for Dist. 211, Robert Creek, board president, said the board agrees "in heart" with the disannexation, but that the financial setback of losing $250,000 in bonding power annually has brought the district to an opposing viewpoint.

Dist. 214, represented by Richard Bachhuber, board president, said they would accept any decision from the county board but could not come out and endorse additional students for their district.

Weekend Snow Takes Its Toll

Two Deaths, Numerous Injuries Reported

Two Arlington Heights residents died in the first snow storm of the new year Sunday, as up to eight inches of snow blanketed the Northwest Suburban area.

An Arlington Heights native, Richard (Dixie) Kehe, 65, of 113 N. Pine Ave., died during the storm — the apparent victim of a heart attack.

Kehe reportedly was found lying in Northwest Highway, near the intersection of Dunton Ave., shortly before 4 p.m. He was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

A few hours later, Herschel A. Howells, 62, of 2 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights, was found dead on the front porch of his home, also an apparent heart attack victim.

Howells' wife told police he had been shoveling snow just prior to the time she discovered him on the porch.

Howells was pronounced dead at Northwest Community Hospital at 5:40 p.m.

A 29-YEAR-OLD Arlington Heights man was also taken to the hospital after he collapsed while shoveling. A spokesman at the hospital said Alan Lorenz, of 2126 Elizabeth Dr., was examined and released.

Doctors at the hospital were also kept busy during the storm with a variety of other injuries connected with winter activities.

The hospital spokesman said five persons were treated for injuries they received from snow blowers. Most of these involved the operator attempting to remove debris from the blowers while it was in operation. A flurry of snowmobile, skiing, and hockey injuries matched the storm's activity.

Meanwhile, almost 30 village public works employees were atop snow-moving equipment, trying to keep up with the storm.

Gene Willroth, public works director, said crews hit the streets about 8 a.m. Sunday and continued through 3 a.m., yesterday.

WILLROTH SAID, "We thought we had it licked about 2 or 3 p.m., Sunday, but then that second bunch hit." The director said the weight of the snow caused several occurrences of equipment failure.

Arlington Heights police reported at least one incident of a car impeding the progress of the plows. They said a car parked in the middle of College Drive had to be towed from the scene.

Police also said there were few accidents reported during the day, and none involved injuries. The infrequency of traffic mishaps was attributed to the storm striking on a Sunday.

KENROY INC.'S proposal to build moderate income housing on the extreme northside of Arlington Heights would exceed the village's density limits by 42 units in the 780-apartment complex. The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will hold a continued hearing on the project tonight. The site for the development, aimed to provide housing for families with incomes between $5,000 and $10,000, is at Nichols and Schaefer roads, about one quarter mile north of Dundee Road.

Board To Eye Pollution Measures

Environmental pollution will get a thorough airing Jan. 19 when the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees holds a public hearing to study the popular crisis.

A possible ban on the sale of phosphate detergents and a proposal to form an environmental commission in the village are expected to be included in the discussion, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., in the village hall.

The hearing was announced at a regular meeting of the board last night when Trustee Charles Bennett, legal committee chairman, presented a committee report on the environmental problem to the board.

Bennett said his committee has been studying the subject for several months. He made the report after the board heard two separate proposals on the pollution situation.

Mrs. Thomas Hanlon, director of the Windsor School PTA environmental action group, proposed that the board establish an environmental commission to identify and seek solutions to the problems and suggest standards and limitations to protect the environment. Mrs. Hanlon made the suggestion as a step toward solving that which "constitutes the most serious and pressing conservation problem of our time."

EARLIER, Mrs. John Masko, of the St. James Catholic Women's Club, asked the board to adopt a resolution that would prohibit the sale of phosphate detergents in Arlington Heights.

The resolution, presented by the women's group, is sponsored by 18 village organizations.

The board voted unanimously to refer both proposals to the legal committee for its continuing study.

In its report, the legal committee said it has structured a study and action group to examine existing ordinances relating to the subject, to study and propose possible changes and additions to the ordinances and to propose methods to maintain the currency and administration of the ordinances.

The committee said it has already inventoried pertinent village ordinances and next will hold the public hearing. Then it also reported that this committee will schedule a series of meetings to consider several aspects of environmental control and protection, including land pollution and refuse disposal; water pollution; air pollution; noise pollution; and atomic radiation control.

Moderate Income Housing: A Swap?

by SANDRA BROWNING

The village of Arlington Heights may swap an addition to the landfill for a development of moderate income housing.

The proposal by Kenroy Inc. to build moderate income housing in extreme northern Arlington Heights will come before the village's Plan Commission at 8 p.m. today during a special hearing. The meeting will be held in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The moderate income housing development proposed by Kenroy is for a 56-acre tract of land at Nichols and Schaefer roads. The site is just outside the village limits, west of the village landfill and approximately a quarter mile north of Dundee Road. This is a portion of a site approved for industrial zoning about nine months ago.

Kenroy presented its plans for the moderate income housing development to the Plan Commission Dec. 9 and the hearing was continued until a special meeting tonight.

However, that was not the first time Kenroy asked the village for annexation of the proposed site. A development on the site and additional land was approved by the village board in March, 1970.

KENROY'S ORIGINAL request, presented to the Plan Commission in October, 1968, asked for the annexation of approximately 158 acres. The request was for 113 acres to be zoned for restricted industrial uses (M-1A) and about 45 acres for apartments.

When the board approved the project in March, the village allowed the rezoning of the entire property for M-1A subject to agreement between Kenroy and the village on acquisition of property to the west of the village's landfill site.

The village originally planned to negotiate with Kenroy to purchase some land, about 25 acres, to add to the existing landfill. The present lake on the landfill could have been drained into a lake on the acquired property, thus increasing the life of the sanitary garbage dump.

The new proposal for moderate income housing on the property does not allow for any portion of the property being used as an extension of the landfill.

VILLAGE MANAGER L. A. Hanson said yesterday, "We couldn't use it anyway because it's in the flood plain." He said approval of the recently proposed development would mean the landfill site, which is filling up at a faster rate than estimated, will not be extended.

Hanson said Kenroy was told that a portion of the land would have to be developed as a retention lake for flood water, which is what the village would have done if it had acquired the land.

As presented in December, the moderate income housing development would include a lake of about eight acres. The lake would serve to reduce flooding problems and also provide fishing and boating in summer and skating in winter.

If the annexation and rezoning of the 56 acres is approved, the original annexation ordinance of the entire 160-acre tract will be amended. By amending the ordinance, the village would annex the land, with a portion zoned for industrial use and a portion for apartments.

THE PROPOSAL TO build the moderate income housing on the extreme north side was heard in December by the plan commission. Kenroy representatives presented the project and the hearing was continued before commissioners asked any questions. Tonight's session will include commissioners questioning Kenroy representatives.

The project is planned to include 780 apartments with 140 three-bedroom units, 396 two-bedroom units and 244 one-bedroom units. The one and two-bedroom apartments would be housed in two, three and four story buildings. All the three bedroom apartments would be in townhouse-type buildings.

The townhouses are planned for the southeast corner of the development, which would include a tot-lot and a sledding hill in the center. The development would also include two swimming pools and two recreational buildings.

Kenneth Gill, superintendent of the elementary school district in the area (Dist. 21), said the housing would produce an estimated 400 children.

Kenroy's proposal estimates the project will produce about 260 elementary school children and 101 high school aged students.

Futurities

The Dist. 25 Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the district's administration building, 301 W. South St.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The Arlington Heights Youth Council will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Building.

A special committee of the Village Board will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Building.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness — a high Philippines police official — expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

President Nixon said Monday night he did not intend to resume wholesale bombing of strategic targets in North Vietnam and would confine retaliatory air strikes to military targets.

Nixon again warned that if North Vietnamese troops begin massing to strike remaining Americans in Vietnam, he would order U.S. planes to bomb — "but only in those military targets and only as necessary."

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Year's weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview, for a leadership position. The party traditionally has had two house leadership positions with one filled by a Chicago legislator and one by a downstate legislator.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at 91.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

'Visitors' Win 15,290 To 13,398

Tired but victorious, 21 boys from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling finished their marathon basketball game on New Year's Day, 152 hours after they started.

In completing the game they raised approximately $700 for the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling, the amount pledged by residents. They also broke a world record of 151 hours of continuous basketball set by the Aurora Basketball Association.

"At the end, we were tired. We were playing hard," said Holmes eighth grader Jeff Kohler, one of the marathon organizers. He added, "There were a lot of people there watching us."

Kohler said that "everyone at school's been talking about it" since classes resumed Monday following Christmas vacation. "We'd do it all again," he said.

Richard Wynn, director of the TORCH Mental Health Clinic, termed the boys' efforts "tremendous."

"This kind of commitment by kids in junior high school for a community need should be an inspiration to all of us."

When you think of all the kids who are destructive, this is pretty inspiring," Wynn said.

ALTHOUGH ABOUT 37 boys were on hand when the game started Dec. 26, the number had dwindled to 21 when the game concluded late in the afternoon on New Year's Day.

They included Brian Cash, Mark Dunsmore, Bob Nelson, Simon Torres, Greg Polcyn, Mark Nelles, John Kellin, Nick Bellevia, Paul Rowley, Orr Backstrom, John Plough, Mike Hallstrom, Dan Ziolkowski, Jeff Olson.

The "visitors" won the marathon, beating the "home" team 15,290 to 13,398, but it was the number of hours, not the score, that counted.

The boys played in four-hour shifts, with an eight-hour rest period between each playing period.

Some of the boys slept in sleeping bags at the school during their rest periods, while others went to their homes to grab some sleep.

The game was continuously supervised by members of the Holmes faculty.

Holmes faculty members Jerry Kerner and Jim Messer helped organize the marathon.

TWO MORE POINTS were recorded as the basketball marathon at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High in Wheeling moved into its closing hours. Competing were students Barry Haeger, Mike Hallstrom, Larry Evertson and Bob Nelson. Proceeds from the 152-hour marathon will benefit the TORCH Mental Health Clinic in Wheeling. The game was sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

Greater Suburban Voice?

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

16 Candidates Eyed By Caucus

Sixteen candidates for four seats on the Arlington Heights Village Board are being considered by the Candidate Selection Committee of the Village Caucus.

Committee chairman Al Lindsey reported that three potential candidates have been added to the original list of 13 persons seeking endorsement of the Caucus for the April election. All candidates will be interviewed by Lindsey's committee, which will submit the names of two persons for each of the four board seats to the Caucus for selection of a four-man slate.

Lindsey urged all interested persons to call him at 392-4974 by Sunday to submit names of potential candidates. The committee will conduct interviews this Saturday and the following Saturday and will meet Jan. 27 to determine its recommendations.

Lindsey said the committee was particularly interested in receiving recommendations from civic organizations. Of 102 organizations in the village asked to recommend candidates, only two — the American Legion and St. John's United Church of Christ — have responded, he said.

Seven candidates — including two women — were interviewed by the committee Saturday and seven more interviews are scheduled this weekend, Lindsey reported. Only names of candidates recommended to the general Caucus are revealed by the committee.

The committee last weekend elected three persons to membership to replace three original members who reported they would be unable to fulfill their duties.

Jack Muety, 314 N. Beverly Ln., was named to replace Ted Smith, 732 N. Dryden Ave., in the Caucus' 8th Precinct. Elected to replace Robert Nilson, 1603 N. Haddon Ave. in Precinct 5, was John Sonderegger, 422 E. Maude Ave. Marjorie Storey, 1010 W. Haven St., was named to replace John Schumacher, 1418 S. Princeton Ave., in Precinct 18.

Site Chosen For School In Dist. 59?

A six-member Dist. 59 Board of Education was apparently still in deadlock over the site selection for a new junior high school late last night. The district announced last week that a site was to be selected at this meeting.

Construction of a new junior high school to solve the overcrowding problem in the district was the recommendation of a special citizens committee which studied the problem.

A site adjacent to St. Zachary Catholic Church in Des Plaines on property owned by the church has been mentioned as a possible choice in a St. Zachary church bulletin. Other sites were also under consideration however, according to site selection committee reports.

BULLETIN

Dist. 59 Board of Education voted last night to purchase 4.3 acres of land from St. Zachary's Church in Des Plaines for $30,000 pending voter's approval in a future referendum.

The absence of Board President Richard Hess may have affected the site selection vote. It was announced at 10 p.m. that a vote may be long in coming. When one member in the audience asked if they could vote to break the deadlock, Al Waltman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel said, "It would take more than one vote to break what they've got going."

No indication was given previous to the closed meeting that there would be a long debate about the site.

Another issue that flared earlier in the evening was the hot lunch program in the district.

Urge Fencing To Retain Landfill

An official of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has recommended that the village of Arlington Heights install portable fences at its landfill site to prevent trash from blowing into Buffalo Grove.

Rene VanSomeren, of the anti-pollution agency, said yesterday he sent a letter to Arlington Heights recommending the action after he toured the landfill with Donald Schlindler, Buffalo Grove sanitation, last month.

The landfill is located on Nichols Road west of Buffalo Grove Road and north of Dundee Road.

VanSomeren met with Schlindler after Schlindler filed a formal complaint with the agency charging that Arlington Heights was violating state regulations governing the operation of landfills.

Schlindler made the complaint because of reports from a number of residents living near the landfill that paper trash was blowing onto their property. According to law, a six-inch layer of compacted dirt must be spread over the dumping site at the end of each working day.

"When we inspected the site, we didn't see any real problems," VanSomeren said. "The main difficulty is in the weekend operation. The workmen there sometimes are in a hurry to quit and don't always spread that layer of dirt to cover the day's dumping."

"The letter the village (Arlington Heights) will receive will say that they have to install temporary fencing to prevent the wind from blowing paper waste material from the site over to Buffalo Grove," he added.

VanSomeren said the reason the trash blows from the dump is that it has been piled into a high mound.

"When you're up on that hill it is very windy," he said.

"But if you have a portable fence, the wind will blow the litter from the top of the hill up against the fence so it won't leave the area of the dump," VanSomeren said.

Buffalo Grove contracts a private disposal firm to provide garbage collection service for residents. The firm uses the Arlington Heights site to deposit its collections.

Teen Injured In 2 Car Collision

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Village resident was listed in good condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, where she is being treated for injuries sustained in a two-car collision Friday afternoon in Mount Prospect.

Karen Johnson, of 641 W. Higgins Rd., was injured when the car in which she was riding struck a parked car on Lincoln Street west of Kenilworth Avenue. Police said Miss Johnson was a passenger in an auto driven by Charles Meyer, 23, of 222 S. Rammer St., Arlington Heights.

Police said Meyer's auto struck a car owned by John Daly, 17, of 641 S. Kasper St., Arlington Heights. Meyer was charged with driving while intoxicated and hitting an unattended vehicle. He is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect court Feb. 10 on the charges.

No Laughter In Deserted Singleton Home...

THE SINGLETON FAMILY — Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Singleton and their children, from left, Michael, 7, Diana, 20 months, and Sandra, 9. Donna was reported in critical condition yesterday.

The Singleton house at 404 Ridgewood Rd. in Elk Grove Village remains empty in this, the first week of the new year.

Normally there would be laughter and the countless other sounds that accompany children living in the white frame building with the bright blue trim.

Instead, there is nothing. It is quiet.

A four-foot artificial Christmas tree is in the living room not too far from a red cardboard fireplace. There are a few games around the bottom of the tree. Christmas cards decorate the doorway leading to the kitchen where a copy of Chicago Today from Dec. 23 lies on the kitchen table.

The Singletons left Elk Grove Village for the holidays in order to be in Tazewell, in Claiborne County, Tenn., to spend them with relatives.

Edsel Singleton, 32, a centerless grinder at R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co., 300 Bond St., Elk Grove Village, had gotten the time off from work to make the long road trip to be with his family and friends.

EARLY SUNDAY the trip ended in a tragedy when the Singleton stationwagon collided head-on with another car on Interstate 74 near Shelbyville, Ind. All members of the Singleton family died with the exception of Donna Sue, 20 months old, who was reported in critical condition with internal injuries yesterday at the Shelbyville Major Hospital.

Three middle-aged women, passengers in the other car that had been in the highway's westbound lane traveling east, also died in the fiery collision.

Eight persons died, making the auto accident one of the worst in Indiana. Nine died in another accident in 1969.

The Rev. Schuyler Butler, of the Elk Grove Baptist Church, 19W625 Devon Ave., where the Singletons were members, said the congregation was shocked when it heard the news of the deaths after Sunday's 8:30 a.m. service. A short memorial service was then held for the family at the next service.

"They were all very faithful and active in the church," said the Rev. Butler. "They had plenty of that old southern hospitality and they were tremendous people."

Alice Singleton, 30, was in charge of the nursery-cradle roll at the Sunday School and Edsel was a member of the church's welcoming committee. Mrs. Singleton was also active with the women's missionary fellowship and a counselor to the girls club.

THE SINGLETONS lived in Elk Grove Village since early 1966. Three of their children attended Ira Rupley School.

"They were very, very quiet people but also very supportive of school and involved with their children," said Ronald Glovetski, principal.

Nancy Roth, of 290 Redwood Ave. and a friend of the Singletons, who was at the Singleton home yesterday said, "Each of them had a very personal relationship with Christ. They knew that He was the answer."

Eldon Roth, who accompanied his wife to the house, said, "We knew them fairly well. We used to live right around the corner on Willow Lane. They were very regular in attendance at church."

"I remember before he left, Edsel — he didn't like to be called Ed — didn't want to leave right away because Johnny Cash was on television that night," said Roth.

Michael Frisby, general manager at Mr. Singleton's place of employment, said:

"I knew him as well as I could. He was very capable — one of the best men I had out there as far as capability to produce."

Frisby said Singleton "took a lot of pride in his work and he was very conscientious — a very unusual guy."

Singleton was employed at the firm, makers of precision products, for 1½ years.

Frisby said the employees may send flowers or take up a collection in memory of the family which will be buried in Tennessee. Funeral arrangements were not complete yesterday.

Public Aid Report Questioned

Welfare Rise Due To Industry Shift?

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The rising costs of welfare in Cook County may, in part, be caused by the exodus in recent years of Chicago industrial plants to areas outside the city, including the Northwest suburbs, County Commissioner John H. Stroger Jr. said yesterday.

Stroger, newly-elected commissioner from Chicago, raised the question when approval of the most recent report of the County Department of Public Aid came up before the board.

The commissioner halted the withdrawal session and asked approval be deferred until he had an opportunity to study the report.

Stroger said he didn't actually object to the report, but questioned whether the welfare philosophy wasn't over-emphasizing public assistance. He described the correlation of the growing general assistance rolls with rising unemployment, and noted he knew of many welfare recipients in his own neighborhood on Chicago's South Side who lost jobs when their employers moved to the suburbs.

"It has come to my attention there is a gainful employment in the suburbs," Stroger said. "But the distance workers would have to travel makes it virtually impossible for them to hold jobs there."

FOLLOWING THE meeting, Stroger said he thought more study by county welfare officials in conjunction with other agencies was needed to determine if low cost housing in the suburbs might not effectively contribute to curbing unemployment.

"Why should the county be content to pump out welfare when it should be helping relocate these workers?" Stroger asked.

He suggested industries relocated in the suburbs were finding it difficult to fill jobs.

"I'm sure there are many factories in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect that can't get enough employees," Stroger said.

He admitted he had no information to bear out just how much of an unemployment problem industry relocation caused. He recommended a study by welfare officials to determine the location of job opportunities, housing needs, and transportation problems.

"We've got to stop this thing in terms of hand-outs, and find something that is self-sustaining," Stroger said.

HIS REMARKS brought response from Commissioner Charles Chaplin, who denounced those on welfare rolls not legally entitled to receive public assistance.

"I think there is a fantastic amount of money going down the drain because of a lack of investigation," said Chaplin. He said 300 names were being added to the county's welfare list each day.

Board Pres. George W. Dunne challenged Chaplin's statement, saying welfare abuse was the exception, not the rule.

Dunne cited as a cause apparent manpower shortages in the welfare department and noted that turnover rate among employees was about 50 per cent annually.

Dunne said he had been in contact with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and hoped to meet with him this week on the problem.

"I am more concerned with the inability of the system to correct a condition that should not be," Dunne added.

BY LEA TONKIN

People come to talk with Arnold Wolman about housing, but for those who need to eat first, he keeps canned food and a can opener within easy reach.

Since he assumed the new post as housing counselor at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows last November, Wolman has talked with a steady stream of families searching for adequate housing. Sometimes they need a job and a decent meal as well.

"Last night, a woman came in who had just been evicted from a trailer park in Elk Grove Village," said Wolman. "She was divorced, and her husband had title to the trailer. She had only one cent and she hadn't eaten for a couple of days. I gave her some cans of food, and she ate some fruit cocktail while we talked."

"We have a lot of cases where a landlord tries to evict a family without the 30 days written notice that is required," said Wolman. Families or older persons on welfare also request help from Wolman.

"I WANT PEOPLE to open up a little bit, and help some 2,000 people in the Northwest suburbs, who are living in inadequate housing," said Wolman. He has a folder with housing applications by families living in the area. "The average family of three to five people is looking for a one or two-bedroom apartment in the $125-$150 a month range, and families of five to nine people are usually willing to pay $150-$300 a month for a larger apartment or house," said Wolman.

Wolman generally describes inadequate housing as living quarters with poor plumbing and heating facilities, and a lack of empathy on the part of the owner to correct these problems. Some families are living in cars.

Many come to the center through its Outreach workers. The police, schools, township officials and even the telephone company refer families to Wolman. Most are Spanish-speaking, from Texas or Mexico.

APARTMENTS, HOUSES and out-buildings which can be converted to living quarters are Wolman's quarry. He is also looking for houses suitable for rehabilitation under the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 235 program.

The problem of finding housing for low-income or Spanish-speaking families in the Northwest suburbs is often one of attitudes, Wolman contends. "People sometimes say that these families are coming up here to take our money. Nobody believes that these people have a lot of pride," he said.

In his visits with realtors, apartment managers and owners, Wolman inspects available housing and tries to convince them that they should rent to Spanish-speaking people. "There are language and cultural barriers," he said. "They may need help in filling out applications. Many families don't have credit records. We have to convince people that this doesn't make any difference in their willingness to pay rent."

"WE NEED TO communicate the problems of these families to the right people and to work out compromises," said Wolman. "There are ways that some apartments can be rented at lower rates."

Talking with the right people involves more than apartment managers, according to Wolman. "It all goes back to building and zoning codes," he said. "For example, some codes don't allow two families, which in some cases means two generations of the same family, to live in the same apartment."

"I'm not looking for quick solutions," said Wolman. "It's often a problem of human relations. If people would just take a look around, they would realize that low-income families want to have the same things, such as good housing, as they do. They should think about how hard it was for them to get ahead. It's not going to cost them anything but a little of their indignance."

FROM A PRACTICAL standpoint, Wolman said that local communities dependent on industry as a tax base should work to establish low-income housing. Companies will either have to continue busing employees out, or they will finally ask, "Why can't these people live here?" he said.

"Some people give different reasons for not wanting to rent to these people," said Wolman. "Others admit their racism. Some people are afraid that minority groups living in the area will cause the price of their homes to drop. If they hadn't moved to the suburbs to avoid the minorities, prices would be more equitable."

Six Graduated By Northern Illinois

The university, located in DeKalb, recently released the list of summer graduates.

Five village residents received master's degrees in education. The graduates include Virginia Ackerman, 2823 Bel Aire Dr.; Susan Blotch, 804 St. James; Kenneth Brown, 1001 N. Belmont; Walter Friker, 820 Circle Hill Dr.; and Barbara Gish, 842 S. Chestnut.

Ellen Kay Skoglund, 725 W. Fairview, received a bachelor of sciences in education.

job with a background in housing. "I was looking for something to do with social involvement," he said. "I felt I could help Realtors understand housing needs in social terms."

Wolman is a former apartment developer with five years experience in general construction. He came to the Chicago area from Washington, D.C. five years ago to work with his brother Jerry in the development of the John Hancock Center. Wolman is a graduate of Northwestern Illinois University with a major in English. He has taught English and creative writing, and several of his short stories and poems have been published.

Site Chosen For School In Dist. 59?

A six-member Dist. 59 Board of Education was apparently still in deadlock over the site selection for a new junior high school late last night. The district announced last week that a site was to be selected at this meeting.

Construction of a new junior high school to solve the overcrowding problem in the district was the recommendation of a special citizens committee which studied the problem.

A site adjacent to St. Zachary Catholic Church in Des Plaines on property owned by the church has been mentioned as a possible choice in a St. Zachary church bulletin. Other sites were also under consideration however according to site selection committee reports.

The absence of Board President Richard Hess may have affected the site selection vote. It was announced at 10 p.m. that a vote may be long in coming. When one member in the audience asked if they could vote to break the deadlock, Al Walkman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel said, "It would take more than one vote to break what they've got going."

No indication was given previous to the closed meeting that there would be a long debate about the site.

Another issue that flared earlier in the evening was the hot lunch program in the district.

Behrel's Goals For 1971 Told

by BOB CASEY

Completion of a new main fire station, residential development on the far north side and progress on a new post office for Des Plaines are three of Mayor Herbert H. Behrel's goals for 1971.

At his weekly press conference yesterday, Behrel said the city will soon begin interviewing architects for the new fire station, for a one-acre site at 339 Des Plaines Ave. (River Road) recently purchased for $110,000.

Cost of the building, which will replace the present fire station No. 1 at 1412 Miner St., will be $250,000 or more, Behrel said.

The mayor also said he hopes to see residential development take place on a portion of the 450-acre Maryville property annexed last year by the city. The land, owned by the Catholic Church, includes a 100-acre area north of the Craig Manor subdivision the church is expected to sell to a developer.

The new post office, object of a dispute between postal officials and the city, has been stalled by threats of a suit from the city and a federal slowdown in construction expenditures.

"I THINK WE'VE pussyfooted around with this thing long enough," Behrel said, reaffirming recent statements that the city must reconsider its stand against the post office's decision to locate the new building at Oakton Street and Executive Way.

The city council has vigorously opposed that site, now owned by the post office, and has pushed a more expensive location at Lee Street and Forest Avenue.

Also hoped for in 1971, Behrel said, is a state appropriation to begin dredging and reconstruction of Higgins-Willow Creek, between the Des Plaines River and Lee Street. He said the Illinois Division of Waterways has included $775,000 in its tentative budget for the project.

The city will also be working for some kind of state aid for mass transit, Behrel said.

"We're going to be working and pushing with the state legislature to get some kind of proper state aid to mass transit systems, or even local bus lines because this is where we think (transit aid) has got to come from," the mayor said.

It is understandable, he said, that many suburbs are reluctant to give aid, for instance, to bus lines such as United Motor Coach of Des Plaines which serve only a small number of residents.

BEHREL ALSO SAID he hopes for some kind of cooperative agreement between Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Park Ridge for a joint computer operation for the four suburbs.

Both Des Plaines and Arlington Heights currently own data processing equipment, he said, but all four suburbs would like to use more sophisticated computers and may best be able to do so through a cooperative plan. Water and garbage bills, payroll records and special assessment accounts are now electronically processed, said Behrel, and a cooperative agreement may allow expanded use of computers by the four suburbs.

Another major goal for 1971 will be progress in downtown redevelopment, Behrel said. He said he doesn't know if plans for a bridge linking Dempster and Thacker streets at the Des Plaines River, and an underpass on Thacker at the Chicago and North Western Railway overpass tracks will be "able to get off the ground."

Pageant Was Fun, Profit For Cheri

Cheri Jean Wittbold of Des Plaines entered the Junior Miss Pageant "to meet people and have fun." That was a part of it and so was a bonus of two scholarships totaling $950.

Chosen a Paddock Junior Miss in the local pageant in November, Cheri entered the state pageant in Joliet last week where she was named first runner-up. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wittbold, she attends Maine West High School.

Also participating in the state pageant area was Bloomington Junior Miss Darlene Coutre, who was one of the nine pageant finalists. A senior at Lake Park High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Coutre.

Altogether, 16 Illinois area winners participated in the state pageant. First place went to Liene Dindonis of Joliet region. Recipient of a $2,000 scholarship, she will represent the state in the national Junior Miss Pageant to be televised from Mobile, Ala., May 5.

LENNY, AS SHE prefers to be called, was born in Sweden 18 years ago of Latvian parents. The family came to America following the communist takeover of Latvia.

While now thoroughly Americanized, Lenny still speaks Latvian fluently and works in Latvian-American cultural groups. Her future plans include working toward a medical degree, although she is also quite interested in horticulture, art and dance.

Lenny's sister, a dance major at Butler University, was a finalist in the Junior Miss Pageant at the local level several years ago.

Both Cheri and Darlene received $250 scholarships after being named Paddock Junior Misses in the November local pageant. An additional $700 was picked up by Miss Wittbold in the state pageant after being named first runner-up.

A STRAIGHT-A student, she is interested in speech and drama. She has served as president of her school's chapter of the National Thespians' Society and currently is president of her senior class.

Cheri, with three years of voice lessons, also has her own radio program for children called "Exploring" on WMTJ. Skiing is a favorite pastime and so is working with a local community theater group, the Footlighters.

JUDGING INCLUDED scholarship, talent presentation, physical fitness and personal interview.

The college scholarships were provided by Chevrolet and Kraft Foods and merchandise and smaller cash awards in special areas by Kraft, John H. Breck and Kodak.

Director of choreography was Marilyn Raedel, 1970 Illinois Junior Miss of Barrington and formerly of Prospect Heights. Pamela Weir, title holder of the year before emceed along with Wally Nelson. Garnet Vaughn, last year's Arlington Heights Junior Miss, participated as a hostess for the reception following the pageant.

Neighbors Give Birth To First Babies

Erla Cheatham and Carol Spencer both live at 400 W. Touhy Ave., Des Plaines. On Jan. 1 they unexpectedly became roommates at Lutheran General Hospital after each woman gave birth to the first two Des Plaines babies of 1971.

Steven Edward Cheatham was first. He had his first encounter with the world at 8:28 a.m. and became the third child born to Erla and Thomas Cheatham. He weighed six pounds seven and three quarter ounces.

Tara Renee Spencer was born at 2:22 p.m., the first child of Edward and Carol Spencer. She weighed in at seven pounds and seven and three quarter ounces—exactly one pound more than Steven.

Steven Cheatham was anxious to become the first Des Plaines baby of the new year. He had been due to make his appearance Jan. 22. Tara, on the other hand, was a little slow in making her debut. She was due to arrive on Dec. 28.

Both babies missed the 1970 tax exemption deadline but neither mother was too concerned about that. "Since Steven came early," Mrs. Cheatham said, "I wish he came Dec. 31 in time for the tax exemption but I'm just happy that he's here and he's healthy."

Mrs. Spencer felt almost the same way. "I kind of wish we could have gotten the exemption but since we couldn't—I'm glad I got the baby."

Neither mother has special plans for celebrating the birth of the newest members of their families but both of them know they'll be quite busy taking care of the babies.

Erla Cheatham and Carol Spencer also expect to see a lot of one another from now on—if not around their homes—then in the doctor's office because both babies will be patients of the same pediatrician.

The first Des Plaines baby born at Holy Family Hospital in 1971 was Susan Christine Witte. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witte, of 427 Pinehurst, she was born Jan. 2 at 12:25 a.m. She is the Witte's third child.

Truckload Of Hose, Pantyhose Stolen

A truck containing 3,200 pairs of women's stockings and pantyhose was stolen from in front of a Des Plaines residence early Monday, according to Des Plaines police.

Nancy Howlett, an employee of the L'Eggs hosiery division of Hanes Corp., told police that the hosiery, packaged in small, egg-like plastic containers, has a wholesale value of $3,500.

According to police reports, the truck, a 1970 Ford Econoline van, was parked in front of a house at 1243 Washington when it was stolen shortly after midnight.

No Kiwanis Land Annex

The Des Plaines City Council last night reaffirmed its earlier decision not to annex the Kiwanis campground property at Woodland and Grove avenues.

The council took no action after City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi said bringing the eight-acre property into the city might reduce expenses of an Appellate Court suit by the property owner over sale of water outside the city limits.

That suit, which challenged the city's refusal to provide water to the property, was decided in favor of the city but has been appealed. The council recently turned down a request to annex the property and immediately rezone it for apartments, a request that was opposed by neighboring residents.

Now DiLeonardi said, the city could annex the site against the will of the owner and maintain the single-family residential zoning that would automatically be applied to the property upon annexation. He indicated, however, that the court fight over water service could be expected to become a fight over zoning if the city refused to rezone the property for apartment development after annexing it.

IN ITS SHORTEST regular meeting in more than six months, the council last night approved Mayor Herbert H. Behrel's appointments to the three-man Mass Transit District board of trustees.

Named by Behrel were Harry E. Mertz, 901 Bau Dr., president of the Des Plaines Trust and Savings Bank; Edward W. Tobin, 1850 Nimitt Dr., a Chicago Transit Authority employee, and Rex

Wilson, 1145 Van Buren Ave., president of the Des Plaines National Bank.

The council also authorized DiLeonardi to prepare an ordinance rezoning 1328 Webford Ave. from single-family residential to apartment zoning.

Ald. Alfred Prickett (2nd) said the council's municipal development committee was unable to come to a decision on the proposed rezoning, which was unanimously recommended by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Prickett said the Webford Avenue lot in his opinion is the only site available that would meet the needs of the city's proposed senior citizens housing project.

That housing development, which has been stalled by a lack of federal funds, is expected to be built near the downtown area.

Crews Spread 200 Tons Of Salt Here

City of Des Plaines public works crews spread about 200 tons of salt on local roads and streets during the storm that dumped more than seven inches of snow on the city Sunday.

According to Joseph Schwab, public works commissioner, 26 city trucks were plowing Sunday night and yesterday. Parking lots were plowed late Sunday and accumulated snow was to be hauled away from the lots last night, Schwab said.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Pope Paul VI was struck twice in the chest with a dagger in the attempt on his life during the pontiff's Nov. 27 visit to the Philippines. That was the testimony from the first witness at the trial of the Bolivian painter accused of the attack. The witness—a high Philippines police official—expressed surprise the Pope wasn't wounded.

The severest winter in recent history is sweeping Europe, with a combination of blizzards, fog and torrential rains. Yugoslavia, Spain, Portugal, West Germany and Italy are feeling the worst of it.

The Nation

President Nixon said Monday night he did not intend to resume wholesale bombing of strategic targets in North Vietnam and would confine retaliatory air strikes to military targets.

Nixon again warned that if North Vietnamese troops begin massing to strike remaining Americans in Vietnam, he would order U.S. planes to bomb—but only in those military targets and only as necessary.

Contract talks have resumed in Detroit between Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers. It is hoped agreement can be reached without the UAW setting a strike deadline, but the union has made it clear it's looking for a settlement like that with Ford and General Motors.

The final national traffic toll for the New Years weekend was 442 deaths, including 21 in Illinois. The worst single accident was that at Shelbyville, Ind., which claimed eight lives, including five members of an Elk Grove Village family.

The War

American military sources are anticipating another Tet (lunar New Year) offensive by Communist forces in South Vietnam late this month. As a result, there has been a slowdown in withdrawal of American troops, and the first bombing in a month was launched on Communist targets.

The State

Twelve Democratic members of the Illinois House of Representatives are urging their party to expand its leadership in the 77th General Assembly and select Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glenview, for a leadership position.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday that a second board of $700,000 belonging to the late Illinois Secretary of State Paul Powell has been discovered in the Edwardsville, Ill., area.

The Market

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading Monday. Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 9 points, and Standard Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.99 at $11.16. Prices were weak in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

Ken and Ellie Mowbray, 726 S. Laurel, are the proud possessors of "Mayor Daley's Trophy." They were awarded the first place trophy last Wednesday night at a cocktail party at the Naval Armory in Chicago by Colonel Riley.

The Mowbrays beat out their competition last August at the Lake Front Festival — a sailing regatta. They won with their 16 foot sailboat in the Rebel Class.

Dan Socha, 345 Stratford Rd., was also on hand to pick up the second place trophy in the Rebel Class. He, and his son, Jeffrey, 12, worked together as a winning team.

The Mowbrays have hauled in quite a few trophies this year. They took first place in the Rebel Class at the Des Plaines Park District Yacht Club banquet. Ellie won a trophy for "Top Woman Sailor" and Ken was voted "Best Sailor of the Year" — an honor which goes to the person who has contributed the most to the club. The winner is decided on by popular vote by the membership.

AS IF THAT isn't enough, Ellie battled for and won the "Best Waterfishing Award" over the fourth of July weekend.

A new group of the over 60 population is getting under way. The "Keen Ageds" (responsibility for the name has been given to Don Hallberg) is meeting at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Their first meeting will be Monday, Jan. 18 at Trinity.

RUTH FINLAYSON died over the Christmas holidays. She died after her third bout with major surgery. The artificial kidney she was given didn't do its job. The 28-year-old victim was a sixth grade teacher at Dempster Junior High.

The students at Dempster learned about her death Monday morning when they came to school. "She did a lot for our school," said Kurt Stein, a student at the junior high. "She started the Pep Club and Cheerleaders. She did so much for us that we'd like to do something for her."

Although it is too late to help Miss Finlayson, the students are going all out to complete a project she began last fall. They are collecting Betty Crocker Coupons which will go to buy an artificial kidney machine. The machine will be given, by the school to a needy kidney patient.

Their goal is 300,000 coupons. They now have 16,000. Coupons can be dropped off at the school.

"We don't want other people to die like she did," Kurt said.

Demos Urge House Leadership Growth

A move to include suburban representation in the Democratic leadership of the Illinois House of Representatives was launched yesterday by 12 Democratic legislators, most of them from the suburbs.

The 12, who include Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Representative-elect Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Rep. William Redmond, D-Bensenville; and Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park; are urging the party to expand leadership in the House from two to at least three members and that Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, be included in the leadership.

The proposal was revealed at a Chicago press conference yesterday and will be made tonight when Democratic legislators meet in Springfield in caucus.

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is expected to be nominated by the party for Speaker of the House. Republicans, however, control the House for the 77th General Assembly and Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, has been nominated by the GOP and is expected to be the new Speaker.

The General Assembly will be called to order at noon Wednesday.

"ONE THIRD of the people of Illinois live in the suburbs and we think the party should expand its leadership to provide a greater voice for the suburbs," said Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, who will begin her fourth term in the House, said the 12 legislators recommending the expanded leadership are not opposed to additional expansion which might add a black legislator to the Democratic leadership.

She said Katz "has demonstrated an awareness of suburban needs and problems and has been a good legislator."

Pierce, who represents southern Lake County, said the 77th General Assembly "will present extraordinary demands on all legislators, particularly the leadership, with a flood of proposals needed to implement the new Constitution as well as the matter of reapportionment."

"Leadership broadly representative of all major facets of the Democratic Party is needed if it is to meet these heavy responsibilities and avoid disunity," he said.

Katz recently served as chairman of the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly and was instrumental in initiating numerous proposals for changes in the legislative process. He was first elected in 1964, the year of the at-large election for the House of Representatives.

"THE RAPIDLY GROWING suburbs will be the decisive factor in Illinois politics and it is essential that the Democratic Party tool up for the future by expanding its leadership and programs to respond to this reality," Katz said.

"Our party made sweeping gains on Nov. 3 with a ticket headed by an issue-oriented leader (Adlai E. Stevenson III) who won majorities in traditional Republican areas such as my own 13th Congressional District," he added.

The Democrats' announcement adds a new element to the pending session of the legislature, already expected to be one of the busiest and most heated in recent years.

With reapportionment and a new Constitution to deal with, plus the state's budget, fireworks are expected to begin shortly after the session convenes.

Also, for the first time in 30 years, the Senate is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats and will be organized by the Democrats since Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat.

Graham Big Winner In State

by ED MURNANE

When the Illinois Senate is gavelled into session tomorrow afternoon, Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, will take his place in the Senate chamber with the distinction of winning his office with the second highest plurality in the 58-member Senate.

Graham defeated Democrat Paul Shanyfelt of Elk Grove Village in November by 36,588 votes.

Only Sen. Charles Chew, D-Chicago, recorded a higher plurality, defeating his Republican opponent by 42,086.

Graham's plurality was more than double that of any other suburban Republican senator.

The closest contest in the suburbs was in the Fifth District, in Proviso Township, where Sen. Howard Mohr, R-Forest Park, defeated Democrat John E. Dvorak by only 743 votes.

Dvorak's showing, like the showing of most other Democrats, probably was due largely to the pulling power of Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III. But Dvorak also had the benefit of a great deal of publicity last year as a delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Sen. John W. Carroll, R-Park Ridge, Senate, defeated his Democratic opponent who represents the Fourth District in the seat, Alan J. Scheffres, by 3,487 votes.

The closest race in the state saw Sen. Meade Balz, R-Joliet, defeat Democrat Leroy Van Dune by 233 votes.

THE EXPECTED battles in the Senate, caused by the surprising Democratic gains which gave them a 29-29 tie and control in organizing the Senate because Lt. Gov. Paul Simon is a Democrat, won't happen in the future.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, the state will have 59 Senate districts, the same number as the House. With 59 districts, the closest the Senate will come to a tie is a 30-29 split.

That fact, plus the pending redistricting of Illinois legislative districts this year, should add to the fires in the Senate.

Both parties will want the lines drawn to give them the new seat. Based on population changes in Illinois during the past 10 years, the new seat probably will go to the suburbs, most likely giving the Republicans a one-man edge in 1973 if other things remain the same.

But don't count on that. Presidential year elections are hard to predict and, since both Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Sen. Charles Percy are up for reelection, there's no way the outcome of state races can be predicted now.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT yesterday by Democratic members of the Illinois House that they will seek an additional leadership position during the 77th General Assembly is something akin to a proposal made last year by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Chapman suggested that suburbanites in the House — both Democrats and Republicans — form a suburban bloc to give the suburbs a greater voice in Springfield. Nothing amounted from it, however.

Yesterday's proposal would establish a third leadership position for the Democrats with the additional person coming from the suburbs. The two leadership positions in the House have traditionally been held by representatives from Chicago and downstate.

Placement Tests To Be Given

Placement tests, given annually in Maine Township High School Dist. 207, will be given at the district's four high schools on Jan. 16. The district will again administer the Differential Aptitude Test (DAT) for this purpose.

All students who plan to enter the Maine high schools next September as freshmen are required to take this test prior to enrollment. No other general testing date will be scheduled.

Students taking the test should arrange for their own transportation to and from the testing centers and bring two sharpened No. 2 lead pencils with them. It is important that students arrive and be seated before 7:45 a.m. and 1 p.m., school officials said.

The testing program is identical in all township high schools and will be administered by members of the counseling department of each school. The areas covered by the test are: verbal reasoning, numerical ability, abstract reasoning, space relations, mechanical reasoning, clerical speed and accuracy, and language usage.

ACCORDING TO Merlin W. Schultz, coordinator of pupil personnel services for Dist. 207, the Differential Aptitude Test helps students, parents and counselors in making decisions regarding course selections which meet the needs and interests of the student. It is used as only one of the criteria, along with the student's past performance and judgments of former teachers in deciding on a program of studies to be taken in high school.

The results help evaluate relative strengths and weaknesses in a variety of aptitudes which are important to educational progress and the making of career choices. The results help to decide: What courses should be taken next year? College, business or technical course? More science and math? How about languages? Do the student's abilities jibe with his interests? What careers should be considered?

If illness or other reasons prevent a child from participating in the Jan. 16 testing, arrangements can be made for a make-up examination. Parents desiring additional information should call the guidance office of the high school in which their child will be tested. The telephone numbers are: Maine East, 825-4484; Maine North, 298-5500; Maine South, 825-7711; Maine West, 827-8176.

South Park To Be Ready By Spring

Next spring youngsters will be playing baseball for the first time at the new South Park, a 30-acre tract of land bought by the Mount Prospect Park District in February of 1969.

Purchasing the property was one of the provisions in a $2.4 million bond referendum okayed by voters. Located at Janice Street and Algonquin Road in Des Plaines, the park will mark the first land purchase and development completed by the park district since the referendum's passage.

Provided in the referendum was $278,000 for the purchase and development of the property. The development of the park, expected to be completed by the early part of spring, consists of grading, seeding and landscaping as well as a lighted baseball diamond, two softball diamonds, four tennis courts, walking and bicycle paths and playground apparatus.

Long-range plans include the construction of a community center and swimming pool "comparable to that which is at Lions Park" according to Robert Jackson, president of the park board of commissioners.

PARK DISTRICT officials contend that the construction of a community center and swimming pool will necessitate another referendum. Jackson said such a referendum could not be expected for another "three to five years."

Another piece of property purchased through the referendum is the 18-acre West Park site located at Route 83 and Lonnquist Boulevard in Mount Prospect. West Park development will include baseball diamonds, tennis courts and skating facilities. Development of West Park will cost $153,000.

A retention basin on the property but under the ownership of the Village of Mount Prospect will alleviate flooding problems in the area. Development of the land, including the retention basin, is scheduled to be completed late next summer.

"By next spring we should have a full-fledged park in South Park," said Jackson. "The land has been landscaped, graded and we'll have baseball diamonds, tennis courts and playground equipment there."

"We've stuck pretty doggone close to the allotted sum set down in the referendum budget for the purchase of the land, and the same thing holds for the money budgeted for the development of the property," Jackson said.

"OUR LONG-RANGE plans for the area is for a park similar to that at Lions Park. We're providing electrical power for the area with the provision that someday a pool will be built along with a recreation center comparable to that which is presently at Lions," said Jackson.

The provisions of the referendum also called for the construction of Kopp Pool, completed last summer, and the Lions Park Community Center, scheduled to be completed Jan. 18.

BEFORE THE FINAL judging takes place, Miss Bloomingdale, Darlene Coutre, the other Paddock-sponsored contestant, and Cheri, wait backstage.

Around The House

By Stu Edinoff

We like the one about the two bigshot captains who were in an English admiralty court because of a collision between their two boats. The first captain testifying announced: "The fog was so thick, you could hardly see your shoelaces."

The second old salt jumped up and howled: "Maybe if you weren't looking at your feet you wouldn't have run into me."

"Bikinis are a sight for shore eyes!" "He who sacrifices his conscience to ambition burns a picture to obtain the ashes."

Court Rules Against Lunar Oil Company

The City of Des Plaines has won a two and one-half year legal fight to prevent reopening of a service station at the northwest corner of Thacker Street and River Road.

According to City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, the Illinois Appellate Court yesterday overturned a circuit court ruling in favor of Lunar Oil Co. and upheld the city's claim that the station was abandoned and would violate zoning ordinances if reopened.

DiLeonardi said the service station property was rezoned several years ago while the station was being operated by Shell Oil Co. Though the new zoning prohibited gas stations, he said, no action would have been taken if the station had continued its operation.

BUT THE STATION was abandoned and boarded up, DiLeonardi said. When Lunar Oil Co. in 1967 tried to reopen it, the city denied the company a business license because of the property's new zoning, he said.

Lunar Oil then sued in 1968, asking for a court order forcing the city to allow the station to reopen. A subsequent circuit court decision in favor of the oil company was appealed by the city.

In its decision yesterday, DiLeonardi said, the appellate court sent the case back to the original trial court, ordering that Lunar Oil Co.'s suit be dismissed.

Vandals Damage Two Schools

Vandals damaged two Des Plaines schools last weekend, according to Des Plaines police.

At Devonshire School, 1401 Pennsylvania Ave., a pop machine was burglarized and several windows broken last Thursday or Friday, police said. Broken glass and shaving cream were found on the floor in one area of the school, according to police.

At South School, 1535 Everett, a ground level window near the northwest corner of the building was found broken by police Saturday, police said.

Forest Principal Attends Meeting

A Des Plaines school principal recently participated in White House Conference on Children in Washington D.C.

Mrs. Dorothy Mackland, principal of Forest School, 1375 Fifth St., attended the conference Dec. 13 through Dec. 18, and participated in discussions on children and learning.

The 4,000 member conference, which is convened every ten years, passed recommendations supporting low-cost day care, national health insurance, legal protection for youngsters, and experimental programs involving use of non-certified teachers and increased cultural programs.

Mrs. Mackland was one of three delegates of the 25,000 member National Associations of Elementary School Principals. She is vice-president of the association.

Mrs. Mackland was part of a 30 member group which discussed learning and creativity. Others in the group were people who work in ghettos and among minority groups.

A MAJOR TOPIC of concern for the group was the racism and the need to increase communications and understanding between groups, she said.

Also discussed was the need to provide a learning situation for children where they aren't afraid to make mistakes. This would allow them to be more creative, she said.

Many groups, especially minority groups, feel the individual needs of children have been ignored in school programs, she said.

The group favored providing an education that children can apply to their daily lives — like helping a slum child to fill out an application, she said.

They also suggested that churches and other community organizations take some of the burdens of education from the schools. Often schools have been given responsibility for too wide a range of functions, she said.

Increased use of the educational resources of the community — like museums, theaters, libraries and homes — was suggested. It is now felt that the whole community should be used in a child's education, because education doesn't happen only in the classroom, she said.

MRS. MACKLAND said the conference was interesting because she met people with many different backgrounds. She also saw President and Mrs. Nixon during the opening meeting. The president spoke in favor of his plan for a guaranteed minimum income. Other officials who spoke to the conference, included Elliot Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Burglar Eats Box Of Candy, Leaves

A sweet-toothed burglar ignored valuables in a west side Des Plaines home last weekend, concentrating instead on a box of candy which he polished off and left empty in the home's kitchen.

According to Des Plaines police, someone broke into the residence of Alan M. Abrams, 514 Westmere Rd., while family members were visiting a neighbor. The house apparently was searched, said police, who found several drawers emptied and some furniture moved.

The only thing missing, Abrams told police, was the contents of the candy box, which was sitting empty in the kitchen when family members returned.

BURGULARS ALSO struck at two other Des Plaines homes over the holiday weekend, according to police reports.

At 1718 Mannheim Rd., the home of Alphonse J. Theys, a television, stereo and tape recorder were stolen sometime between Thursday and Saturday, according to police. Total value of the items was $900, Theys told police.

Also burglarized was the home of Naim J. Elias, 563 Debra Dr., where jewelry, several watches and a fur coat were taken, according to police.

Cigarette Ban Top Event

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The big television event of the New Year's weekend was, of course, the disappearance of cigarette commercials from the home screen, in compliance with a government ban.

The cigarette firms naturally will allot their advertising funds to other outlets now. And they have made it known that, as an example, they will promote such happenings as sports events that will likely plug their brands in a way that video cameras could not help pick up.

But make no mistake about it, such promotions are strictly small potatoes compared with the body blow the cigarette industry suffered as a result of the television ban.

PAST SURVEYS — in England, for instance — have made rather clear that a television ban on cigarette commercials is not too likely to cause most smokers to stop buying their favorite butts, although other later statistics indicate anti-smoking ads have had solid effect.

There is one overriding fact, however, that has recently been only slightly remembered in the drive to get cigarette ads off the publicly owned airways.

And it is this: Although there has been an emphasis on getting people to quit smoking, the chief underlying aim was to use video techniques, and the ban, to discourage youngsters from picking up the cigarette habit.

Some years ago, when television's anti-smoking drive was getting up steam as a result of the U. S. surgeon general's report noting cigarettes as a potential health hazard, it was generally agreed that most smokers probably would stick with their habit, or at best cut down, an obvious prediction despite the numbers who have quit.

AT THE SAME time, however, there was supposed to be an alteration in cigarette commercials — a deglamorization of the ads so that they would not romanticize the attractions of smoking in order to lure potential young customers.

There was some toning down at the time, but, with no one keeping a forceful watch, the romanticism and glamorizing steadily, then blatantly, came right back into the ads, with only modest adjustments.

Perhaps the fate of cigarette ads on television has long been sealed. But one cannot help wondering whether the wrath of the ban would have been the same if the promise of deglamorized smoking commercials had not been so crassly and obviously broken.

Ecology Plug To Continue

by VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD UPI — NBC, like a zealous parent with a backward child, will thankfully continue to plug away at ecology and man's environmental rape of the earth.

On Jan. 8 the network will beam "Say Goodbye," a documentary on the disappearing species of animals.

Post-performer Rod McKuen will narrate the hour-long show. He is a wise choice inasmuch as McKuen has been a conservationist for as long as he can remember.

"THE PREMISE of this show is that we're killing off wildlife at such a rate that soon there will be nothing left for men to kill except one another," he said.

McKuen rattled off a few statistics: "At least 250 species have been destroyed in the past 2,000 years. Of that number 166 have disappeared in the last 50 years. In 1940 there were 60,000 pelicans on the Texas gulf coast. Today only 37."

McKuen said some scenes in the documentary are frightening.

"There are shots of men clubbing seals and shooting polar bears from helicopters."

destroyed."

McKuen is actively engaged in sparing the lives of domestic animals with a half-dozen programs.

I'VE ESTABLISHED a scholarship fund for students of veterinary medicine at the University of Nebraska," he explained. "And I hope to set up similar funds at other schools."

"There aren't enough young people going into the field. Many of them because they can't afford it."

"Half the income from my new record album will go to start a new pet magazine, the profits of which will be donated to animal hospitals."

"There are a lot of women's clubs without enough projects to keep them busy. I'd like to organize them in a program to reduce the number of stray animals, to aid the sick ones and see that others are cared for."

"Eventually I'd like to interest large foundations in buying large parcels of land as reserves outside major cities for aged and abandoned house pets," McKuen said.

"A project of those dimensions are beyond my financial means. But if corporations and foundations could be prevailed upon, such a thing is possible," McKuen concluded.

Early Bird Gets Picnic?

The old adage that the early bird gets the worm was proven by a Rolling Meadows man yesterday.

But he added a little twist to it — the early picnicker can get his picnic site.

Elmer Tucker, 2207 Willow, began his wait to receive a picnic permit at 1 p.m. Sunday and waited until 5 a.m. Monday to get it.

Every year the city forest preserve district has a waiting line and Tucker took no chances this year for his group, the Des Plaines Moose Lodge. They wanted to make sure that they could obtain a permit for their annual family picnic July 11. "I wanted to see what it would be like to be number one," Tucker said, when asked why he waited so long in the lobby of the downtown office.

He was tenth last year and said that tenth is not good enough to get some prime picnic locations. He said the next eight people in line behind him were looking for the same grove.

During the all-night and part of the day vigil, Tucker said he left on occasion to get something to eat and dozed off whenever someone wasn't talking to him. Eight persons waited with him during most of the night.

When the office opened at 5 a.m. to take applications for picnic permits, there were about 50 persons waiting in line.

The picnic area that was so sought after was the Northwestern Woods Forest Preserve in Des Plaines.

OK Rezoning For Business Complex

The rezoning of 5.2 acres at River and Foundry roads in unincorporated Mount Prospect near Des Plaines for an apartment and business complex has been approved by the Cook County board.

THE PROPOSAL calls for the construction of a $2.5 million complex. Plans include the construction of a four-story apartment building that would have 72 apartment units and an underground parking facility. A second building would be made up of retail stores on the ground floor with 68 apartment units on the upper floors.

Also included in the plans are a professional building and a franchise-type restaurant.

the Supreme Court: Society of Friends, Episcopal, United Presbyterian, United Methodist, Greek Orthodox, Disciples of Christ, Lutheran Church in America, Church of The Brethren and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

THE POPE'S POSITION will make it possible for the nation's Catholic prelates to work as hard to save the lives of human beings, as they have on behalf of therapeutic abortions.

A handful of bolder Catholic leaders have publicly opposed capital punishment; such as the late Archbishop Bernard Shiel of Chicago and Boston's Richard Cardinal Cushing; as well as Jesuit Father Donald Campton. Pope Pius XII had justified capital punishment, if it can be proven that it acts as a deterrent to murder. So these pioneer Catholic abolitionists cited, among other things, the Uniform Crime Reports of the U.S. Department of Justice (which has itself opposed the death penalty). Year after year, these reports reveal that death penalty states have nearly twice the homicide rate of the 14 states who have virtually — or completely — abolished capital punishment.

There is another principal concern, which led to the abolition of the death penalty in Great Britain — an action backed by the overwhelming majority of the bishops of the Church of England. In 1967 Queen Elizabeth issued a full pardon to Timothy Evans — which came 17 years too late, since Evans was hanged in 1950 — by mistake.

This mistake had been "rectified" by hanging the Crown's chief witness, former police officer John Christie, who was found guilty of murdering Mrs. Timothy Evans and four other women. (Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1970)

Churches Versus Death Penalty

by LESTER KINSOLVING
"It just occurred to me that the Catholic Church is about the only major denomination that hasn't opposed capital punishment," explained Douglas Lyons of New York. "so I wrote the Pope."

Lyons is a Columbia University law student and son of columnist Leonard Lyons, who is chairman of a new organization called CALM (Citizens Against Legalized Murder).

He has received a letter from the Rev. Giovanni Benelli, undersecretary of state to Pope Paul, marked "From The Vatican." The letter explains that the death penalty was abolished in the Vatican City State, where it had never been utilized.

"This abolition was accomplished under the Signature of The Pope on June 21, 1969," explained Bishop Benelli's letter; which added, significantly:

"The thought of His Holiness on the matter is already clearly expressed in this action."

The Pontiff's position could have considerable influence upon Catholic bishops and other clergy in the increasing concern of U.S. church leaders over what could be an unprecedented wave of executions — depending upon the actions of the U.S. Supreme Court.

In mid-December, no less than 823 men and women were under sentence of death in the U.S. And it is the various decisions and stays issued by the Supreme Court which for most of them has meant the difference between life and death.

BUT THE COURT has two new justices appointed by President Nixon, who favors capital punishment. And if the effect of these new justices means that the court takes a new course, the resultant blood bath can be imagined only by comparison to South Africa.

The South African Council of Churches reported recently that within just three years, from 1966 to 1969, there were no less than 256 hangings — on one gallows, Pretoria's Central Prison — an average of one hanging every three days.

Nine major religious denominations have filed motions for leave to file briefs amici curiae (friend of the court) relating to the death penalty cases now before

Shoes For Casts

Born Of Necessity

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Mrs. Don Doak claims she is not an inventor. It's a lie.

Her idea for a makeshift shoe to fit the foot portion of a walking cast has no precedent.

"It was simply born of necessity, nothing else," said Mary Doak, a Mount Prospect resident. "I'm not an inventor."

When Mary fell down and broke a bone in her foot last winter in Terre Haute, Ind., where she was teaching English at Indiana State, she wasn't satisfied to wear only a cut-off sock over her chilled toes. It didn't look right. She didn't like it.

"I fooled around in desperation," she said, "just kept experimenting. The whole idea was purely accidental. It came of falling and requiring something."

AFTER A FEW unsuccessful attempts (clear plastic stapled together just didn't cut it), Mrs. Doak came up with a winner using about a fourth of a yard of material and several strips of velcro which allowed the unusual shoe to be adjustable both lengthwise and widthwise. Various trims and buckles offered a variety of looks for different occasions.

With a patent pending on the final pattern, Mrs. Doak tried using other fabrics, durable ones like corduroy or vinyl and elegant materials such as velvets.

"They take about half an hour to make," she said, "and the price would naturally depend upon the material used."

IN HER HOMEMADE shoe Mrs. Doak created a small sensation when she stood in front of her classes lecturing or rambling down the aisles grocery shopping. It was the bemused glances and requests that convinced Mrs. Doak to check into the marketing possibilities.

Besides keeping the cast dry, always a hazard as any present or former cast captive will readily admit, the fabric shoe also keeps dirt and muck from building up on the underside.

when Mrs. Doak herself needed a foot cover after falling down and breaking a bone in her foot. She makes the shoes in half an hour.

Naturally it's not the same as wearing matching shoes, but when one is confined to a cast, certain sacrifices have to be made. Mary Doak's invention is a step up in the world of broken bones and plaster of paris.

by MARY SHERRY

Throughout several years of parenthood, my husband and I have never had an argument about the upbringing of our children. Having reached a meeting of minds on the discipline, responsibilities and privileges that our children should have, we are grateful that this potential source of arguments has never developed.

I only wish that this were so about our dog.

Almost daily my husband and I get into terrible arguments over how the dog should be brought up. This situation was intensified when we saw a dog psychiatrist interviewed on a television news program.

"See! See! I've been telling you!" I said to my husband as I leaned toward the TV to hear what the dog psychiatrist was saying. "You've been too hard on that poor baby."

"POOR BABY," nothing. She's pulled over the Christmas tree twice, and you call her a poor baby! You're making a spoiled beast out of her," he grumbled.

"I am not. I just believe in the gentle approach," I said defensively.

"Well, I certainly don't advocate beating her with a spiked club," he growled, "but a rolled up newspaper might . . ."

"Sally, dear," I crooned to the dog. "Would you mind getting out of the garbage?" I could hear her foraging for a discarded meat wrapper.

My husband rolled up his newspaper and headed for the kitchen and the dog.

"Don't hit her!" I shouted, throwing myself between him and the dog.

THIS WAS only one of many such scenes. In the meantime, the dog, not particularly high strung to begin with, has developed a nervous tic and frequently sucks her paw.

I have surveyed several of my dog-owning friends in defense of my position, and I found that similar situations exist in many families.

"Just like the kids, the dog doesn't pay any attention to what I say after 3 p.m.," a neighbor told me with resignation. "So when my husband walks into bedlam at 6 p.m., he thinks I haven't disciplined the kids OR the dog all day."

Another friend admitted how the dog

runs away from her when her husband isn't home. So she shakes her dust mop out the door. The dog can't resist grabbing it, so she drags it inside by the teeth.

MY OWN mother, who brought me up with an iron hand, lures her willful dog inside by calling, "Bologna! Bologna!" Everyone in her neighborhood thinks that's the dog's name. But it's just his favorite food.

Maybe my husband is right, and a stronger hand should be taken in canine discipline. I haven't asked him yet, but perhaps his concern is more than just for the upbringing of our lone pet. Maybe if we do follow the lead of permissive dog psychiatrists, in the next generation (canine, that is) adolescent pups will be protesting service in the K-9 Corps, refusing leftovers and blowing their mounds consuming grass.

I resolve that I will be a firmer disciplinarian with our animal. After all, if the world is going to the dogs, we must admit to our heavy responsibility.

Health Insurance At Record High

The Health Insurance Institute reported today that seven out of every eight people in the United States own some form of private health insurance.

The figure is based on the Health Insurance Council's 24th annual survey of national health coverage.

According to the survey, a record 175 million were insured through private insuring organizations at the start of this year, an increase of nearly six million, or more than three per cent, over last year.

At the same time, private health insurance benefits to policyholders reached an estimated high of $13.5 billion. This represents a gain of more than $1 billion in benefits — the largest one-year increase in private health insurance history.

A breakdown of these benefits shows that insurance companies paid $7.6 billion (including disability insurance benefits) while Blue Cross, Blue Shield and other hospital-medical plans paid the remainder.

PERSONS COVERED by private health insurance received $7.85 billion toward hospital bills and more than $4 billion for surgical, medical and dental fees.

Overall, the increase in total hospital expense payments was close to $785 million, while the increase in surgical, dental and medical expense benefits was $265 million.

The Institute said there were increases in all categories in both benefits and the number of people protected.

For example, surgical expense which helps pay the cost of operations was owned by an additional 6 million people to bring to 162 million those protected by this insurance at the start of 1970.

Medical expense insurance, which helps pay the cost of operations was owned by 135 million people, up from 129 million.

MAJOR MEDICAL expense insurance, the type that helps pay for virtually all care and treatment prescribed by a physician, was owned by 72 million persons — an increase of more than 5 million.

The HIC survey also showed that 57 million people, an increase of two million, owned short-term disability income protection. This insurance protects for up to two years. Long term (over two years) was owned by nine million.

Disability income insurance provides a person with a regular income — usually between 50 to 60 per cent of his normal income — when he becomes ill or injured and cannot work.

According to the survey figures, here is how insurance company benefits were distributed last year:

—Hospital expense insurance — $3.7 billion, an increase of $400 million.

—Surgical and medical expense insurance — $2.3 billion, a $313 million rise.

—Disability income insurance — $1.6 billion, an increase of almost $164 million.

Dons Survive Scare To Post 9th Victory

After getting a good scare from a hot shooting East Leyden contingent in the third quarter, Notre Dame pulled away midway through the fourth period to win its ninth game in 10 decisions 76-68.

The Dons saw an eight-point lead dwindle down to one in the third period as East Leyden solved the Notre Dame press and came down the floor for numerous easy shots. Notre Dame had a 32-24 lead going into the third quarter and left the period with only a 52-51 advantage.

Notre Dame employed a half-court press instead of a full court press in the fourth quarter which worked quite effectively. Within five minutes the Dons raised their lead from one point to 10.

During the last three minutes of action the Dons slowed the tempo of the game down and came away with an eight-point victory.

The press bothered East Leyden throughout the first quarter as Notre Dame built a 16-6 lead. The two squads exchanged baskets throughout the second quarter as the Dons took a 32-24 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

Four Dons scored in double figures with Tom Les getting 19, Bill Faber 19, Greg Strattan 17 and Bill Abraham 14. John Hillinger's eight points rounded out the Notre Dame scoring.

Hillinger paced the Dons in rebounding with 10 while Strattan and Abraham had eight each. The Dons also showed a marked improvement in free throw shooting compared to the past couple of weeks, making good on 22 out of 28 tries.

Notre Dame has two Suburban Catholic Conference clashes on tap for this weekend. The Dons will go against St. Patrick, a fellow Eastern Division foe, on Friday at 8 p.m. and against Western Division foe Montini at 8 p.m.

Loudest Outbursts

The biggest point total scored in one game during the entire 1968-70 National Basketball Association season was 57 by Lou Hudson of the Atlanta Hawks against the Chicago Bulls on Nov. 10. Second highest single-game total was Lew Alcindor's 51 for the Milwaukee Bucks against the Seattle Super Sonics Feb. 21.

Strong Finish

Down the stretch was the time the Chicago Bulls were at their best last season, when they were making their final, successful bid to make the playoffs. The Bulls won seven and lost three in March, better than their record during any other month. Their worst month was December when they were only 4-11.

Waukegan Tips Travelers

It's too bad it didn't snow harder. Then, maybe the game would have been postponed, and the Northwest Travelers could have tried again some other time. However, the Continental Basketball Association game was played Sunday evening in Waukegan, and the news — just like the weather — wasn't good for the Travelers.

It would have been a good night to stay home.

Host Waukegan, with only five players in uniform for the first nine minutes, picked up two more as the game progressed and pulled out a thrilling 138-132 victory over Northwest.

With 30 seconds remaining Waukegan held a two-point lead. Northwest's Eddie Modestas fouled Tim Robinson and Robinson hit both throws to put the game out of reach for the Wizards.

The snow storm hit both teams with only six scoring for the Travelers and seven for Waukegan.

Although it was a home game, most of the Waukegan players live out of the immediate area, mostly in Milwaukee, and couldn't get to the game because of the road conditions. Two did arrive late in the first quarter to give the regulars some rest.

With only 100 people looking on, Waukegan jumped out to a quick 11-2 lead Sunday. The Travelers cut the margin to 17-14, but the Wizards reeled out to a 35-19 bulge with 2:40 left in the first quarter.

Waukegan held a 66-63 lead at the intermission and was on top by only four points after three stanzas. Both clubs went on a scoring spree in the final quarter, combining for 84 points, but Waukegan had the needed firepower in the closing, decisive seconds.

The first meeting of the CBA's two Chicago-area teams turned into a scoring duel between the Wizards' Ric Cobb, who survived until the final cut with the Phoenix Suns, and the Travelers' 6-foot-10 Paul Ruffner, who is under contract with the Chicago Bulls.

Ruffner had 43 points for Northwest, hitting 20 baskets and three free throws. Cobb had 42 points and pulled down 18 rebounds.

Also contributing to the Travelers' attack were Modestas and A. W. Holt with 22 each, Dennis Dickens with 20, Joe Jackson with 14, and Sev Brown with 11.
